rupt's discharge, as a consideration or to the intent to persuade him, her, or them to consent to or sign any such allowance certificate, should be wholly void and of no effect, and the monies there secured or agreed to be paid should not be recovered recoverable: And that by an Act, 45 Geo. 3. c. 72, intituled, 'An Act for the Encouragement of Seamen, and for the better more effectually manning His Majesty's Navy during the present War,' it was enacted, that all contracts and agreements should be entered into, and all bills, notes, and other securities which should be given, by any person or persons for or on behalf of any ship or vessel, or of any merchandize or goods on board the same, contrary to that Act, should be absolutely void in law, and of no effect whatsoever: And that by an Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 16, intituled, 'An Act to amend the relating to Bankrupts,' it was enacted, that any contract or security made or given by any bankrupt or other person or in trust for any creditor, or for securing the payment of any money due by such bankrupt, at his bankruptcy, as a consideration or with intent to persuade such creditor to consent to or sign the certificate of any such bankrupt, should be void and the money thereby secured or agreed to be paid should not be recoverable, and the party sued on such contract or security might plead the general issue, and give that Act and the special matter in evidence: And that securities and instruments made void by virtue of the several hereinbefore recited Acts, 16 Car. 2, 10 Will. 3, 9 and 11 Ann., 11 & 12 Geo. 3, 13 and 6 Geo. 4, and securities and instruments made void by virtue of the said Act, 12 Ann., and the 5 Geo. 2, other bills of exchange or promissory notes made valid by the said Act, 58 Geo. 3, are sometimes indorsed, transferred, assigned, conveyed to purchasers, or other persons for a valuable consideration, without notice of the original consideration for which securities or instruments were given; and the avoidance of such securities or instruments in the hands of such purchasers or other persons is often attended with great hardship and injustice: For remedy thereof—

It is Enacted,

That so much of the hereinbefore recited Acts, 16 Car. 2, 10 Will. 3., 9, 11, and 12 Ann., 5 Geo. 2, 11 & 12 and 45 Geo. 3, and 6 Geo. 4, as enacts that any note, bill, or mortgage shall be absolutely void, shall be and the same is hereby repealed; but nevertheless every note, bill, or mortgage which if this Act had not been passed would, by virtue of the said lastly hereinbefore mentioned Acts or any of them, have been absolutely void, shall be deemed and taken to have been drawn, accepted, given, or executed for an illegal consideration, and the said several Acts shall have the same force and effect which they would respectively have had if instead of enacting that any such note, bill, or mortgage should be absolutely void such Acts had respectively provided that every such note, bill, or mortgage should be deemed and taken to have been drawn, accepted, given, or executed for an illegal consideration: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall repeal or affect any note, bill, or mortgage which would have been good and valid if this Act had not been passed.

That in case any person shall, after the passing of this Act, make, draw, give, or execute any note, bill, or mortgage for consideration on account of which the same is by the hereinbefore recited Acts, 16 Car. 2, 10 Will. 3, and 9 and 11 Ann., or any one or more of such Acts, declared to be void, and such person shall actually pay to any indorsee, holder, or assignee of such note, bill, or mortgage the amount of the money thereby secured, or any part thereof, such money so paid shall be deemed and taken to have been paid for and on account of the person to whom such note, bill, or mortgage was originally given upon such illegal consideration as aforesaid, and shall be deemed and taken to be a debt due and owing from such last-mentioned person to the person who shall so have paid such money, and shall accordingly be recoverable by action at law in any Majesty's courts of record.

That so much of the said Acts, 9 and 11 Ann., as enacts that where such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances are mentioned should be of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or should be such as should incumber or affect the same, such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances should enure and be to and for the sole use and benefit of and should devolve upon such person or persons as should or might have or be entitled to such lands or hereditaments in case the grantor or grantee thereof, or the person or persons incumbering the same, had been naturally dead, and as if such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances had been made to such person or persons so to be entitled after the decease of the person or persons so incumbering the same, and that all grants or conveyances to be made for the preventing of such lands, tenements, or hereditaments from coming to or devolving upon such person or persons thereby intended to enjoy the same as aforesaid, should be deemed and taken to be void and of none effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, shall be and the same is hereby repealed; saving nevertheless all rights acquired by virtue thereof previously to the passing of this Act.

That this Act may be altered or repealed by any other Act during this present session of Parliament.

CAP. XLII.

(31st August 1835.)

By this Act,

reciting that by an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 24, intituled, 'An Act to alter, amend, and consolidate the Laws for regulating the Pensions, Compensation, and Allowances to be made to Persons in respect of their having held Offices in His Majesty's Service,' it is enacted, that the Superannuation Allowances authorized by that Act shall extend to all such civil and military departments as are set forth and enumerated in the Schedule to that Act annexed, and that it should be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, by any order or warrant under the hands of any three or more of them, to add to the list of offices and departments enumerated in the said Schedule any other offices which then existed or might thereafter be created or established, and to place the same and the officers and persons employed therein under the provisions of that Act: And power was thereby given to the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, in case it should appear to them that any special circumstances afforded to any officer or clerk in the several offices or departments mentioned in the Schedule Act, or in the addition authorized to be made thereto, a just claim to an amount of superannuation allowance not authorized by the Act, or exceeding the amount therein specified with reference to the length of his services, to grant or give any superannuation allowance to any officer or clerk should appear to them to deserve; and it was further provided and enacted, that nothing in that Act contained should authorize the adding to such lists any officers in any of His Majesty's Courts at Westminster or Dublin, or any other His Majesty's courts of justice elsewhere: And that by an Act, 1 Geo. 4, intituled, 'An Act for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors in England,' it was enacted that it should be lawful for His Majesty to appoint a chief and two other Commissioners for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors, to preside in a court to be called "The Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors," and certain officers of such court were to be appointed as therein mentioned, and that the Act was afterwards continued and amended, and further provisions made in relation to said court, by certain other Acts of Parliament: and that by an Act, 1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. 59, intituled, 'An Act for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors in Ireland,' the Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland were empowered to appoint any number of persons not exceeding two, being barristers at law of ten years standing at the least, to be His Majesty's Commissioners for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors in Ireland, to preside in a court to be called "The Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors," to be held at such place in Dublin as should be appointed for that purpose by the order of the Lord Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland for the time being, the salary of each of such Commissioners to be paid out of the Consolidated Fund, as was provided in such Act: And that no provision has been made by the said Acts made in the reign of His late Majesty for granting superannuation allowance to any Commissioner or officer of the said courts respectively, and doubts have been entertained whether any such superannuation allowance can be now granted under the provisions of the said in part recited Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4, in consequence of the exceptions therein contained as to officers in any of His Majesty's Courts of Justice at Westminster or Dublin; and it is expedient to provide for the granting of such superannuation allowance:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Courts of Justice by any warrant under the hands of any three or more of them, to grant to any Commissioners of the said courts respectively from age or infirmity of body or mind shall be incapable of discharging the duties of his office, or whose office shall be abolished by law, or cease in consequence of the expiration of any Act of Parliament, a superannuation allowance equal to such portion of the amount of the salary and emoluments of his office as they shall think fit, and to grant to any of the officers of the said courts respectively who shall be from age or infirmity of mind or body incapable of discharging the duties of his office, or whose office shall cease or be abolished as aforesaid, a superannuation allowance, in the same manner and upon the same conditions as it could or might now be granted under the provisions of the said in part recited Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4, if the provisions of the said courts respectively were mentioned in the Schedule to that Act annexed.

II. Provided always, That a statement of the amount of such superannuation allowance, and the names of the persons to whom it was granted, shall be laid before Parliament within one month after the granting thereof, in case Parliament shall be then sitting, and in case Parliament shall not be then sitting, within one month after the next meeting of Parliament.

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, by and with the concurrence of His Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, from time to time, as occasion shall require, to order and direct that an Extraordinary Court of General Sessions of the Peace shall be holden in and for any county in Ireland, at such place or places therein, and at such times as such Lord Lieutenant and Council may deem proper; and such Lord Lieutenant shall thereupon nominate and appoint one of His Majesty's serjeants or counsel to preside at any such sessions or any adjournment thereof, and act as chairman and such serjeant or counsel, so long as he shall continue to hold the said office, shall, without further appointment or nomination have all the powers of a Justice of the Peace, and be to all intents and purposes a Justice of the Peace in, of, and for the county in which such Extraordinary Court of Sessions of the Peace shall be holden, and shall receive such sum, not exceeding 10*l.* 10*s.* for each day during which he shall be so engaged, as to such Lord Lieutenant shall seem fit.

2. That each such Court shall have and exercise all rights, powers, jurisdictions, privileges, authorities, functions, capacities appertaining, incident, or belonging to any Court of oyer and terminer and general gaol delivery, or Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, provided that no person shall be indicted or tried before such Court.

rendering the person convicted thereof liable to the punishment of death; and that every Justice of the Peace, coroner, of the crown, and clerk of the peace, and other person who may have any recognizance, information, inquisition, examination, deposition, or other document which would have been returnable to the next Court of oyer and terminer and general gaol delivery or general or quarter sessions for the same county, shall return the same to the said Extraordinary Court holden in pursuance of such order and direction, if relating to any offence or matter cognizable by such Court; and that sheriffs, clerks of the crown and of the peace, constables, and other officers, bound to attend at any sessions of the peace or assizes, shall be in like manner bound to attend at such Courts to be holden under the provisions of this Act, and obey the orders thereof.

Provided, That the clerk of the peace for the county in which any such Extraordinary Court of Sessions shall be directed to be holden under the authority of this Act shall cause the time and place appointed for holding the same to be notified in the manner of notifying the holding of General or Quarter Sessions, or adjournments thereof, or otherwise as the said Lord Lieutenant shall direct; and that the necessary and proper expenses to be thereby incurred shall be raised by presentment of the grand jury at the assizes of the county, in like manner as the other expenses incurred in the discharge of the necessary and usual duties of such clerk of the peace are defrayed.

That each such Extraordinary Court of Sessions shall continue to sit, and shall adjourn from time to time and place to place as may be convenient, until such day as shall be specified for the termination thereof in and by a like order to be made by the said Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in council; and that for the purposes of each such session, and during the continuance thereof, such precepts, writs, warrants, processes, and other means for enforcing the attendance thereof of grand jurors, witnesses, traversers, offenders, and other persons, shall and may be issued and returned, and juries impanelled, in like manner as in ordinary cases of proceeding at any court of criminal jurisdiction: Provided always, that the names of persons returned to serve on the grand jury at any such session shall be taken from the "Special Jurors List" of such county.

Reciting that infractions of the law and violations of the public peace are frequently contrived and committed by nocturnal assemblies of disorderly persons, and it is desirable to provide under proper regulations some check to such meetings:—

It is Enacted,

That if the grand jury impanelled at any such sessions to be holden under this Act shall make a presentment to the effect that a necessity exists for taking measures to suppress nocturnal meetings, such presentment shall be transmitted by the clerk of the peace to the said Lord Lieutenant, together with the opinion of the court thereon; and it shall and may be thereupon lawful for the said Lord Lieutenant, with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, to authorize and direct such Court to issue a notice to the inhabitants of such county, or any part thereof, or of any adjacent county to be specified therein, to be made and returned within their respective lodgings and habitations at all hours between one hour after sunset and sunrise, from and to such day as shall be named and specified therein for that purpose, and warning them that all persons who may be found absent from their respective habitations during such hours, save upon some lawful and proper occasion, will be liable to be punished as guilty of an offence under the provisions of this Act; and such notice shall be printed and posted on some conspicuous place in each town and village within each barony or half barony of such county, or if the same be a county of a town, on the principal places for posting notices within the same.

vi. That the inhabitants of every parish maintaining its own highways, at their first meeting in vestry for the nomination of overseers of the poor in every year, shall proceed to the election of one or more persons to serve the office of surveyor of the said parish for the year then next ensuing: Provided always, that any outgoing surveyor shall continue to act until his successor shall be appointed, and shall be re-eligible, and may be re-elected, and shall in such case continue to act and repair the office, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding; and in such case notice of such election shall be given by the chairman to the person elected and to the outgoing surveyor: Provided always, that in any parish where there be no meeting in the year for the nomination of overseers of the poor, the inhabitants contributing to the highway rate shall at their usual place of public meeting upon the 25th of March, or if that should happen to be a Sunday or Good Friday, on the day next following, or within fourteen days next after the said 25th of March in every year, to elect one or more persons to serve the office of surveyor for the said parish; which surveyor shall repair and keep in repair the several highways of the said parish for which he is appointed, and which are now or hereafter may become liable to be repaired by the said parish.

ix. That, instead of electing such surveyor as hereinbefore mentioned, it shall be lawful for the majority of the inhabitants so assembled as aforesaid in any parish for the election of surveyors as aforesaid to nominate and elect any one person of age and experience to serve the said office of surveyor of such parish, and to fix such salary for the execution of such office as they shall think fit; which said appointment shall be in writing on paper without stamp, and signed by the chairman of such assembly; and such surveyor, when so appointed, shall be invested with the same powers, and subject to the same duties, liabilities, and penalties as any surveyor appointed under the authority of this Act would have been; and such salary shall be paid out of the money raised under the authority of this Act, at such times and in such manner as shall have been agreed between the inhabitants so assembled as aforesaid and the person so nominated and elected as aforesaid: Provided nevertheless, that if such surveyor shall cease to act, and be dismissed in the manner hereinafter described, such salary shall in the like manner cease and determine.

It is Enacted,

It is Enacted,

XLVIII. That in such cases it shall and may be lawful for the surveyor of such parish for the time being, by the consent of the vestry, and he is hereby authorized and required, with the consent in writing of the Justices of the Peace at special sessions for the highways, to sell and convey to some person whose lands adjoin thereto, or, if he refuse to do so, to any other person, the said parcels of land from which the said materials have been so exhausted as aforesaid, at a price as the said Justices may deem fair and reasonable, and with the money arising therefrom, and with such other lands as aforesaid, to purchase other lands in lieu thereof.

XLIX. That it shall be in the power of tenants for life, ecclesiastical and lay corporations, and the proprietors of estates, and of the trustees and guardians of any person under any legal disability or incapacity, to give up and renounce claim of damage or compensation for such ground and materials as any highway may occupy on their respective property: that such renunciation shall be equally binding on the heirs and successors of such persons: Provided nevertheless, that such renunciation of claim of damage or compensation be in writing, and signed by such tenant for life, proprietor, trustee, or guardian, in the presence of two witnesses, or in the case of corporations in such manner and form as is usually adopted by corporations respectively; and such renunciation shall be enrolled at the Quarter Sessions which shall be held next after the signing or execution thereof.

L. That when any lands or tenements have been or shall be given for maintenance of highways, the profits and proceeds to be applied and disposed of for no other use, intent, or purpose whatsoever, all persons who are or shall be entitled to such lands or tenements shall and they are hereby authorized and required to let them to farm at the most advantageous yearly value, without fine, for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years: Provided nevertheless, that previous to the giving of such lease the consent of the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, neither of such Justices being present, by writing under their hands, shall be obtained as to the amount of rent to be received and the duration of the lease.

That it shall and may be lawful for every such surveyor, in any waste land or common ground, river or brook, within the parish for which he shall be surveyor, or within any other parish wherein gravel, sand, stone, or other materials are respectively to be found, (in case sufficient cannot be conveniently had within the parish where the same are to be employed, sufficient shall be left for the use of the roads in such other parish,) to search for, dig, get, and carry away the same, so that he said surveyor doth not thereby divert or interrupt the course of such river or brook, or prejudice or damage any building, highway, or ford, nor dig or get the same out of any river or brook within the distance of one hundred and fifty feet above or below any bridge, nor within the like distance of any dam or weir; and likewise to gather stones lying upon any lands or grounds within the parish where such highway shall be, for such service and purpose, and to take and carry away so much of such materials as by the discretion of the said surveyor shall be thought necessary to be employed in the amendment of the highways, without making any satisfaction for the said materials, but satisfaction shall be made for all damages done to the lands or grounds of any person or persons by carrying away the same, in the manner hereinafter directed for getting and carrying away materials in inclosed lands or grounds; but no such stones shall be gathered without the consent of the owner of such lands or grounds, or a licence for that purpose from two Justices at a special sessions for the highways, after having summoned such owner to come before him, and heard his reasons, if he shall appear and give any, for refusing his consent.

That nothing in this Act contained relative to the gathering or getting of stones or other materials shall extend to any stones or other materials thrown up by the sea, commonly called beach, where the removal of the same would cause damage or injury by inundation to the lands adjoining, or increased danger of encroachment by the sea.

That it shall not be lawful for any surveyor, or any other person acting under the authority of this Act, to dig, gather, or carry away any materials for making or repairing any highway out of or from any inclosed land or ground, until a month's notice in writing, signed by the surveyor, shall have been given to the owner of the premises from which the materials are intended to be taken, or to his owner agent, and to the occupier of the premises from which such materials are intended to be taken, or left at the house or last or usual place of abode of such owner or agent, and also of such occupier, at least seven days before the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, to shew cause why such materials shall not be had thereof in case such owner, agent, or occupier shall attend pursuant to such notice, but shall not shew sufficient cause to the Justices, such Justices shall, if they think proper, authorize such surveyor or other person to dig, get, gather, take, and carry away such materials at such time or times as to such Justices shall seem proper; and if such owner, agent, or occupier shall refuse to appear by himself or his agent, the said Justices shall and may (upon proof on oath of the service of such notice) make such order therein as they shall think fit as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if such owner or agent, or his agent, had attended.

That it shall be lawful for every such surveyor, for the use aforesaid, by licence in writing from the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, to search for, dig, and get materials, if sufficient cannot be had conveniently within such waste lands or common grounds, rivers, or brooks, in or through any of the several or inclosed lands or grounds of any person whom-(such lands or grounds not being a garden, yard, avenue to a house, lawn, park, paddock, or inclosed plantation, or wood not exceeding one hundred acres in extent,) within the parish where the same shall be wanted, or within any parish adjoining or lying near to the highway for which such materials shall be required, if it shall appear to such Justices that sufficient materials cannot be conveniently had in the parish where such highways lie, or in the waste lands or common grounds, rivers or brooks of such adjacent parish, and that a sufficient quantity of materials will be left for the use of the roads in the same parish, and to take and carry away so much of the said materials as by the discretion of the said Justices shall be thought necessary to be employed in the amendment of the said highways; the said surveyor making such satisfaction for the materials which may be got or taken away, and also for the damage done to such lands or grounds by the carrying away the same, as shall be settled and ascertained by order of the Justices at a special sessions for the highways.

That if any surveyor or person employed by him shall, by reason of the searching for, digging, or getting any materials for the amendment of any highways, make any pit or hole in lands, common grounds, rivers, or brooks as aforesaid wherein such materials shall be found, he shall forthwith cause the same to be sufficiently fenced off, and such fence supported and repaired as often as shall be required, so that such time as the said pit or hole shall continue open, and within three days after such pit or hole shall be opened or made, if no materials shall be found, cause the same to be forthwith filled up, levelled, and covered with the turf or clod dug out of the same, and where any such materials shall be found, within fourteen days after having dug up sufficient materials in such pit or hole, cause the same to be filled up or sloped down, and fenced off, if required by the owner of such land or ground, and so continued; and every surveyor shall within twenty-one days after he shall have been appointed to survey any highway, or to amend any highway, cause all the said pits and holes which shall then be open and not likely to be further useful to be filled up or sloped down in the manner aforesaid, and if they are likely to be further useful he shall secure the same by posts and rails or other fences, and shall be answerable for any accidents to persons or cattle; and in case such surveyor or person shall neglect to fill up, slope down, or fence off such pit or hole in manner and within the time aforesaid, he shall forfeit the sum of 10s. for every such default; and in case such surveyor or person shall neglect to fence off such pit or hole, or to slope down the same, as hereinbefore directed, for the first offence, he shall be liable to be fined by the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, or from the owner or occupier of such several ground, river, or brook, or any person having right of common within such common or waste land or ground, and such neglect and offence shall be proved upon oath before the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, and the surveyor, person or persons, shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 10l. for such neglect, to be determined by the Justices, and to be laid out and applied in the fencing off, filling up, or sloping down such pit or hole, and the repair of the roads in the parish where the offence shall be committed, in such manner as the said Justices shall think fit, and appoint; which forfeiture, in case the same be not forthwith paid, shall be levied as other forfeitures are by law directed to be levied.

That if any surveyor or district surveyor shall lay or cause to be laid any heap of stone or any other matter or thing upon any highway, and allow the same to remain there at night to the danger or personal damage of any person passing thereon, all due and reasonable precaution not having been taken by the said surveyor to guard against the same, shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding 5*l*.

XVII. That if any surveyor shall dig or cause to be dug materials for the highways, whereby any bridge, mill, building, highway, occupation road, ford, mines, or tin works, or other work, may be damaged or endangered, he shall forfeit for such offence, on conviction, any sum not exceeding 5*l*., at the discretion of the Justices before whom the complaint shall be made, notwithstanding his liability to any civil action to which he may make himself liable by such act.

And after reciting that it frequently happens that the boundaries of parishes pass across or through the middle of a highway, and one side of such highway is situated in one parish, and the other side in another parish, whereby great inconveniences often arise in repairing the same;—

It is Enacted,

XVIII. That the Justices at a special sessions for the highways, on complaint of any surveyor of any parish, (in writing, and on a plan thereunto annexed, that there is such a highway, one side whereof ought to be repaired by one parish, and the other side by another, and particularly describing the same by metes, bounds, and admeasurement thereof,) and their summons, with a copy of such writing and plan thereunto annexed, to the surveyor of such other parish, to appear before them on a day mentioned in such summons; and if the parties appear such Justices may then proceed finally to determine the matter, in manner herein mentioned, in case all the parties shall consent thereto; but in case the surveyor summoned shall not appear on such first summons, or appearing shall require further time, such Justices shall adjourn the further consideration of the matter for any further time, not more than twenty-one days nor less than fourteen days from the date of such summons, of which the surveyor not appearing, or appearing shall require further time, shall have notice, on which day the Justices shall proceed to hear the parties and their witnesses, and, whether the party summoned does or does not appear, shall proceed to examine and finally determine the matter in form following; (that is to say,) that it shall and may be lawful for such Justices and they are hereby required to divide the whole of such common highway, by a transverse line crossing the highway, into equal parts, or into such unequal parts and proportions as, in consideration of the soil waters, floods, and other circumstances attending the same, they in their discretion shall think just and reasonable, and to declare, adjudge, and order that the whole of such highway on both sides thereof, in any of such parts, shall be maintained and repaired by one of such parishes, and that the whole thereof on both sides in the other of such parts shall be maintained and repaired by the other of such parishes, and shall cause such their order, and a plan of such highway, and the division thereof as before mentioned, to be fairly delineated on paper or parchment, and filed with the clerk of the peace of the county in which such highway shall happen to lie, and shall also cause such posts, stones, or other boundaries to be placed at such intervals as shall be necessary for ascertaining the division and allotment thereof: Provided that in the case of any such last-mentioned highway, the repair of any part of which belongs to any body corporate, or to any person, by the reason of tenure of any lands, or otherwise howsoever, the same proceedings shall be adopted, but the said body politic or corporate, or person, or some one on their behalf, may appear before such Justices to object to such last-mentioned proceedings, in which case the said Justices shall, before they divide such highway as aforesaid, hear and consider the objection so made, and determine the same.

LIX. That from and after such order and plan shall be so filed with the clerk of the peace as aforesaid, such body politic or corporate, or person aforesaid respectively, shall be bound as of common right to maintain and keep such parts of such highways so allotted to them as aforesaid, and shall be liable to be proceeded against for neglect of duty, and shall in all respects whatsoever be liable and subject to all the provisions, regulations and penalties contained in the Highway Act, and also shall be discharged from the repair of such part of such highway as shall not be included in their allotment.

LX. That all costs, charges, and expenses to be incurred by reason of any of the proceedings last mentioned shall be and defrayed by such two parishes, or body politic or corporate, or person aforesaid, the same being settled and ascertained and duly apportioned between such parishes by such Justices; and in case the said parties shall refuse or neglect to discharge their respective share of such costs and expenses, it shall and may be lawful for the Justices at a special sessions for the highways to levy the same by distress and sale, with costs of such distress, on the goods and chattels of any such parish, or of any body politic or corporate, or person aforesaid, so refusing or neglecting to defray such costs as aforesaid.

LXI. That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to affect, change, or alter in any manner whatsoever any boundaries of counties, lordships, hundreds, manors, or any other division of public or private property, or boundaries of any parishes or townships, otherwise than for the purpose of amending and keeping in repair such portion of the highway in the manner herein mentioned.

LXII. That any body politic or corporate, or any person, liable to repair any highway by reason of tenure of any lands, or otherwise howsoever, or the surveyor of the parish in which the said highway is situate, may, if he or either party shall so require, having first obtained the consent of the inhabitants in vestry assembled, apply to any Justice for the purpose of having the said highway a parish highway, and to be repaired by the surveyor of the said parish; and the said Justice is hereby authorized and required to issue his summons, requiring the said surveyor, or the party so liable to repair the said highway, to appear before the Justices at the next special sessions for the highways, and if both parties appear such Justices shall then proceed to determine the matter; but in case the surveyor or party summoned shall not appear on such first summons, or appearing shall require further time, such Justices shall adjourn the further consideration of the matter to the next special sessions for the highways, of which the said surveyor or party not appearing shall have notice, on which day the Justices assembled at such special sessions shall proceed to hear the parties and their witnesses, and whether the surveyor summoned do or do not appear, shall proceed to examine and determine the matter; and in case they decide that the highway shall become a parish highway, and be thereafter repaired by the surveyor of the said parish, they shall, by an order shall, in the proportion of the expenses of repairing the said highway to be annually paid by such body politic or corporate person as aforesaid to the surveyor of the said parish; and the order of the said Justices shall be binding on the surveyor of the said parish and the said body politic or corporate person as aforesaid, their heirs, successors, and assigns: Provided, that the said Justices, instead of fixing the proportion of the expenses of repairing the said highway to be annually paid, may, by an order under their hands, fix a certain sum to be paid by such body politic or corporate person as aforesaid to the surveyor of the said parish in full discharge of all claims thereafter in respect of the repairs of such highway; and in default of payment of such last-mentioned sum or of such annual sum as aforesaid the said surveyor may sue for the recovery thereof in the same manner as any penalties and forfeitures are recoverable under this Act: Provided, that when the sum so fixed to be paid in full discharge of all claims thereafter in respect of the repair of such highway shall exceed the sum of 100*l.*, the said sum when received shall be vested, in the name of the minister, churchwardens, and vestry of the highways of the parish within which such highway shall be situate, in some public government securities, and the interest and dividends from time to time arising or accruing therefrom shall be applied towards the repairs of the highways within the said parish: Provided also, that when the sum so fixed to be paid in full discharge of all claims as aforesaid shall not exceed the sum of 100*l.*, the said last-mentioned sum, or any part thereof, on the application by and with the consent of the inhabitants of the parish in vestry assembled, and of the Justices in special sessions assembled, shall and may be applied towards the repair of the highways within the said parish.

That where in this Act any matter or thing is directed or forbidden to be done within a certain distance of the centre of a highway, that portion of ground shall be deemed and taken to be the highway which has been maintained by the surveyor, and repaired with stones or other materials used in forming highways, for the six months immediately preceding the said survey, and the centre of the highway shall be the middle of such highway, where a line being drawn along the highway, or marked, an equal number of feet of highway which have been so maintained and repaired as aforesaid for twelve months shall be found on each side of such line or mark.

That no tree, bush, or shrub shall hereafter be planted on any carriageway or cartway, or within the distance of fifteen feet from the centre thereof; but the same shall respectively be cut down, grubbed up, and carried away by the owner or occupier of the land or soil within twenty-one days after notice to him or his agent by the surveyor, on pain of forfeiting for every offence the sum of 10*s.*

That if the surveyor shall think that any carriageway or cartway is prejudiced by the shade of any hedges, or by any other trees, except those trees planted for ornament or for shelter to any hop ground, house, building, or court yard of the owner thereof, growing in or near such hedges or other fences, and that the sun and wind are excluded from such highway, to the injury of the same, or if any obstruction is caused in any carriageway or cartway by any hedge or tree, it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, on the application of the said surveyor, to summon the owner of the land on which such hedges or trees are growing next adjoining to such carriageway or cartway to appear before the Justices at a special sessions for the purpose to shew cause why the said hedges are not cut, pruned, or plashed, or such trees not pruned or lopped, in such manner as the said Justices shall direct: and if the said carriage-way or cartway shall not be prejudiced by the shade thereof, and that the sun and wind may not be excluded from such carriageway or cartway to the damage thereof, or why the obstruction caused in such carriageway or cartway should not be removed; and the question as to the cutting, pruning, or plashing such hedges, or the pruning and lopping such trees, or the removal of such obstruction as aforesaid, shall, upon proof of the service of such summons, and whether the owner attend or not, be determined at the discretion of such last-mentioned Justices; and if such Justices shall order that such hedges shall be cut, pruned, or plashed, or such trees pruned or lopped, in manner aforesaid, or such obstruction removed, the said owner shall comply therewith within ten days after a copy of such order shall have been left at the place of abode of the said owner or of his steward or agent, and in default thereof shall forfeit, on conviction, a sum not exceeding 40*s.*; and the said surveyor, if the order of the said Justices is not complied with, shall and he is hereby authorized to require to cut, prune, or plash such hedges, and to prune and lop such trees, for the benefit and improvement of the highway, and to remove such obstruction as aforesaid, to the best of his skill and judgment, and according to the true intent and meaning of this Act; and the said surveyor shall be reimbursed by the owner as aforesaid what charges and expenses he shall incur in cutting, pruning, and plashing such hedges, and pruning and lopping such trees, and the removal of such obstruction, over and above the said forfeiture; and it shall and may be lawful for the Justices at a special sessions for the purpose, upon proof to them made upon oath, to levy as well the expenses of cutting, pruning, and plashing such hedges, and pruning and lopping such trees, or removal of such obstructions as aforesaid, as the several and respective penalties hereby provided, by distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, in such manner as distresses and sales for forfeitures are directed and directed to be levied by virtue of this Act.

That no person shall be compelled nor any surveyor permitted to cut or prune any hedge at any other time than between the last day of September and the last day of March; and that no person shall be obliged to fell any timber trees growing in hedges at any time whatsoever except where the highways shall be ordered to be widened or enlarged as herein provided, or then to cut down or grub up any oak trees growing in such highway or in such hedges except in the months of May, or June, or any ash, elm, or other trees in any other months than December, January, February, or March.

That the said surveyor, district surveyor, or assistant surveyor shall have power to make, scour, cleanse, and keep drains, ditches, gutters, drains, or watercourses, and also to make and lay such trunks, tunnels, plats, or bridges, as he shall think necessary, in and through any lands or grounds adjoining or lying near to any highway, upon paying the owner or occupier of such lands or grounds, provided they are not waste or common, for the damages which he shall sustain thereby, to be paid in such manner as the damages for getting materials in inclosed lands or grounds are herein directed to be paid.

That if any owner, occupier, or other person shall alter, obstruct, or in any manner interfere with any such drains, ditches, gutters, drains, or watercourses, trunks, tunnels, plats, or bridges, after they shall have been made by or taken under the authority of such surveyor or district surveyor, and without his authority and consent, such owner, occupier, or other person shall be liable to reimburse all charges and expenses which may be occasioned by reinstating and making good the altered, obstructed, or interfered with, and shall also forfeit any sum not exceeding three times the amount of such and expenses.

LXIX. That if any person shall encroach by making or causing to be made any building, hedge, ditch, or other fence, carriageway or cartway within the distance of fifteen feet from the centre thereof, every person so offending shall be convicted, for every such offence any sum not exceeding 40s.; and the surveyor who hath the care of any such carriage or cartway shall and he is hereby required to cause such building, hedge, ditch, or fence to be taken down or filled, at the expense of the person to whom the same shall belong; and it shall and may be lawful for the Justices at a special assizes, the highways, upon proof to them made upon oath, to levy as well the expenses of taking down such building, hedge, or filling up such ditch as aforesaid, as the several and respective penalties hereby imposed, by distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, in such manner as distresses and sales for forfeitures are authorized and directed to be in the virtue of this Act.

LXX. That from and after the commencement of this Act it shall not be lawful for any person to sink any pit or shaft, erect or cause to be erected any steam engine, gin, or other like machine, or any machinery attached thereto, within the distance of twenty-five yards, nor any windmill within fifty yards, from any part of any carriageway, or cartway, unless the same shall be within some house or other building, or behind a wall or fence, sufficient to conceal or screen the same from the said carriageway or cartway, so that the same may not be dangerous to passengers, horses, or cattle; nor shall it be lawful for any person to make or cause to be made any fire for burning of ironstone, limestone, bricks, or clay, or the making of cookes, within the distance of fifteen yards from any part of the said carriageway or cartway, unless the same shall be within some house or other building, or behind some fence, sufficient to screen the same from the same carriageway or cartway as aforesaid; and in case any person shall offend in any of the cases aforesaid, every such person so offending shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 5l. for each day such pit, shaft, windmill, steam engine, gin, machine, or fire shall be permitted to continue contrary to the provisions of this Act; which said penalties shall be levied, recovered, and applied in such and the same manner as any penalty or fine for any other offence on any highway may be levied, recovered, and applied: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to restrain any person or persons from using, repairing, rebuilding, or enlarging any windmill, steam engine, or other like machine, or any kiln or other erection used for the purpose of calcining or burning of ironstone, limestone, or clay, or the making of cookes, which may have been erected and may be in existence at the passing of this Act.

LXXI. That whenever a railroad shall cross any highway for carts or carriages, the proprietors of the said railroad shall and maintain good and sufficient gates at each of the said crossings, and shall employ good and proper persons to attend the opening and shutting of such gates, so that the persons, carts, or carriages passing along such road shall not be exposed to any danger or damage by the passing of any carriages or engines along the said railroad; and any complaint for neglect in respect of the said gates shall be made within ten days after the said neglect, to one Justice, who may summon the person complained against to appear before the Justices at their next special sessions for the highways, who shall hear and determine upon the said complaint, and the proprietor so offending shall forfeit any sum not exceeding 5l.

That if any person, after having been paid or tendered a reasonable sum of money for his costs, charges, and expenses, shall be summoned as a witness to give evidence before any Justices of the Peace touching any matter or fact connected with any information or complaint for any offence against this Act, either on the part of the prosecutor or the person accused, shall refuse or neglect to appear at the time and place for that purpose appointed, without a reasonable excuse for his absence, or neglect, or appearing shall (after having been paid or tendered a reasonable sum for his costs, charges, and expenses) be examined upon oath and give evidence before such Justice of the Peace, then and in either of such cases such person shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding 5*l*.

CIII. That all penalties and forfeitures by this Act inflicted or authorized to be imposed for any offence against this Act, and all balances due from a surveyor, and all costs and charges to be allowed and ordered by the authority of this Act, in manner of levying, recovering, and applying of which is not hereby otherwise particularly directed, shall, upon conviction of the offences respectively before any two or more Justices, either by the confession of the party offending, or the oath of any credible witness or witnesses (which oath such Justices are in every case hereby fully authorized to administer), or upon order made as aforesaid, be levied, together with the costs attending the information, summons, and execution by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or person liable or ordered to pay the same respectively, and under the hands of two or more Justices before whom the party may have been convicted (which warrant such Justices are hereby empowered and required to grant); and the overplus (if any), after such penalties, forfeitures, and charges of such distress and sale, are deducted, shall be returned, upon demand, unto the owner or owners of such goods or chattels; and in case such fines, penalties, and forfeitures shall not be forthwith paid upon conviction, then it shall be lawful for such Justices as aforesaid to order the offender or offenders so convicted to be detained and kept in safe custody, or can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless the offender or offenders shall give sufficient security to the satisfaction of such Justices as aforesaid, for his or their appearance before such Justices on such day or days as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of distress, such day not being later than seven days from the time of taking such security, and which security the said Justices as aforesaid are hereby empowered to take by way of recognizance or otherwise in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justices, either by the confession of the offender or otherwise, that he or she has sufficient goods or chattels within the jurisdiction of such Justices sufficient whereon to levy all such penalties and forfeitures and charges, such Justices may at their discretion, without issuing any warrant of distress, commit the offender for such time, and in such and in like manner, as if a warrant of distress had been issued, and nulla bona returned thereon, a warrant of distress shall be issued, and upon the return thereof it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had, or that to levy the said penalty, forfeiture, or fine, and costs and expenses aforesaid, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justices upon the confession of the offender, or otherwise, that he or she has sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such penalty, forfeiture, or fine, costs, and expenses, could be levied if a warrant of distress were issued, such Justices shall not be required to issue such warrant, but in such case such Justices as aforesaid, by warrant under their hands, to cause such offender or offenders to be committed to the common gaol or house of correction of the county, riding, or place where the offender shall be or reside, there to be kept to hard labour, for any time not exceeding three calendar months unless such penalties, forfeitures, and fines, and all reasonable charges attending the same shall be sooner paid and satisfied; and the penalties and forfeitures, when so levied, shall be paid, the one half to the surveyor and the other half to the surveyor of the parish where such offence, neglect, or default shall happen, to be applied to the repair of the highways thereof, unless otherwise directed by this Act; but in case the surveyor shall be the informer, the whole shall be applied towards the repair of such highway.

CIV. That where any distress shall be made for any sum of money to be levied by virtue of this Act, the distress shall not be deemed unlawful, nor the party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any default or irregularity in any proceedings relating thereto, nor shall the party distraining be deemed a trespasser ab initio on account of any irregularity which shall be afterwards done in making the distress, but the person aggrieved by such irregularity may recover for the special damage in an action on the case: Provided always, that no plaintiff shall recover in any action for trespass, or wrongful proceedings, if tender of sufficient amends shall be made by or on behalf of the party who have committed or caused to be committed any such irregularity, trespass, or wrongful proceedings, before such judgment; and in case no such tender shall have been made, it shall and may be lawful for the defendant in any such action to move the court where such action shall depend, at any time before issue joined, to pay into court such sum of money as he shall see fit, whereupon such proceedings or orders and judgment shall be had, made, and given in and by such court: and other actions where the defendant is allowed to pay money into court.

And if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any rate made under or in pursuance of this Act, or by any order, judgment, or determination made, or by any matter or thing done, by any Justice or other person in pursuance of this Act, or for which no particular method of relief hath been already appointed, such person may appeal to the Justices at General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace to be held for the county, division, riding, or place wherein the cause of such appeal shall arise, such appellant first giving or causing to be given to the surveyor or surveyors, or to such Justice or other person whose act such person shall think himself aggrieved, notice in writing of his intention to bring such appeal, together with a statement in writing of the grounds of such appeal, within fourteen days after such rate shall have been made or cause shall have arisen, and within four days after such notice entering into a recognizance before some Justice, with sufficient sureties, conditioned to try such appeal at, and abide the order of, and pay such costs as shall be awarded by the Justices at such General or Quarter Sessions; and such Justices, upon hearing and finally determining the matter of such appeal, shall and may, according to their discretion, award such costs to the party appealing or appealed against as they shall think fit; and their determination in or concerning the premises shall be conclusive and binding on all parties to all intents and purposes whatsoever: Provided nevertheless, that in case there shall not be time to give such notice and enter into such recognizance as aforesaid before the next sessions to be holden after the making of any rate or the cause of complaint shall arise, then and in every such case such appeal may be made to the next following sessions, and shall be then heard and determined: Provided also, that it shall not be lawful for the appellant to be heard in support of such appeal, unless such notice shall have been so given as aforesaid, nor on the hearing of such appeal to go into evidence of any other grounds than those set forth in such statement as aforesaid.

And in all cases of appeal against the rate or assessment made in pursuance of this Act the several provisions and enactments contained in a certain Act, 41 Geo. 3. c. 23, intituled, 'An Act for the better Collection of the Rates made for the Poor,' shall be applicable thereto, as if the same had been repeated and re-enacted in this Act with respect to such appeal.

And no rate, nor any proceeding to be had touching the conviction of any offender against this Act, or any order made under or in pursuance of this Act, or any matter or thing done or transacted in or relative to the execution of this Act, shall be vacated or quashed, nor shall any writ or process be issued to remove or removeable (except as herein mentioned) by certiorari, or any other writ or process whatsoever, out of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster.

And in any case of appeal the Court of Quarter Sessions before whom the same is heard and determined may, if they think fit, cause the facts specially for the determination of His Majesty's Court of King's Bench thereon, in which case it shall be lawful to remove the proceedings, by writ of certiorari or otherwise, into the said Court of King's Bench.

And no action or suit shall be commenced against any person for anything done in pursuance of or under the authority of this Act, until twenty-one days notice has been given thereof in writing to the Justice, surveyor, or person against whom such action is intended to be brought, nor after sufficient satisfaction or tender of satisfaction has been made to the party or parties against whom such action shall be brought, nor after three calendar months next after the fact committed for which such action or suit shall be so brought; and no action shall be brought, laid, and tried where the cause of action shall have arisen, and not in any other county or place than in which the defendant in such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and every special matter in issue in any trial which shall be had thereupon; and if the matter or thing shall appear to have been done under or by authority of this Act, or if it shall appear that such action or suit was brought before twenty-one days notice thereof given as aforesaid, that sufficient satisfaction was made or tendered as aforesaid, or if any action or suit shall not be commenced within the time before limited, or shall be laid in any other county than as aforesaid, then the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant; and if a verdict shall be found for such defendant or if the plaintiff in such action or suit shall become nonsuit, or shall discontinue such action, or if, upon any demurrer, in such action, judgment shall be given for the defendant, then and in any of the cases aforesaid such defendant shall have costs as between attorney and client, and shall have costs for recovering the same as any defendant may have for his or her costs in any other case by law.

And the several fees hereafter limited and expressed, and no others, shall be taken by the clerk of the peace, clerk to the Justices, or others, for their several respective services in the execution of this Act; (that is to say,) the sum of 6d. for every summons or warrant; the sum of 1s. for every summons or warrant, and 6d. for the service thereof; the sum of 6d. for every order, and 6d. for the service thereof; the sum of 1s. for every order, and 6d. for the service thereof; the sum of 2s. for every appointment; and the sum of 2s. for every conviction: Provided always, that in relation to the recovery of any rate shall be less than the fees hereinbefore mentioned, shall it be lawful for such clerk or others to demand or take a greater fee for any similar proceeding under this Act than the fee which may be directed to be taken by such local Act.

And if the inhabitants of any parish shall agree at a vestry to defend any indictment found against any such person for any offence against this Act, or to defend any appeal, it shall and may be lawful for the surveyor of such parish to charge in and pay the reasonable expenses incurred in defending such prosecution, or prosecuting or defending such appeal, after all have been agreed to by such inhabitants at a vestry or public meeting as aforesaid, and allowed by two Justices of the Peace within the division where such highway shall be; which expenses, when so agreed to or allowed, shall be paid by such pariah out of the rates, forfeitures, payments, and rates authorized to be collected and raised by virtue of this Act; Provided nevertheless, that if the money so collected and raised is not sufficient to defray the expenses of repairing highways in the said pariah, as well as of defending such prosecution, or prosecuting or defending such appeal as the said surveyor is hereby authorized to make, collect, and levy an additional rate in the same manner as the rate by which he is authorized to be made for the repair of the highway.

CXXI. That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to abridge, repeal, alter, amend, or interfere with the provisions contained in an Act, 57 Geo. 3. c. 29, intituled, 'An Act for better paving, improving, and regulating the streets of the Metropolis, and removing and preventing Obstructions therein,' or the powers and provisions contained in any Act to any particular pariah or place for any of the purposes in this Act mentioned.

CXXV. That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to alter or in any manner affect the provisions of an Act, 1 Geo. 4. c. 61, intituled, 'An Act for regulating the Repairs of Bridges in the County of Montgomery,' so far as the same relate to the repairs of so much of the highways as lie next adjoining to any ends of any bridges within the said county of Montgomery of which have already been made chargeable upon the rates of the said county under the provisions of the said recited Act.

AN ACT to render certain Marriages valid, and to alter the Law with respect to certain Marriages.

(Stat August)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Marriages before the passing of this Act of persons within the prohibited degrees not to be annulled.
2. Marriages of persons within prohibited degrees hereafter to be absolutely void.
3. Not to extend to Scotland.
4. Act may be altered this session.

By this Act,

After reciting that marriages between persons within the prohibited degrees are voidable only by sentence of the Ecclesiastical Court pronounced during the lifetime of both the parties thereto, and it is unreasonable that the state and condition of children of marriages between persons within the prohibited degrees of affinity should remain unsettled during so long a time, and it is fitting that all marriages which may hereafter be celebrated between persons within the prohibited degrees of affinity or affinity should be ipso facto void, and not merely voidable:—

It is Enacted,

i. That all marriages which shall have been celebrated before the passing of this Act between persons being within the prohibited degrees of affinity shall not hereafter be annulled for that cause by any sentence of the Ecclesiastical Court pronounced in a suit which shall be depending at the time of the passing of this Act: Provided that nothing hereby enacted shall affect marriages between persons being within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity.

ii. That all marriages which shall hereafter be celebrated between persons within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity shall be absolutely null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

CAP. LVI.

AN ACT to regulate the Admeasurement of the Tonnage and Burthen of the Merchant Shipping of the United Kingdom.

(9th September 1835.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Rules established by recited Act for ascertaining tonnage repealed.
2. The rule by which tonnage of vessels is to be ascertained.
3. Tonnage, when ascertained, to be entered on register.
4. Mode of ascertaining tonnage of steam vessels.
5. Rules and regulations, contents of engine room to be set forth in description of steam vessel.
6. For ascertaining tonnage of vessels when laden.
7. Amount of register tonnage to be carved on main beam.
8. Not to alter tonnage of vessels already registered.
9. Commencement of Act.
10. Act may be altered this session.

By this Act,

After reciting that by an Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 55, for the registering of British vessels, certain rules are established for ascertaining the tonnage of ships as well on shore as afloat, and of vessels propelled by steam; and the account of such tonnage, whenever the same shall have been ascertained according to the rules therein prescribed (except in the case of ships admeasured afloat), it is thereby enacted shall be deemed the tonnage of such ships, and shall be repeated in every subsequent registry of such ships, unless any alteration shall have been made in their form and burthen, or unless it be discovered that the tonnage had been erroneously computed: And that it is considered that the capacity of a ship is the fairest standard by which to ascertain tonnage, that internal measurements will afford the most accurate and convenient method of ascertaining that capacity, and that the adoption of such a mode of admeasurement will tend to the interests of the ship-builder and the owner, as well as to the proper collection of the dues which by law are payable on tonnage; and it is expedient to alter and amend the law in this respect:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the commencement of this Act so much of the said recited Act as establishes rules for ascertaining the tonnage of ships shall be and the same is hereby repealed so far as respects the merchant shipping of the United Kingdom to be registered.

2. That from and after the commencement of this Act the tonnage of every ship or vessel required by law to be registered, before being registered, be measured and ascertained while her hold is clear, and according to the following rule (that is to say,) divide the length of the upper deck between the afterpart of the stem and the forepart of the stern-post into five equal parts. Depths: At the foremost, the middle, and the aftermost of those points of division, measure in feet and decimal parts of a foot the depths from the under side of the upper deck to the ceiling at the limber strake. In the case of a ship in the upper deck, the depths are to be measured from a line stretched in a continuation of the deck. Breadths: Divide each of those three depths into five equal parts, and measure the inside breadths at the following points; sicilicet, at one-fifth and at four-fifths from the upper deck of the foremost and aftermost depths, and at two-fifths and four-fifths from the upper part of the midship depth. Length: At half the midship depth measure the length of the vessel from the afterpart of the stem to the forepart of the stern-post; then to twice the midship depth add the foremost and the aftermost depths for the sum of the depths; add together the upper and lower breadths at the foremost division, three times the upper breadth, and the lower breadth at the midship division, and the upper and twice the lower breadth at the after division, for the sum of the breadths; multiply the sum of the depths by the sum of the breadths, and this product by the length, and divide the final product by 100, which will give the number of tons for register. If the vessel have a poop or half deck, or a break in the upper deck, measure the inside mean length, breadth, and height of such part thereof as may be included within the bulk-head; multiply the said measurements together, and dividing the product by 92.4, the quotient will be the number of tons to be added to the tonnage so found. In order to ascertain the tonnage of open vessels, the depths are to be measured from the upper edge of the limber strake.

3. That the tonnage or burthen of every ship belonging to the United Kingdom, ascertained in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, in respect of any such ship which shall be registered after the commencement of this Act (except as hereinafter provided), be inserted in the certificate of the registry thereof, and be taken and deemed to be the tonnage or burthen thereof for all the purposes of the said recited Act.

4. Provided, That in each of the several rules hereinbefore prescribed, when applied for the purpose of ascertaining the tonnage of any ship or vessel propelled by steam, the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine room shall be deducted from the total tonnage of the vessel as determined by either of the rules aforesaid, and the remainder shall be deemed the true tonnage of the said ship or vessel. The tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine room shall be determined in the following manner; that is to say, measure the inside length of the engine room in feet and decimal parts of a foot from the foremost to the aftermost bulk-head, then multiply the said length by the depth of the ship or vessel at the midship division as aforesaid, and the product by the inside breadth at the same division at two-fifths of the depth from the deck taken said, and divide the last product by 92.4, and the quotient shall be deemed the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine room.

v. Provided, That the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine room and also the length of the engine room set forth in the certificate of registry as part of the description of the ship or vessel, and that any alteration of such tonnage to the cubical contents of the engine room or of such length of the engine room, after registry, shall be deemed to be a violation requiring registry de novo within the meaning of the said Act for the registering of ships or vessels.

vi. That for the purpose of ascertaining the tonnage of all such ships, whether belonging to the United Kingdom or otherwise, as there shall be occasion to measure while their cargoes are on board, the following rule shall be observed and established; (that is to say,) measure, first, the length on the upper deck between the afterpart of the stem and the stern-post; secondly, the inside breadth on the underside of the upper deck at the middle point of the length; and thirdly, the depth from the underside of the upper deck down the pumpwell to the skin; multiply these three dimensions together, and divide the product by 130, and the quotient will be the amount of the register tonnage of such ships.

vii. That the true amount of the register tonnage of every merchant ship or vessel belonging to the United Kingdom, ascertained according to the rule by this Act established in respect of such ships, shall be deeply carved or cut in iron plates at least three inches in length on the main beam of every such ship or vessel, prior to her being registered.

viii. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall extend to alter the present measure of tonnage of any ship or vessel which shall have been registered prior to the commencement of this Act, unless in cases where the owners of any such ship or vessel require to have their tonnage established according to the rule hereinbefore provided, or unless there shall be occasion to re-measure any such ship or vessel again on account of any alteration which shall have been made in the form or burthen of the ship, in which cases only such ships shall be re-measured according to the said rule, and their tonnage registered accordingly.

ix. That this Act shall commence and take effect upon and from the 1st of January 1836.

x. That this Act may be altered, amended, or repealed by any Act or Acts to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

Convention between His Majesty and the King of the French for the more effectual Suppression of the Traffic in Slaves, signed at Paris the Thirtieth Day of November One thousand eight hundred and thirty-one.

Courts of Great Britain and of France, being desirous of rendering more effectual the Means of Suppression which hitherto been in force against the criminal Traffic known under the Name of the Slave Trade, they have deemed it expedient to negotiate and conclude a Convention for the Attainment of so salutary an Object, and they have to this End appointed their Plenipotentiaries; (that is to say,) His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland the Right Honourable Viscount Granville, Peer of Parliament, Member of the Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary at the Court of France; His Majesty the King of the French the Lieutenant General Count Horace Sebastiani, Grand Cross of the Order of St. Louis, Member of the Chamber of Deputies of the Departments, and Minister and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; who, after having exchanged their full Powers, found to be in due Form, have signed the following Articles:—

Article I.—The mutual Right of Search may be exercised on board the Vessels of each of the Two Nations, but only in the Waters hereinafter described; namely,

1. Along the Western Coast of Africa, from Cape Verd to the Distance of Ten Degrees to the South of the Equator; and to say, from the Tenth Degree of South Latitude to the Fifteenth Degree of North Latitude, and as far as the Tenth Degree of West Longitude, reckoning from the Meridian of Paris.

3. To the same Distance from the Coasts of the Island of Cuba.

Article II.—The Right of searching Merchant Vessels of either of the Two Nations in the Waters hereinbefore mentioned shall be exercised only by Ships of War whose Commanders shall have the Rank of Captain or at least that of Lieutenant in the Navy.

Article III.—The Number of Ships to be invested with this Right shall be fixed each Year by a special Agreement; but for each Nation need not be the same, but in no Case shall the Number of the Cruisers of the one Nation be more than the Number of the Cruisers of the other.

Article IV.—The Names of the Ships, and of their Commanders shall be communicated by each of the contracting Governments to the other, and Information shall be reciprocally given of all Changes which may take place in the same.

Article V.—Instructions shall be drawn up and agreed upon in common by the Two Governments for the Cruisers of both Nations, which Cruisers shall afford to each other mutual Assistance in all Circumstances in which it may be useful, and should act in concert. The ships of War authorized to exercise the reciprocal Right of Search shall be furnished with special Authority from each of the Two Governments.

Article VI.—Whenever a Cruiser shall have chased and overtaken a Merchant Vessel as liable to Suspicion, the Commanding Officer, before he proceeds to the Search, shall exhibit to the Captain of the Merchant Vessel the special Orders conferred upon him by Exception the Right to visit her; and in case he shall ascertain the Ship's Papers to be regular, and the Proceedings lawful, he shall certify upon the Log Book of the Vessel that the Search took place only in virtue of said Orders; these Formalities having been completed, the Vessel shall be at liberty to continue her Course.

Article VII.—The Vessels captured for being engaged in the Slave Trade, or as being suspected of being fitted out for the same, shall, together with their Crews, be delivered over, without delay, to the Jurisdiction of the Nation to which they shall belong; it is furthermore distinctly understood, that they shall only be judged according to the Laws in their respective Countries.

Article VIII.—In no Case shall the Right of mutual Search be exercised upon the Ships of War of either Nation. The Two Governments shall agree upon a particular Signal, with which these Cruisers only shall be furnished which are invested with this Right, and which Signal shall not be made known to any other Ship not employed upon this service.

Article IX.—The High Contracting Parties to the present Treaty agree to invite the other Maritime Powers to accede to this Convention as soon as possible.

In Witness whereof, which the Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention, and have affixed thereto the Seal of their respective Governments.

Done at Paris the 30th of November 1831.

Article IV.—As soon as any Merchant Vessel detained and sent before the Tribunals aforesaid shall arrive at the Ports respectively pointed out, the Commander of the Cruiser which shall have detained her, or the Officer appointed to bring her in, shall deliver to the Authorities appointed for that Purpose One Copy, signed by him, of all the Declarations, and other Documents specified in the Instructions annexed to the present Convention, and the said Authorities shall in consequence proceed to a Survey of the detained Vessel and her Cargo, and to an Inspection of her Crew, and the Slaves who may be on board, after having previously given Notice of the Time of such Survey and Inspection to the Commander of the Cruiser, or to the Officer who shall have brought in the Vessel, in order that he, or some Person in his Behalf, may be present thereat.

 ception of Palm Oil, or be employed in any other lawful Trade.

Having on board a greater Quantity of Meats-tubs or Kinds than requisite for the Use of her Crew as a Merchant

Having on board Two or more Copper Boilers, or even One evidently larger than requisite for the Use of her as a Merchant Vessel.

Art. IX.—If in the Visit or Detention of a Merchant Vessel, made in virtue of the Provisions of the Convention of the Thirtieth Day of November One thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, or of the present Convention, any Abuse or Excess shall have been committed, but the Vessel shall not have been delivered over to the Jurisdiction of her own Country, the Master of the Vessel shall make a Declaration on Oath of the Abuses or Excesses of which he has to complain, before the competent Authorities in the first Port of his own Country to which he may arrive, or before the Consular Agent of his Nation if the Vessel proceeds to a Foreign Port before he is such an Agent. This Declaration shall be confirmed by an Examination under Oath of the principal Officers of the Crew or Passengers who have witnessed the Visit or Detention; and One formal Declaration (Procès verbal) shall be drawn up, and Two Copies thereof delivered to the Master, who shall forward One of them to his Government in support of his Claim for Costs and Damages. Witness whereof the above-named Plenipotentiaries have signed in Duplicate the present Convention, and have affixed thereto their Respective Seals.

1°. Whenever a merchant Vessel of either of the Two Nations shall be visited by a Cruiser of the other, the Officer commanding the Cruiser shall exhibit to the Master of such Vessel the special Orders which confer upon him the exceptional Right of Visit, and shall deliver to him a Certificate, signed by him, specifying his Rank in the Navy of his Country, with the name of the Ship which he commands, and declaring that the only object of such Visit is to ascertain whether the Vessel is engaged in the Slave Trade, or is fitted out for the Purpose of such Traffic. When a Visit is made by another Officer of the Cruiser than her Commander this Officer shall not be under the Rank of Lieutenant in the Navy, and in this Case such Officer shall exhibit to the Master of the Merchant Vessel a Copy of the special Orders above mentioned, signed by the Commander of the Cruiser, and shall likewise deliver to him a Certificate, signed by him, specifying the Rank which he holds in the Navy, the Name of the Commander under whose Order he is acting, and of the Cruiser to which he belongs, and the Object of his Visit, as hereinbefore recited. 2°. If in consequence of the Visit the Officer commanding the Cruiser shall be of opinion that there are sufficient Grounds for believing that the Vessel is engaged in the Slave Trade, or has been fitted out for that Traffic, and if shall in consequence determine to detain her, and to have her delivered up to the respective Jurisdiction, he shall forthwith cause a List to be made out in Duplicate of all the Papers found on board, and he shall sign this List and a Duplicate, adding to his Name his Rank in the Navy, and the Name of the Vessel under his Command. 4°. No Person whatever shall be taken out of the detained Vessel, nor shall any Part of her Cargo, nor of the Slaves found on board, be removed from her, until after such Vessel shall have been delivered over to the Authorities of her own Nation, excepting only when the Removal of the Whole or of Part of the Crew, or of the Slaves found on board shall be deemed necessary, either for the Preservation of their Lives, or from any other Consideration of Humanity, for the Safety of the Persons who shall be charged with the Navigation of the Vessel after her Detention. In this Case the Commander of the Cruiser or the Officer appointed to bring in the detained Vessel shall make a Declaration of Removal, in which he shall specify the Reasons for the same; and the Masters, Sailors, Passengers, or Slaves so removed shall be carried to the same Port as the Vessel and her Cargo, and they shall be received in the same Manner as the Vessel, agreeably to the Regulations hereinafter set forth.

In delivering over these several Documents the Officer will make a Statement of their Truth on Oath and in Writing.

7°. If the Commander of a Cruiser of either of the High Contracting Parties who shall be duly furnished with aforesaid Special Instructions shall have Reason to suspect that a Merchant Vessel sailing under Convoy or in company with a Ship of War of the other Party is engaged in the Slave Trade, or has been fitted out for the Purpose of that Traffic, he shall confine himself to the communicating his Suspicions to the Commander of the Convoy or of

1°. That if such Sardinian Vessel shall be detained by an English Cruiser, the Negroes found on board such Vessel shall be landed at that Port or Place to which an English Slave Vessel found and detained under similar Circumstances, at the same Place, by a French Cruiser, would under the aforesaid Conventions with France be sent or taken.

It is Enacted,

I. That the said Act shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

II. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to interfere with any acts or appointments made under the authority of the said Act, or to prevent the suing for or recovery of any penalty due in any offence committed against the provisions of the said Act previous to the repeal thereof in and by this Act; or to defeat any prosecution commenced or to be brought for such offence; but all penalties and forfeitures so incurred may be recovered in the same manner as any penalties and forfeitures incurred under the provisions of this Act in force before the repeal.

And after reciting an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 74, intituled, 'An Act for ascertaining and establishing Uniformity of Weights and Measures; and another Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 12, intituled, 'An Act to prolong the Time of the Commencement of the last Session of Parliament, for ascertaining and establishing Uniformity of Weights and Measures; and to amend the said Act; And that, notwithstanding the provisions of the said recited Acts, many sets of weights and measures of old and different shapes have been made and verified and stamped by the Chamberlains as well as by the Auditor in the Exchequer as models of the said new standards, and have been used as standard weights and measures under the said recited Acts, different in shape and form from the standards prescribed by the said recited Act, 5 Geo. 4. aforesaid; and it is expedient that such standard weights and measures should be made legal, and that the Comptroller General or some other officer of the Exchequer duly authorized should be empowered to compare and verify, and stamp as so compared and verified, standards of length, weight, or measure, although not exact models and copies in shape and form of the respective standards of length, weight, and measure deposited under the provisions of the said first-recited Acts in the office of the said Comptroller General and Auditor: And that it is expedient that the use of all weights and measures not in conformity with the weights and measures established by the said recited Acts should be prohibited, and that the use of the heaped measure should be abolished.

It is Enacted,

III. That so much of the said last-mentioned recited Acts as require that all weights and measures shall be made and verified in shape or form of the standards deposited in the Exchequer, and also so much of the said recited Acts as require that all weights and measures shall be made and verified in conformity with the imperial standard weights and measures established by the said recited Acts, or shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

IV. That all weights and measures which have been so verified and stamped at the Exchequer at Westminster as the standard weights and measures, corresponding in weight and capacity with those established by the said recited Acts, shall be deemed and taken to be legal weights and measures, to be used for comparison as copies of the imperial standard weights and measures, although not similar in shape to those required under the provisions of the said recited Acts; and the Comptroller General, or some other officer of the Exchequer at Westminster duly authorized, may compare and verify, and stamp as so compared and verified, as correct standard measures of a yard, and as correct standard weights, and as correct standard measures of capacity, any weights and measures which shall correspond in length, weight, and capacity, with the standards, or parts or multiples thereof respectively, deposited in the Exchequer under the said Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 12, although such weights and measures may not be models or copies in shape or form of the standards so deposited as the standards in the said recited Acts to the contrary notwithstanding.

at all copies of the imperial standard weights and measures which may have become defective, or have been mended in consequence of any wear or accident, shall forthwith be sent to the Exchequer at Westminster for the purpose of being again examined and verified, and shall be stamped as re-verified copies of the imperial standard weights and measures, provided that the Comptroller General or other officer appointed for such verification shall deem them fit to be used for the purposes of standard, and every new comparison and verification shall be indorsed upon the original indenture of verification; and such weights and measures shall be so stamped upon payment of fees of verification only; and the Comptroller General or other officer the Exchequer duly authorized shall keep an account or register of all copies of the imperial standard weights and measures that shall have been verified at the Exchequer.

And from and after the passing of this Act the measure called the Winchester bushel, and the lineal measure called the fathom, and all local or customary measures, shall be abolished; and every person who shall sell, by any denomination of measure other than one of the imperial measures, or some multiple or some aliquot part, such as half, the quarter, the eighth, the sixteenth, or the thirty-second parts thereof, shall, on conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding the sum of 40s. for every such sale: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the sale of any articles in any vessel, where the vessel is not represented as containing any amount of imperial measure, or of any fixed, local, or customary measure heretofore used.

And for noticing that the heaped measure is liable to considerable variation:—

Enacted,

That from and after the passing of this Act so much of the said recited Acts as relate to the heaped measure shall be hereby repealed, and the use of the heaped measure shall be abolished, and all bargains, sales, and contracts which shall be made after the passing of this Act by the heaped measure shall be null and void; and every person who shall sell any article by the heaped measure shall, on conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. for every such sale.

And for reciting that some articles heretofore sold by heaped measure are from their size and shape incapable of being sold by weight, and from their nature and quality may not be conveniently sold by weight:—

Enacted,

That all such articles may henceforth be sold by a bushel measure, corresponding in shape with the bushel prescribed by the said Act, 5 Geo. 4, for the sale of heaped measure, or by any multiple or by some aliquot part, such as the half, the quarter, or the eighth part thereof, filled in all parts as nearly to the level of the brim as the size and shape of the articles shall admit: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the sale by weight of any article heretofore sold by heaped measure.

And for reciting that the sale of all coals, slack, culm, and cannel of every description by weight, and not by measure, is greatly to prevent the commission of frauds and impositions in the vend and delivery of such coals, slack, culm, and cannel of every description:—

Enacted,

That from and after the 1st of January 1836, all coals, slack, culm, and cannel of every description shall be sold by weight, and not by measure; and every person who shall from and after the 1st of January 1836, sell any coals, slack, culm, or cannel of every description by measure, and not by weight, shall, on conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. for every such sale.

And for noticing that by local customs in markets, towns, and other places throughout the United Kingdom, the denomination of weight varies:—

Enacted,

That from and after the passing of this Act the weight denominated a stone shall in all cases consist of fourteen standard avoirdupois, and that the weight denominated an hundred weight shall consist of eight such stones, and that the weight denominated a ton shall consist of twenty such hundred weight: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the use of any sale, or contract being made by any multiple or by some aliquot part, such as the half, the quarter, the eighth, or any other part of the pound weight.

And for noticing that all weights which shall be made after the passing of this Act of the weight of one pound avoirdupois or more shall be stamped with the number of pounds contained in every such weight stamped or cast on the top or side thereof in legible figures and letters, and that all measures of capacity which shall be made after the passing of this Act shall have their contents denominated, stamped, or marked on the outside of such measures in legible figures and letters.

And for noticing that the use of weights made of soft materials affords facility to fraud:—

Enacted,

That from and after the 1st of January 1836, no weight made of lead or of pewter, or of any mixture thereof, shall be used: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the use of lead or pewter, or of any mixture thereof, in the manufacture of weights, if they be wholly and substantially eased with brass, copper, or iron, and legibly stamped or marked, or shall prevent the insertion of such a plug of lead or pewter into weights as shall be bona fide made for the purpose of adjusting them and of affixing thereon the stamp hereinafter mentioned.

And for the purpose of ascertaining and providing for the fulfilment of all existing contracts, and fixing the payments made in consequence of such contracts or rents in England and Ireland payable in grain or malt, or in any other commodity or thing, and in consequence of any toll, rate, or duty heretofore payable according to the weights and measures heretofore in use, where the same shall not have been already ascertained and fixed by agreement between parties, or under the provisions of said Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 74:—

It is Enacted,

xiv. That at the General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace to be holden in every county, riding, or division, and in every city, town, or place (being a county of itself), in England or Ireland, next after the expiration of three months after the passing of this Act, or at any General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace to be holden thereafter, on the application of any party to the said Sessions, an inquisition shall be taken before the Justices assembled at such General or Quarter Sessions, by the twelve substantial freeholders of the said respective counties, cities, towns, or places, having lands or tenements to the value of 100*l.* per annum or upwards, to be summoned by the sheriff or proper officers of every such county, city, town, or place, to inquire into and ascertain the amount, according to the standard of weight or measure by this Act established, of all corn or to be performed or rents to be paid in grain or malt or any other commodity or thing, or with reference to the measure or of any such grain, malt, or other commodity or thing, and the amount of any toll, rate, or duty heretofore payable according to any weights and measures heretofore in use within such counties, cities, towns, or places respectively; and in taking such inquisition, care shall be taken that in every case in which grain, malt, or meal, or any other commodity or thing, having been sold by weight shall henceforth be sold by weight, no increase or diminution be made in the amount of weight, rate, toll, or duty hereafter payable for such grain, malt, or any other commodity or thing, due regard being had to the substitution of measure for weight, or of weight for measure, as the case may be; and such inquisitions, when taken, shall be transmitted by the respective clerks of the peace of the same counties respectively, or by the mayor, bailiff, or other officer of every such city, town, or place (being a county of itself), into His Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Westminster in England respectively, and shall be there enrolled of record, and shall and may be given in evidence in any action or suit or in equity; and the amount so to be ascertained shall, when converted into the standard weights and measures, be the rule of payment in regard to all such contracts, rents, tolls, rates, or duties in all time coming; and the costs and charges of such inquisitions and the enrolments thereof shall be paid and defrayed by the party on whose application such inquisition is taken.

And for the purpose of ascertaining and providing for the fulfilment of all existing contracts, and fixing the payments made of all stipends, feu duties, rents, tolls, customs, casualties, and other demands whatsoever payable in grain, malt, or any other commodity or thing, in Scotland, or in any other place or district of the same, according to the weights and measures heretofore in use, when such payments shall not have been already ascertained and fixed by agreement between parties, or under the provisions of the said Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 74:—

It is Enacted,

xv. That the sheriff in each shire in Scotland shall, on the application of any party to such sheriff, as soon as convenient may be after the expiration of three calendar months from and after the passing of this Act, summon and impanel a jury of the same number and of the same qualifications which are required in the jury who strike the fair prices of grain within the same shire, to assemble at such place or places as he shall find convenient, which jury shall inquire into and ascertain the amount, according to the standards by this Act established of all such stipends, feu duties, rents, tolls, customs, casualties, and other demands whatsoever payable in grain, malt, meal, or any other commodity or thing, according to the weights and measures heretofore in use within the same shires; and in taking such inquisition care shall be taken that in every case in which grain, malt, or meal, or any other commodity or thing, having been sold by weight shall henceforth be sold by weight, no increase or diminution be made in the amount of any stipend, feu duty, rent, toll, custom, or casualty payable for such grain, malt, or any other commodity or thing, due regard being had to the substitution of measure for weight, or of weight for measure, as the case may be; and such inquisitions, when taken, shall be transmitted by the respective clerks of each shire into His Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Edinburgh, and shall there be enrolled of record, and may be given in evidence in any action at law; and the amount so to be ascertained shall, when converted into the standard weights and measures, be the rule of payment in regard to all such stipends, feu duties, rents, tolls, customs, casualties, and other demands whatsoever in all time coming; and the costs and charges of such inquisitions and the enrolment thereof shall be assessed and levied, paid and defrayed, by the party on whose application such inquisition shall have been taken.

xvi. It is Enacted, children, one or more, under the age of twelve years, and no widow, the said annuity should be paid to the said children, the youngest of them attained the age of twelve years complete, but thenceforth and thereafter should cease and determine; and that when the contributor should leave both a widow and children, one or more, under the age of twelve years, the annuity should be paid to the widow during her life and widowhood, and in case of her dying or marrying, again before the youngest of the said children attained the age of twelve years complete, should no longer be payable to the widow, but should thence be paid to the children, and until the youngest of them should attain the age of twelve years complete, and should thence cease and determine; and provision was also made in and by the said royal charter or letters patent for raising and managing the said fund and contributions, and paying the said annuities, by managers to be elected and appointed as therein was directed.

And that it having been found by experience that higher rates of contribution and the interest of a larger stock of capital in proportion to the increased number of members, would be necessary for raising the same, and for extending the benefits of the said royal charter or letters patent, an Act was passed, 45 Geo. 3. c. 31, intitled, 'An Act for confirming the said charter and enlarging the Powers of the Corporation of the Officers of Excise in Scotland,' by which said Act the said charter or letters patent, and all the regulations, ordinances, and appointments therein contained, and all the proceedings had in consequence thereof, were confirmed, so far as the same were not altered by the said Act, and by the said Act the said incorporation was directed to be continued and distinguished into three classes; (that is to say,) the first class thereof to consist of general supervisors, general surveyors, and collectors, along with the auditor, the comptroller, the cashier, the secretary or secretaries, the solicitor or solicitors, the general accountants, and the general examiner, and the deputies established in the actual exercise of those offices, or the persons in the actual occupation of offices of the like nature, if held under other or different names; the second class to consist of supervisors, surveyors, examiners, accountants, and clerks in the General Excise Office in Edinburgh receiving salaries directly out of the revenue, or the persons established in the actual occupation of offices of the like nature, if held under any other or different names; the third class to consist of gaugers or officers, supernumeraries and assistants, or the persons established in the actual occupation of offices of the like nature, if held under other or different names; and member of the said incorporation is by the said Act made subject and liable to and to pay the sum or rate hereinafter mentioned according to his proper class, during his life yearly, by four equal quarterly payments; (that is to say,) each member of the first class, 7*l.* 10*s.*; each member of the second class, 5*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*; and each member of the third class, 3*l.* 13*s.*; and power is thereby also made for the payment of the difference of rates on the promotion of members from a lower to a higher class for the payment of certain additional rates on marriage; but an option being by the said Act given to the contributors of the said royal charter or letters patent to accede or not to the provisions of the said Act, in order to secure upon just and equitable terms the limited advantages proposed by the said royal charter or letters patent, it is directed by the said Act that no non-acceding member should, in pursuance of a provision made and reserved to that effect in the said royal charter or letters patent, be called upon and obliged in future regularly to pay into the said fund, towards the due and necessary support thereof, not only his ordinary annual contribution, and the rates imposed in case of any second or subsequent marriage, as directed by the aforesaid royal charter or letters patent, but also an addition to his said ordinary contributions, and along with the said rate of 7*l.* 6*d.* annually, for a contribution of the third class over and above his then present rate of 1*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*, making together the annual rate of 2*l.*, and so in proportion for those of the two higher classes, as before distinguished respectively, and all the rates and sums of money so to be contributed, together with all that had already been contributed and accumulated under the royal charter or letters patent aforesaid, were by the said Act directed to continue and be vested in and applied to the order and direction of the said incorporation, and the managers and cashiers thereof, appointed as therein mentioned, for the use of the same and their successors in office, to and for the uses and purposes after mentioned, (that is to say,) in the first place for defraying the necessary expenses incurred and to be incurred in the passing of the said Act, and in establishing and carrying out the scheme; secondly, for the further raising a fund and capital stock for the purposes of the scheme to the extent therein limited, subject and applicable to the payment of annuities to widows and children of contributors, according to three several classes thereinbefore distinguished, at the rates after specified; (that is to say,) that there should be paid yearly annuity to the widow or to the lawful children of each contributor, of the first class, 32*l.*; of the second class, 16*l.*; and of the third class, 16*l.*; such several annuities to be paid by equal portions quarterly, and within one month after each quarter day respectively, to wit, on the 5th of January, 5th of April, 5th of July, and 10th of October, successively, commencing the first quarter's payment at the first of these days which should happen after the death of the contributor, and so on yearly during the natural life of the widow and her remaining unmarried, or until the youngest surviving child of such contributor should attain the age of sixteen years complete, whichever of these events should happen the latest; provided that widows and children of contributors under the said royal charter or letters patent not acceding to the scheme under the said Act were to be paid annuities only at the former limited rates under the said royal charter or letters patent, and not to children only until the youngest of such children should attain the age of twelve years, as provided by the said original patent; and in order to render the funds thereby established sufficient and suitable for answering the several purposes of the said Act, power was thereby given to raise a capital fund or stock, proportioned to the number of contributors, according to certain rules and regulations in the said Act contained; and it was amongst other things further provided, that such and so often as the said stock should amount to the capital sum therein described and limited, in proportion to the number of contributors, the surplus which might be found above that amount upon balancing the accounts ending at the 5th of July annually should be set apart and applied by the managers of the incorporation at the time in such portions as they should think best, for augmenting the annuities to the widows and children of the contributors proportionably, such augmentation not exceeding the one half of the ordinary annuity payable to each annuitant; and in case of any surplus beyond what should be necessary for making such augmentation within the limit aforesaid, power is given to the managers to apply such surplus plus towards paying the annuities in the succeeding year, and in consequence to direct and allow an abatement to be proportionably out of the ordinary rates payable by the whole contributors in the said year respectively, or, with the consent of the contributors, to form such other plan for the application of such last-mentioned surplus, and to apply the same in any other manner as should appear most agreeable to the majority of the contributors, and most for the benefit of the said scheme; and provision is by the said Act also made for appointing managers for conducting the affairs of the said incorporation.

And that the capital sum in the said Act described and limited having been raised, and a surplus having been found, the managers of the said incorporation have augmented the annuities payable to the widows and children of contributors, and by the Commissioners for Excise for duly recovering, paying over, and accounting for all the property belonging to the said extent of one-half more than the amount specified in the said Act; (that is to say,) to the widows and children of contributors acceding to the said Act, of the first class, an annuity of 48*l.*; of the second class, 36*l.*; and of the third class, 24*l.*, respectively; and to the widows and children of contributors under the said royal charter or letters patent, non-acceders to the said Act, of the first class, 24*l.*; of the second class, 18*l.*; and of the third class, 12*l.*; and a further surplus beyond what was necessary for such augmentation having been found, the managers of the said incorporation have, with the concurrence of the majority of the contributors, applied the same so as to lengthen the period during which the said annuities are to be payable to the children of the said contributors, (that is to say,) until the youngest of such children, whether of acceding or non-acceding contributors, shall have attained the age of eighteen years: And that the managers and cashier of the said incorporation have, under the authority of the said recited Act, invested the funds of the said incorporation in the purchase, in the name of the cashier, of certain shares amounting in the whole to the sum of 16,500*l.* of the capital or joint stock of the Bank of England, and in the purchase, in the name of the said cashier, of certain shares amounting in the whole to the sum of 14,000*l.* of the capital or joint stock of the Royal Bank of Scotland, and have also, under the powers of the said Act, lent out on heritable securities, taken in the name of the cashier of the said incorporation and his successors in office, certain sums of money, amounting in the whole to the sum of 23,500*l.*, of and to which said several sums the said managers and cashiers now stand possessed and entitled for and on behalf of the said incorporation:

And that the said incorporation now consists, more or less, of one contributor of the first class, seven contributors of the second class, and seventeen contributors of the third class, being contributors under the said royal charter or letters patent, but who refused or neglected to accede as contributors under the said recited Act, and of thirty contributors under the said recited Act of the first class, one hundred and nineteen such contributors of the second class, and five hundred and fifty-five such contributors of the third class: And that the whole revenue of Excise of the United Kingdom being now placed under the management of one general board of Commissioners, all officers in the service of the Excise are officers for the whole of the United Kingdom, and not for any one part thereof, and are removable and removed from any one part of the United Kingdom to any other part thereof, according to the exigencies of the public service, and by the abolition of the chief office of Excise at Edinburgh the principal officers and accountants who were there stationed, and were the principal managers of the affairs of the said incorporation, have either ceased to be officers of the revenue, by the abolition of their offices, or have been removed to the chief office of Excise in London, and inasmuch as the demands of the public service will not allow of collectors and other officers being called from their public duties to meet together and act as managers, it has been found impossible to continue the purposes of the said incorporation and the management of the affairs thereof; and it has become therefore expedient to abolish the same, and to make provision for securing the rights and interests of the existing contributors, and in order to effect the same, that the said shares in the stock of the Bank of England and Royal Bank of Scotland respectively should be sold, and the monies arising from such sales, together with all monies which, before such sales shall be effected, shall have been received and paid to the account of the said incorporation, be carried to the account of the consolidated duties of Excise, and be paid into the receipt of the Exchequer under that head; and the several sums, amounting to the sum of 23,500*l.*, together with the interest arising therefrom, as soon as the bonds given for payment of the same are discharged, and such interest as shall in the meantime be payable should be carried to account, and paid in manner here mentioned; and that no person not having been a contributor before the 5th of January 1835 shall be admitted or deemed to have been admitted a contributor, but that the present contributors, having become contributors before the said 5th of January 1835, shall continue the payment of their respective rates, which shall in like manner be paid over, under the management of the Commissioners of Excise, to the consolidated duties of Excise; and that all annuities to the widows and children of contributors now payable, or which shall hereafter become payable, according to the provisions of the said recited Act, shall be paid out of the duties of Excise, and be placed to the account of incidents of that department:

That so much of the said recited Act as directs the election and appointment of managers, and of a cashier and clerks of the said incorporation, and as directs the raising of a capital stock, and the application of any surplus thereof, as shall be required to this Act, or any of the provisions thereof, shall be and the same is hereby repealed; and the said incorporation shall from henceforth cease and determine, and no new or additional members shall be admitted into the same, nor shall any person be deemed a member thereof or an existing contributor within the meaning of this Act who shall not have been admitted and become a contributor before the 5th of January 1835.

That on the passing of this Act all the stocks, funds, and monies of the said incorporation shall, for the purposes of this Act, be vested in the Commissioners of Excise; and the said shares in the capital or joint stock of the Bank of England and of the Royal Bank of Scotland shall forthwith be sold and disposed of; and the said sums so lent on heritable securities shall, as soon as the same can be in conformity with the conditions of the respective securities on which the same were lent, be called in, and recovered; and all monies arising from such sales, and the amount of such monies when called in and repaid, and all interest thereon, together with all other monies which shall in any manner be vested in the said incorporation, or be vested or remain in the hands, custody, or possession of any body politic or corporate, company, or person or persons in trust for or for the use or behalf of the said incorporation, shall be paid over to the Commissioners of Excise; and for the purpose of realizing and paying over such monies, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Excise and they are hereby authorized and required, to nominate and appoint one or more fit person or persons to sell and dispose of the said shares, and to obtain payment of the monies so lent, and to collect and call in all other property or other effects, heritable or moveable, belonging to the said incorporation, and to pay over all monies collected or produced by the sale of such shares, property, and effects as aforesaid, to the Commissioners of Excise; and in case of any person so appointed dying or becoming incapable of acting, or of his appointment being recalled by the said Commissioners of Excise, the said Commissioners shall appoint some other person in the room and place of the person so dying or becoming incapable, or whose appointment has been recalled as aforesaid; and every such appointment as aforesaid to be made by the Commissioners of Excise shall be in the form set out in the Schedule to this Act.

That every person so to be appointed as aforesaid shall, if required, give security in such sum or sums of money as shall be directed by the Commissioners of Excise for duly recovering, paying over, and accounting for all the property of the said incorporation, and otherwise discharging the duties of his office, such authority as he shall have taken in the name of His Majesty shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Excise to pay and allow to the person or persons so appointed such sum or sums as recompense for his or their labour and trouble in the matter as shall be authorized and directed by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

IV. That the person or persons so to be appointed as aforesaid shall have full power and authority to sell and dispose said shares, and to obtain payment of the monies so lent, and to collect and take in all other property, or other effects, or moveable, belonging to the said incorporation; and the receipt or discharge of any person or persons so appointed as aforesaid shall be sufficient receipt and discharge to all and every person and persons, company, body politic and corporate, or delivering over any money or other property or effects in their hands, custody, or possession, or due or owing to be paid over as the purchase money of any such shares or other property or effects of the said incorporation; and the persons so appointed shall have full power and authority to raise, insist in, and carry on, in his or their name or name, action, suit, or proceedings at law, for making good the purposes of such his or their appointment, and collecting, and realizing the whole of the property and effects, heritable and moveable, of the said incorporation; and no action proceeding raised, insisted in, or carrying on by any such person shall abate, cease, or determine by the death or removal of any such person, but the same shall continue and be insisted in and carried on by the person who shall be nominated and appointed in the room or place of the person so dying or removed.

V. That the Commissioners of Excise shall pay, or cause to be paid all such monies as shall be received by them of the said incorporation into the hands of the Receiver General of Excise, to be paid into the Bank of England, and the receipt of the Exchequer consequent on the duties of Excise, in the same manner as all other monies coming into the said Commissioners on account of the duties of Excise are, by law required to be paid over.

VI. That all books, accounts, documents, and papers belonging to or in the hands, custody, or possession of the managers, clerk, or cashier of the said incorporation, and all books, accounts, documents, or papers relating to the affairs of the said incorporation in the custody or possession of any company or other person or persons in trust for or on the behalf of the managers, clerk, or cashier, shall be delivered over to the Commissioners of Excise, or to such other person or persons as shall appoint to receive and keep the same, and shall from thenceforth become part of the public documents of the Excise.

VII. That all the persons contributors to the said incorporation who shall have been admitted contributors before the 1st of January 1835, whether contributors under the said royal charter or letters patent being non-acceders to the said recited Act, or contributors acceders under the said recited Act, shall continue to pay their several rates and contributions under the said recited Act, according to the class in which they may be, and according as they may be acceders or non-acceders respectively, and shall also in case of promotion or marriage pay the increased or equalizing rates as provided in the said recited Act.

VIII. That the Receiver General of Excise, and the respective collectors of each collection throughout the Kingdom shall deduct from the salary of each officer, being a contributor, who may be stationed within the limits of the office of Excise, or within the collection of any such collector respectively, the amount of the rates or contributions payable by such contributors respectively, according to the provisions of the said recited Act; and the said Receiver General and the said collectors respectively shall enter all monies received by him or them on account of such rates or contributions in their accounts as money received on account of contributions to the Scotch Excise incorporation, and all such monies shall be remitted and paid into the Exchequer on the account of the duties of Excise, in the same manner as other monies received on account of the duties of Excise are by law directed to be remitted and paid.

IX. Provided, That it shall be lawful for any officer of Excise who may be a contributor, not being married, or if not having any child under the age of eighteen years, and who may be desirous of ceasing to be a contributor, to signify in writing to the Commissioners of Excise of such his desire to cease contributing, and thereupon the said Commissioners shall make an order that the name of such officer shall be struck out of the list of contributors; and from thenceforth such officer shall cease to be a contributor, and shall not be liable to have any further deduction made from his salary or wages on account of such rates or contribution, except any arrear thereof or any additional or equalizing rate or rates on account of promotion or marriage shall be due and owing at the time of giving such notice, which in such case it shall be lawful to deduct, and always, that every such notice shall be given six weeks at least before the next quarter day or sittings, when such officer's salary shall be becoming due, and if not so given, the deduction at the ensuing quarter day or sittings shall be made.

X. That all annuities which at the passing of this Act shall be payable to the widows or children of the deceased contributors, and all such annuities as shall hereafter become payable according to the provisions of the said recited Act to the widows or children of the persons who are continuing contributors by this Act, shall continue and be payable at the same rate of payment fixed by the managers of the said incorporation, and for the lengthened period in the case of children, until the said annuity shall be paid, as hereinbefore recited, in disposing of the surplus beyond the limited amount of capital stock, and all such annuity shall be a charge on the duties of Excise, and shall be placed to the account of incidents of that department.

XI. That it shall be lawful for the Receiver General of Excise, and for the collector of the several collections throughout the United Kingdom, and they are hereby authorized and required, out of any monies in their hands, to pay the annuities of the said recited Act and of the Commissioners of Excise at each quarter day, or at the sittings of the quarter day, the amount of all such annuities as shall be due and payable to the widows or children of any deceased contributor, and the said Receiver General and every such collector shall charge all such payments to the account of incidents of the department.

AN ACT to provide that Persons accused of Forgery in Scotland shall not be entitled to Bail, unless in certain cases.

(9th September 1855.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

After passing of the Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 123, for abolishing the punishment of death in certain cases of forgery; And that since the passing of the said Act persons accused of forgery, in consequence of their crime being no longer capital, in general apply for and are admitted to bail, but very frequently abscond and avoid standing their trial, whereby the ends of justice are defeated.

It is Enacted,

That from and after the passing of this Act no person or persons committed for trial in Scotland for any forgery or other offence which prior to the passing of the before-mentioned Act, was a capital offence, and the punishment of which is by the said Act limited to and declared to be transportation for life, shall be entitled to insist on liberation on bail, but without prejudice to the liberation of such person or persons as heretofore on such bail as the public prosecutor may agree to.

Provided, That it shall be in the power of the High Court or Circuit Court of Justiciary in Scotland respectively, on the application of any person or persons accused of any crime which by the before-mentioned Act is declared to be no longer capital, with death, to admit him or them to the privilege of bail, provided it shall appear to the Court to which such application is made to be consistent with the ends of justice to do so; but the bail so to be taken shall be of such amount, not less than the maximum fixed by the statutes applicable to Scotland now in force for crimes that are bailable, as the Court shall, under the whole circumstances of the case, think necessary for insuring the appearance for trial of the person or persons accused; any law or practice to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. That in case any suit or other proceeding has been prosecuted or commenced, or shall hereafter be prosecuted or commenced, in any of His Majesty's courts in England or Ireland, for recovering any great or small tithes, modus or composition for tithes, rate, or other ecclesiastical demand, subtracted, unpaid, or withheld by or due from any Quaker, no execution or decree or order shall issue or be made against the person or persons of the defendant or defendants, but the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall and may have his execution or decree against the goods or other property of the defendant or defendants; and in case any person now is detained in custody in England or Ireland, under any execution or decree in such suit or proceeding, or any other officer having such person in his custody shall forthwith discharge him therefrom: and the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such suit or proceeding shall and may, notwithstanding such discharge, issue any other execution or take any other proceedings for recovering his demand and his costs out of the property, real or personal, of the person so discharged.

CAP. LXXV.]

AN ACT for the Amendment of the Law as to the Tithing of Turnips in certain Cases.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is frequently convenient and necessary, in the agistment of turnips by sheep or cattle, to permit of tithes from the ground in order that they may be more easily and completely consumed, and thereby to prevent waste, it is not reasonable that such severance should vary or affect the payment of tithes:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act, in all cases where turnips shall be severed in the manner and for the purposes aforesaid, and shall be eaten on the ground by sheep or cattle, and not otherwise removed, the same shall be subject to the payment of tithes in the same manner and to the same extent as if they had been eaten by such sheep or cattle without having been so severed as aforesaid, and no further or otherwise.

It is Enacted,

That any person who, as grantee, assignee, or otherwise, hath obtained or who shall hereafter obtain letters patent for sole making, exercising, vending, or using of any invention, may, if he think fit, enter with the Clerk of the Patents of Scotland, or Ireland, respectively, as the case may be, having first obtained the leave of His Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General in case of an English patent, of the Lord Advocate or Solicitor General of Scotland in the case of a patent, or of His Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General for Ireland, in the case of an Irish patent, with his fiat and signature, a disclaimer of any part of either the title of the invention or of the specification, stating the reasons therefor, or may, with such leave as aforesaid, enter a memorandum of any alteration in the said title or specification, being such disclaimer or such alteration as shall extend the exclusive right granted by the said letters patent; and such disclaimer or memorandum of alteration, being filed by the said Clerk of the Patents, and enrolled with the specification, shall be deemed and taken to be part of such letters patent or such specification in all courts whatever: Provided always, that any person may enter a caveat, in like manner as caveats are now used to be entered, against such disclaimer or alteration, and such caveat being so entered shall give the party entering the same a right to have notice of the application being heard by the Attorney General or Solicitor General or Lord Advocate respectively: Provided also, that no such disclaimer or alteration shall be receivable in evidence in any action or suit (save and except in any proceeding by scire facias) pending at the time when such disclaimer or alteration was enrolled, but in every such action or suit the original title and specification alone shall be in evidence, and deemed and taken to be the title and specification of the invention for which the letters patent have been granted: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Attorney General or Solicitor General or Lord Advocate, before granting such fiat, to require the party applying for the same to advertise his disclaimer or alteration in such manner as to such Attorney General or Solicitor General or Lord Advocate shall seem right, and shall, if he so require, such advertisement, certify in his fiat that the same has been duly made.

That if in any suit or action it shall be proved or specially found by the verdict of a jury that any person who hath obtained letters patent for any invention or supposed invention was not the first inventor thereof, or of some part thereof, or if some other person or persons having invented or used the same, or some part thereof, before the date of such patent, or if such patentee or his assigns shall discover that some other person had, unknown to such patentee, invented the same, or some part thereof, before the date of such letters patent, it shall and may be lawful for such patentee or his assigns to petition His Majesty in council to confirm the said letters patent or to grant new letters patent, the matter of which shall be heard before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council; and such committee, upon examining the said matter, being satisfied that such patentee believed himself to be the first and original inventor, and being satisfied that such invention or part thereof had not been publicly and generally used before the date of such first letters patent, may report to His

the opinion; that the prayer of such petition ought to be complied with, whereupon His Majesty may, if he think fit, grant such petition; and the said letters patent shall be available in law and equity to give to such petitioner the sole right of using, making, and vending such invention as against all persons whatsoever, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof notwithstanding: Provided, that any person opposing such petition shall be entitled to be heard before the said Judicial Committee: Provided also, that any person, party to any former suit or action touching such first letters patent, shall be entitled to have notice of such petition before presenting the same.

III. That if any action at law or any suit in equity for an account shall be brought in respect of any alleged infringement of such letters patent heretofore or hereafter granted, or any scire facias to repeal such letters patent, and if a verdict shall pass for the patentee or his assigns, or if a final decree or decretal order shall be made for him or them, upon the merits of the suit, it shall be lawful for the Judge before whom such action shall be tried to certify on the record, or the Judge who shall make such decree or order to give a certificate under his hand, that the validity of the patent came in question before him, which record or certificate being given in evidence in any other suit or action whatever touching such patent, if a verdict shall pass, or decree or decretal order be made, in favour of such patentee or his assigns, he or they shall receive treble costs in such suit or action, to be taxed at three times the taxed costs, unless the Judge making such second or other decree or order, or trying such second or other action, shall certify that he ought not to have such treble costs.

IV. That if any person who now hath or shall hereafter obtain any letters patent as aforesaid shall advertise in the London Gazette three times, and in three London papers, and three times in some country paper published in the town where or near to which he carried on any manufacture of anything made according to his specification, or near to or in which he resides in case he carried on no such manufacture, or published in the county where he carries on such manufacture or where he lives in case these shall not be any paper published in such town, that he intends to apply to His Majesty in council for a prolongation of his term of sole using and vending his invention, and shall petition His Majesty in council to that effect, it shall be lawful for any person to enter a caveat at the Council Office; and if His Majesty shall refer the consideration of such petition to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and notice shall first be by him given to any person or persons who shall have entered such caveats, the petitioner shall be heard by his counsel and witnesses to prove his case, and the persons entering caveats shall likewise be heard by their counsel and witnesses; whereupon, and upon hearing and inquiring of the whole matter, the Judicial Committee may report to His Majesty that a further extension of the term in the said letters patent should be granted, not exceeding seven years; and His Majesty is hereby authorized and empowered, if he shall think fit, to grant new letters patent for the said invention for a term not exceeding seven years after the expiration of the first term, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding: Provided that no such extension shall be granted if the application by petition shall not be made and prosecuted with effect before the expiration of the term originally granted in such letters patent.

V. That in any action brought against any person for infringing any letters patent the defendant on pleading thereto shall give to the plaintiff, and in any scire facias to repeal such letters patent the plaintiff shall file with his declaration, a notice of any objections on which he means to rely at the trial of such action, and no objection shall be allowed to be made in behalf of such defendant or plaintiff respectively at such trial unless he prove the objections stated in such notice; Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for any Judge at chambers on summons served by such defendant or plaintiff on such plaintiff or defendant respectively to show cause why he should not be allowed to offer other objections whereof notice shall not have been given as aforesaid, to give leave to offer such objection, on such terms as to such Judge shall seem fit.

VI. That in any action brought for infringing the right granted by any letters patent, in taxing the costs thereof regard shall be had to the part of such case which has been proved at the trial, which shall be certified by the Judge before whom the same shall be had, and the costs of each part of the case shall be given according as either party has succeeded or failed therein, regard being had to the notice of objections, as well as the counts in the declaration, and without regard to the general result of the trial.

VII. That if any person shall write, paint, or print, or mould, cast, or carve, or engrave or stamp, upon anything made, used, or sold by him, for the sole making or selling of which he hath not or shall not have obtained letters patent, the name or any imitation of the name of any other person who hath or shall have obtained letters patent for the sole making and vending of such thing, without leave in writing of such patentee or his assigns, or if any person shall upon such thing, not having been licensed from the patentee or some person who purchased it from or under such patentee, or not having had the licence or consent in writing of such patentee or his assigns, write, paint, print, mould, cast, carve, engrave, stamp, or otherwise mark the word "Patent" the words "Letters Patent," or the words "By the King's Patent," or any words of the like kind, meaning or import, with a view of imitating or counterfeiting the stamp, mark or other device of the patentee, or shall in any other manner imitate or counterfeit the stamp or mark or other device of the patentee, he shall for every such offence, be liable to a penalty of £100, to be recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, process, or information in any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or in Ireland, or in the Court of Session in Scotland, one half to His Majesty, his heirs and successors, and the other to any person who shall sue for the same: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to subject any person to any penalty in respect of stamping or in any way marking the word "Patent" upon anything made, upon the sole making or vending of which a patent before obtained shall have expired.

That so much of all laws, statutes, and usages, and so much of all royal and other charters, grants, and letters patent now in force relating to the several boroughs named in the Schedules (A.) and (B.) to this Act annexed, or to the inhabitants thereof, or to the several bodies or reputed bodies corporate named in the said Schedules, or any of them, as are inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall be and the same are hereby repealed and annulled.

And after reciting that in divers cities, towns, and boroughs the common lands and public stock of such cities, towns, and boroughs, and the rents and profits thereof, have been held and applied for the particular benefit of the citizens, freemen, and burgesses of the said cities, towns, and boroughs respectively, or of certain of them, or of the widows or kindred of them, or certain of them, and have not been applied to public purposes;—

It is Enacted,

11. That every person who now is or hereafter may be an inhabitant of any borough, and also every person who has been admitted or who might hereafter have been admitted a freeman or burgess of any borough if this Act had not been passed, or who now is or hereafter may be the wife or widow or son or daughter of any freeman or burgess, or who may have espoused or may hereafter espouse the daughter or widow of any freeman or burgess, or who has been or may hereafter be bound an apprentice, shall have and enjoy and be entitled to acquire and enjoy the same share and benefit of the lands, tenements, and

That on the 1st of March 1836, and in every succeeding year, the burgesses of every borough shall elect from the persons qualified to be councillors by a majority of votes, two burgesses, who shall be and be called auditors of such borough, and two burgesses, who shall be and be called assessors of such borough; and every such auditor and assessor shall continue in office until the 1st of March in the year following his election; and the election of such auditors and assessors respectively shall be in form and manner hereinbefore provided for the election of councillors: Provided nevertheless, that in every such election of auditors or assessors no burgess shall vote for more than one person to be an auditor or assessor: Provided also, that no burgess shall be eligible to be or be elected such auditor or assessor as aforesaid who shall be of the council, or the town clerk or treasurer of such borough.

XXVIII. That after the declaration of the first election of the councillors under the provisions of this Act in any borough, the mayor, aldermen, and common councilmen, and all other members of the common council or governing body of the body corporate named in conjunction with such borough in the said Schedules (A.) and (B.), by whatever name or style they may be known or called, then in office, shall go out of office, and their whole powers and duties shall cease: Provided nevertheless, that any of the persons so going out of office shall be eligible to be elected and appointed under the provisions of this Act: Provided also, that such persons as are Justices of the Peace in any borough at the time of passing this Act shall continue to hold and exercise all the powers which at the time of passing this Act they have as Justices of the Peace, until the 1st of May next, and no longer: Provided also, that in every borough in which, by statute, charter, bye law, or custom, any election is to be holden between the day of the passing of this Act and the 1st of May next, both inclusive, no such election shall be holden, but every person holding office in any borough on the day of the passing of this Act shall continue to hold and exercise all the powers, and be subject to all the duties, and be entitled to the same salary and fees of such office as he should have had and been if elected to such office between the day of the passing of this Act and the said 1st of May: Provided that nothing herein provided by this Act for him to go out of office; any statute, charter, bye law, or custom notwithstanding.

XXIX. That it is expedient that certain boroughs of large population should be divided into wards before any election of councillors for such boroughs should take place:—

It is Enacted,

XXXIX. That every borough in the said Schedule (A.) shall be divided into the number of wards mentioned in such Schedule in conjunction with the name of such borough; and that it shall be lawful for the barrister or barristers appointed in pursuance of the provisions hereinbefore contained to revise the burgess and councillors lists of any borough in the present year, and as they is and are hereby required within the space of six weeks next after the passing of this Act to determine and set out the extent, limits, and boundary lines of such wards, and what portions of such borough shall be included therein respectively; and the copy of the particulars of such division shall be forthwith transmitted to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and, if His Majesty by advice of his Privy Council shall approve such determination, shall be published in the London Gazette, and another copy of such particulars shall be delivered to the town clerk of such borough, to be by him safely kept among the public documents of such borough; and every such borough shall, after such publication as aforesaid, be deemed to be divided into such wards as shall be so determined and set out as aforesaid, and such division shall continue and be in force until the same shall be altered by authority of Parliament: Provided always, that if His Majesty, by advice of his Privy Council, shall not approve such determination, such publication as aforesaid shall nevertheless be made, and such division be in force for the purpose of any election under the provisions of this Act, and until such time as His Majesty shall by advice of his Privy Council, upon further information and report from such barristers, definitively approve the division of such borough into wards in manner hereinbefore mentioned.

XL. That the said barrister or barristers shall, after the division of the borough into such number of wards as is directed by this Act, apportion among the several wards of such borough the number of councillors mentioned in conjunction with the name of such borough in the said Schedule (A.); and in assigning the number of councillors to each ward the said barrister or barristers shall, as far as in his or their judgment he or they may deem it to be practicable, have regard as well to the number of persons rated to the relief of the poor in such ward as to the aggregate amount of the sums at which all the said persons shall be so rated: Provided always, that the number of councillors assigned to each ward shall be a number divisible by three; and a copy of the particulars of the number of councillors so assigned to the several wards of the borough shall be forthwith transmitted to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and, subject as aforesaid to the approval of His Majesty, by the advice of his Privy Council, shall be published in the London Gazette, and another copy of such particulars shall be delivered to the town clerk of the borough, to be by him safely kept among the public documents of such borough; and the number of councillors so assigned to each ward of such borough shall, after such publication as aforesaid, be the number to be elected in such ward, and shall so continue until the same shall be altered by authority of Parliament: Provided always, that if His Majesty, by the advice of his Privy Council, shall not approve the number of councillors so assigned to each ward, such publication shall nevertheless be made, and the number of councillors so assigned to each ward of such borough by such barristers shall be the number to be elected in each ward at any election of councillors under this Act until such time as His Majesty shall by advice of his Privy Council, upon further information and report from such barrister, definitively approve such assignment in manner hereinbefore mentioned.

And after reciting that it may be convenient in divers boroughs to adhere in the division of the same into wards to the ancient division thereof into parishes or into districts under any local Act, or to adapt such division to local circumstances, and such division so made might render difficult such apportionment of councillors as is hereinbefore directed:—

It is Enacted,

XLI. That in every such case the said barrister or barristers shall be empowered, at his or their discretion, subject as aforesaid to the approval of His Majesty by the advice of his Privy Council, to divide any borough in conjunction with the name of which, in the said Schedule (A.), shall be mentioned any number of wards greater than two, into any number of wards more or less by one than the number of wards mentioned in conjunction with the name of such borough in the said Schedule.

XLII. That the said barrister or barristers shall have power to require any overseer or person having the custody of any book containing any rate made for the relief of the poor, in any parish wholly or in part within any borough to be divided into wards, to produce such book before and allow the same to be inspected by the said barrister or barristers; and the said barrister or barristers shall have power to administer an oath to the overseers and to all other persons, who are hereby required to answer upon oath all such questions as the said barrister or barristers may put to them or any of them touching any matter which the said barrister or barristers may deem necessary for enabling them to execute the duties by this Act imposed upon them.

XLIII. That in every case in which there shall be a division into wards of any borough, the burgesses of every such ward, and none others, shall on the day fixed for the first election of councillors separately elect from the persons qualified to be councillors the whole number of councillors assigned to such ward respectively, and on the 1st of November in any subsequent year shall separately elect from the persons qualified to be councillors one third part of the whole number of councillors assigned to such ward, and on the 1st of March next after the first election of councillors in such ward, and in every subsequent year, shall separately elect from the persons qualified to be councillors two assessors for such ward; and every such ward election first after such division into wards of any such borough shall be held before the mayor, or the person whom the mayor for the time being shall appoint in that behalf, and in every succeeding year shall be held before the alderman whom the councillors chosen in such ward shall yearly appoint in that behalf and before the two assessors of such ward; and the assessors who shall hold the court for revising the burgess lists with the mayor shall be the assessors of the mayor's ward, and the voters and other proceedings in all other respects at such ward elections shall be conducted in the same manner as at elections of councillors or assessors respectively by the burgesses of the whole borough, and the alderman and assessors of each ward shall have the same powers in regard to elections in their ward as the mayor and assessors for the whole borough if not divided into wards; and every person so elected a councillor or assessor in such ward shall hold his office for the same time that he would have held it if he had been elected by the burgesses of the whole borough and if the number elected in such ward had been the whole number for the borough.

XLV. That every burgess of any borough shall be entitled to vote in the election of the councillors and assessors to be chosen within that ward in which the property of such burgess for which he appears to be rated on the burgess roll for the time being of such borough shall appear to be situated, and not otherwise; and if any burgess shall be rated in respect of distinct premises in two or more wards, then he shall be entitled to be enrolled and to vote in such one of the said wards as he shall elect, but not in more than one.

XLVI. That for the purpose of better ascertaining who are the burgesses of any such ward the burgess roll of every borough so divided into wards shall thenceforward be made out, by or under the direction of the town clerk, in alphabetical lists of the burgesses in each ward, to be called the "Ward Lists."

XLVII. That if at any election of councillors or assessors for any borough any person who shall be elected a councillor or assessor in more than one of the wards of such borough, he shall within three days after notice thereof choose, or in his default the mayor shall declare, for which one of the said wards such councillor or assessor shall serve, and such person shall thereupon be held to be elected in that ward only which he shall so choose, or which the mayor shall so declare.

XLVIII. That if any extraordinary vacancy shall be occasioned in the office of councillor, auditor, or assessor for any borough, the burgesses entitled to vote shall on a day to be fixed by the mayor of such borough, or in the case of a councillor or assessor, where the borough shall have been divided into wards, by the alderman of the ward in which the vacancy has happened, (such day not to be later than ten days after such vacancy,) elect from the persons qualified to be councillors another burgess to supply such vacancy; and such election shall be held, and the voting and other proceedings, in case of a contest, shall be conducted in the same manner and subject to the same provisions as are hereinbefore enacted with respect to the election of councillors as aforesaid; and every person so elected shall hold such office until the time at which the person in room of whom he was chosen would regularly have gone out of office, and he shall then go out of office, but shall be capable of immediate re-election if then qualified as herein provided: Provided always, that after the full number to be regularly elected of the councillors in any year shall have declared their acceptance of office no new election of councillors shall be made by reason of such extraordinary vacancy, unless the number of councillors remaining after such vacancy shall not exceed two thirds of the whole number of the council of such borough.

XLIX. That if any mayor, alderman, or assessor of any borough who shall be in office at the time herein appointed for the session, by them of the burgess list under this Act, or for any election of councillors, assessors, or auditors which he is required to conduct or declare, shall neglect or refuse to revise such burgess list, or to conduct or declare such election as aforesaid, every such mayor, alderman, and assessor shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of 100*l.*; and if any overseer of any parish, wholly or in part within any borough shall neglect or refuse to make out, sign, and deliver such list as aforesaid, or if the town clerk of any borough shall neglect or refuse to receive, print, and publish such lists as aforesaid, or if any such overseer or town clerk shall refuse to allow any such list to be perused by any person having a right thereunto, every such overseer and town clerk respectively for every such offence shall forfeit and pay the sum of 50*l.*; and the said penalties hereby in such case imposed shall be recovered, with full costs of suit, by any person who will sue for the same within three calendar months after the commission of such offence, by action of debt or on the case in any of His Majesty's superior courts of record; and the money so to be recovered shall, after payment of the costs and expenses attending the recovery thereof, be paid and apportioned as follows: (that is to say,) one moiety thereof to the person so suing, and the other moiety thereof to the treasurer to be appointed by virtue of this Act, to be by him applied in aid of the borough fund hereinafter mentioned.

L. That on the 9th of November in every year the council of the borough shall elect out of the aldermen or councillors of such borough a fit person to be the mayor of such borough, who shall continue in his office for one whole year; and in any vacancy shall be occasioned in the office of mayor of the borough during such year by reason of any person who shall have been elected to such office not accepting the same, or by reason of his dying or ceasing to hold the said office, the council of the borough shall within ten days after such vacancy elect out of the aldermen or councillors of the said borough another fit person to be the mayor thereof for the remainder of the then current year.

L. That no person elected a mayor, alderman, or councillor, or auditor or assessor, for any borough, shall be capable of acting as such, except in administering the declaration hereinafter contained, until he shall have made and subscribed before any two or more such aldermen or councillors (who are hereby respectively authorized and required to administer the same to each) a declaration in the words or to the effect following; (that is to say,)

I, A.B., having been elected Mayor [or Alderman, Councillor, Auditor, or Assessor] for the Borough of _____ do hereby declare, That I take the said Office upon myself, and will duly and faithfully fulfil the Duties thereof according to the best of my Judgment and Ability; [and in the Case of the Party being qualified by Estate say, and I do hereby declare that I am seised or possessed of Real or Personal Estate, or both, [as the Case may be,] to the amount of One thousand Pounds or Five hundred Pounds, as the Case may require, over and above what will satisfy all my Debts].'

And that every alderman who shall have made and subscribed the foregoing declaration in respect of estate shall once in every year, if required in writing so to do by any two members of the council, make and subscribe a declaration that he is qualified to the same amount in real or personal estate, or both, as the case may then be, as the amount mentioned in the declaration originally made and subscribed by him: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to diminish the obligation of any person to make and subscribe the declaration provided and enjoined by an Act, 9 Geo. 4. c. 12, intitled, 'An Act for repealing so much of several Acts as imposes the Necessity of receiving the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper as a Qualification for certain Offices and Employments.'

L. That every person duly qualified who shall be elected to the office of alderman, councillor, auditor, or assessor, and every councillor who shall be elected to the office of mayor, for any borough, shall accept such office to which he shall have been elected, or shall in lieu thereof pay to the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of such borough such fine not exceeding 50*l.* in case of aldermen, councillors, auditors, or assessors, and such fine not exceeding 100*l.* in case of mayor, as the council of such boby a by-election to be made as hereinafter provided shall declare in that behalf; and such fine shall be paid by the person so elected by the warrant of any Justice having jurisdiction within the borough, who is hereby required on the application of the person so elected to issue the same, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so refusing to accept office, with the reasonable charges of such distress; and every such person so elected shall accept such office by making and subscribing the declaration hereinbefore mentioned within five days after notice of his election, otherwise such person shall be liable to pay the said fine as for his non-acceptance of such office, and such office shall thereupon be deemed to be vacant and shall be filled up by a fresh election to be made in the manner hereinbefore mentioned: Provided always, that no person disabled by lunacy or imbecility of mind, or by deafness, blindness, or other permanent infirmity of body, shall be liable to such fine as aforesaid: Provided also, that every person so elected to any such office who shall be above the age of sixty-five years, or who shall have already served such office respectively, or paid the fine for not accepting such office respectively, within five years from the day on which he shall be so re-elected, shall be exempted from accepting or serving the same office if he shall claim such exemption within five days after notice of his election: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend to compel the acceptance of any office or duty whatever in any borough by any military, naval, or marine officer in His Majesty's service on full pay, or by any officer or other person employed and residing within any of His Majesty's dockyards, victualling establishments, arsenals, or barracks.

LII. Provided, That if any person holding the office of mayor, alderman, or councillor for any borough shall be declared bankrupt, or shall apply to take the benefit of any Act for the relief of insolvent debtors, or shall compound by deed with his creditors, or, being mayor, shall be absent for more than two calendar months, or, being an alderman or councillor, for more than six months, at one and the same time, (unless in case of illness), from the borough of which he shall be mayor, alderman, or councillor, then and in every such case such person shall thereupon immediately become disqualified and shall cease to hold the office of such mayor, alderman, or councillor as aforesaid, and in the case of such absence shall be liable to the same fine, to be recovered in the same manner, as if he had refused to accept the said office, and the council thereupon shall forthwith declare the said office to be void, and shall signify the same by notice in writing under the hands of three or more of them, countersigned by the town clerk, to be affixed in some public place within the borough, and the said office shall thereupon become void; but every person so becoming disqualified and ceasing to hold such office on account of his being declared a bankrupt, or of his applying to take the benefit of any Act for the relief of insolvent debtors, or having compounded with his creditors as aforesaid, shall, on obtaining his certificate or on payment of his debts in full, be capable (if otherwise qualified) of being re-elected to such office, and every person becoming disqualified to hold such office on account of absence as aforesaid shall on his return to such borough be capable of being re-elected to such office, provided he shall then be otherwise qualified.

LIII. That if any person shall act as mayor, alderman, or councillor, or auditor or assessor, for any borough, without having made the declaration hereinbefore required in that behalf, or without being duly qualified at the time of making such declaration, or after he shall cease to be qualified according to the provisions of this Act, or after he shall have become disqualified to hold any such office, he shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 50L, such sum to be recovered, with full costs of suit, by any person who will sue for the same within three calendar months after the commission of such offence, by action of debt or on the case in any of His Majesty's superior courts of record; and every person so sued by reason of not being so qualified in respect of estate shall prove that he was at the time of so acting qualified as aforesaid, or otherwise shall pay the said penalty, without any further evidence being given on the part of the plaintiff than that such person has acted as the mayor, or as alderman, councillor, auditor, or assessor (as the case may be) of such borough: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any defendant, by Judge's order to be obtained within fourteen days after he shall have been served with process in any such action, to require the plaintiff to give security for costs; and in such case all further proceedings in the said action shall be stayed until the plaintiff shall give security to the satisfaction of the proper officer of the court for the costs of such action in case a verdict shall pass for the defendant, or the plaintiff shall become nonsuit, or discontinue such action, or if upon demurrer or otherwise judgment shall be given against the plaintiff; and the defendant shall in either of such cases recover his full costs as between attorney and client: Provided also, that no such action shall be brought except by a burgess of such borough, nor unless the burgess bringing the same shall, within fourteen days after the commission of the offence, have served a notice in writing personally upon the party committing such offence of his intention to bring such action; and in case the plaintiff in any such action shall obtain a verdict, the money so to be recovered shall, after payment of the costs and expenses attending the recovery thereof, be paid and apportioned as follows; (that is to say,) one moiety thereof to the person so suing, and the other moiety thereof to the treasurer to be appointed by virtue of this Act, to be by him applied in aid of the borough fund: Provided always, that all acts and proceedings of any person in possession of the office of mayor, alderman, councillor, auditor, or assessor, and acting as a mayor, alderman, councillor, auditor, or assessor, shall, notwithstanding such disqualification or want of qualification, be as valid and effectual as if such person had been duly qualified.

LIV. That if any person who shall have or claim to have any right to vote in any election of mayor, or of a councillor, auditor, or assessor of any borough, shall, after the passing of this Act, ask or take any money or other reward by way of gift, loan, or other device, or agree or contract for any money, gift, office, employment, or other reward whatsoever, to give or forbear to give his vote in any such election, or if any person, by himself or any person employed by him, shall, by any gift or reward, or by any promise, agreement, or security for any gift or reward, corrupt or procure, or offer to corrupt or procure, any person to give or forbear to give his vote in any such election, such person so offending in any of the cases aforesaid, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 50L of lawful money of Great Britain, to be recovered, with full costs of suit, by any person who shall sue for the same, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster; and any person offending in any of the cases aforesaid, being lawfully convicted thereof, shall for ever be disabled to vote in any election in such borough, or in any municipal or parliamentary election whatever in any part of the United Kingdom, and also shall for ever be disabled to hold, exercise, or enjoy any office or franchise to which he then shall or at any time afterwards, may be entitled as a burgess of such borough, as if such person was naturally dead.

LV. That if any person offending in any of the cases aforesaid shall, within the space of twelve months next after such offence, and shall discover any other person offending in any of the cases aforesaid, so that such other person be thereon convicted, such person so discovering, and not having been before that time convicted of any such offence, shall be indemnified and discharged from all penalties and disabilities which he shall then have incurred by any such offence.

IX. Provided, That no person shall be made liable to any incapacity, disability, forfeiture, or penalty by this Act imposed in any of the cases aforesaid, unless prosecution be commenced within two years after such incapacity, disability, forfeiture, or penalty shall be incurred, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

X. That the mayor for the time being of every borough shall be a Justice of the Peace of and for such borough, and shall continue to be such Justice of the Peace during the next succeeding year after he shall cease to be mayor, unless disqualified as aforesaid; and such mayor shall, during the time of his mayoralty, have precedence in all places within the borough, and in boroughs which return a member or members to serve in Parliament, other than the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and other than cities and towns which are counties of themselves, shall be the returning officer at all such elections; and in case the mayor shall, at the time when he shall be required to perform the duties of such returning officer, be dead, absent, or otherwise incapable of acting, or in case there shall be no mayor, the council of such borough shall forthwith elect one of the aldermen to be the returning officer for such borough in the place of the mayor being so dead, absent, or otherwise incapable: Provided always, that in every case where there shall be more than one mayor within the boundaries of any borough as the same are or shall at any future time be settled in so far as respects the election of members to serve in Parliament the mayor of that borough to which the writ of election shall be directed shall be the returning officer.

XI. That the council of every borough, on the 9th of November in this present year, shall appoint a fit person, not being a member of the council, to be the town clerk of such borough, who shall hold his office during pleasure; and in any borough may be an attorney of one of His Majesty's superior courts at Westminster, any law, statute, charter, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding; and the council of every borough shall in every year appoint another fit person, not being a member of the council, to be the treasurer of the borough, and also such other officers as have been usually appointed in such borough, or as they shall think necessary for enabling them to carry into execution the various powers and duties vested in them by virtue of this Act, and may from time to time discontinue the appointment of such officers as shall appear to them not necessary to be re-appointed; and shall take such security for the due execution of his office by any such town clerk, treasurer, or other officer, as the said council shall think proper; and shall order to be paid to the mayor, and to the town clerk and treasurer, and to every such other officer to be employed as aforesaid, such salary or allowance as the said council shall think reasonable: and in case of a vacancy in any such office as aforesaid by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, the council of such borough may appoint another fit person in the place of the person so making such vacancy; provided that the town clerk and treasurer shall not be the same person.

XII. That the treasurer of any borough shall pay no money on account of the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of such borough, save only in such cases as is provided by this Act, or upon the order in writing of the council, signed by three or more members of the council, and countersigned by the town clerk of such borough, or by order of the Court of Sessions of the Peace for the borough, or of a Justice of the Peace acting in and for the borough in the discharge of his judicial duty, in such cases as is provided by this Act, or in such case as a Court of Sessions of the Peace for any county, or a Justice of the Peace acting in and for a county in the discharge of his judicial duty, may make an order for the payment of money on the treasurer of such county, or for the payment of the salaries granted to any recorder or police magistrate as hereinafter provided.

XIII. That every town clerk, treasurer, or other officer appointed by the council as aforesaid shall, at such times during the continuance of his office, or within three months after the expiration of his office, and in such manner as the said council shall direct, deliver to the council, or to such person as they shall authorize for that purpose, a true account in writing of all matters committed to his charge by virtue of this Act, and also of all monies which shall have been by him received by virtue of or for the purposes of this Act, and how much thereof shall have been paid and disbursed, and for what purposes, together with proper vouchers for such payments, and also a list of the names of all such persons as shall not have paid the monies due from them for the purposes of this Act, and of the amount due from each of them; and every such officer shall pay all such monies as shall remain due from him to the treasurer for the time being, or to such person as the said council shall authorize to receive the same; and if any such officer shall refuse or wilfully neglect to deliver such account, or the vouchers relating to the same, or such list as aforesaid, or to make payment as aforesaid, or shall refuse or wilfully neglect to deliver to the said council, or to such person as they shall authorize, within three days after being thereunto required by notice in writing under the hands of any three or more of the said council, to be given to or left at the last place of abode of such officer, all books, papers, and writings in his custody or power relating to the execution of this Act, or to give satisfaction to the said council, or to such other person as aforesaid, respecting the same, then and in every such case, upon complaint made on behalf of the said council, by such person as they shall authorize for that purpose, of any such refusal or wilful neglect as aforesaid, to any Justice of the Peace for the county or other jurisdiction wherein such officer so refusing or neglecting shall be or reside, such Justice is hereby authorized and required to issue a warrant under his hand and seal for bringing such officer before any two Justices of the Peace for such county or jurisdiction; and upon the said officer appearing, or not being found, it shall be lawful for such Justices to hear and determine the matter in a summary way; and if it shall appear to such Justices that any monies remain due from such officer, such Justices may and they are hereby authorized and required, upon nonpayment thereof, by warrant under their hands and seals to cause such monies to be levied by distress and sale of the goods of such officer; and if sufficient goods shall not be found to satisfy the said monies and the charges of the distress, or if it shall appear to such Justices that such officer has refused or wilfully neglected to deliver such account, or the vouchers relating thereto, or such list as aforesaid, or that any books, papers, or writings relating to the execution of this Act remain in the hands or in the custody or power of such officer, and that he has refused or wilfully neglected to deliver the same, or to give satisfaction respecting the same as aforesaid, then and in every such case such Justices shall and they are hereby required to commit such offender to the common goal or house of correction for the county or jurisdiction where such offender shall be or reside, there to remain without bail until he shall have paid such monies as aforesaid, or shall have compounded with the said council for such monies, and shall have paid such composition in such manner as they shall appoint, (which composition the said council are hereby empowered to make and receive,) or until he shall have delivered a true account as aforesaid, together with such vouchers and lists as aforesaid, or until he shall have delivered up such books, papers, and writings, or have given satisfaction in respect thereof, to the said council, or to such other person as aforesaid, as the case may be: Provided always, that no person so committed shall be detained in prison for want of sufficient distress only for a longer space of time than three calendar months; provided also, that nothing in this Act contained shall prevent or abridge any remedy by action against any such officer so offending as aforesaid, or against any surety for any such officer, but such officer shall not be sued by action and also proceeded against in a summary manner by virtue of this Act for the same cause.

LXI. That in the city of Oxford, in the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and in the counties of the cities of Bristol, Canterbury, Chester, Coventry, Exeter, Gloucester, Lichfield, Lincoln, Norwich, Worcester, and York, and in the counties of the towns of Caermarthen, Haverfordwest, Kingston-upon-Hull, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Nottingham, Poole, and Southampton, the council shall on the 1st of November in every year appoint a fit person to execute the office of sheriff, with the like duties and powers as the sheriff or the person filling the office of sheriff in the said town and counties respectively would have had if this Act had not passed; and every person who, at the time of the passing of this Act, shall hold the office or execute the duties of sheriff in the said town and counties respectively shall continue to hold and execute the same until the first appointment of a sheriff therein under the provisions of this Act, and no longer.

LXII. That the council of every borough in which a separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be holden, as is hereinafter provided, shall, within ten days next after the grant of the said court shall have been signified to the council of such borough, appoint a fit person, not being an alderman or councillor, to be coroner of such borough so long as he shall well behave himself in his office of coroner, and shall fill up every vacancy of the office of coroner of the borough, by death, resignation, or removal, within ten days next after such vacancy shall have occurred, and none thereafter shall take any inquisition which belongs to the office of coroner within such borough save only the coroner so from time to time to be appointed; and every such coroner, for every inquisition which he shall duly take within such borough, shall be entitled to have the sum of 20s., and also the sum of 9d. for every mile exceeding two miles which he shall be compelled to travel from his usual place of abode to take such inquisition, to be paid by the treasurer out of the borough fund of such borough, by order of the Court of Quarter Sessions for such borough.

LXIII. That on or before the 1st of February in every year after the passing of this Act every coroner appointed in any borough shall make and transmit to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State a return in writing, according to such form as the said Secretary of State from time to time shall direct, of all the cases in which he may have been called upon to hold an inquest touching the cause of death of any person during the year ending on the 31st of December immediately preceding.

LXIV. That in every borough in and for which no separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be holden no person from and after the end of this present year shall take any inquisition which belongs to the office of coroner within such borough, save only the coroner for the county or district in which such borough is situated; and the coroner of such county or district, for every inquisition which he shall duly take within any place or precinct within any such borough, shall be entitled to have such rateable fees and salaries as would be allowed and due to him, and to be allowed and paid in like manner as for any other inquisition taken by him within such county: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to equal, diminish, or affect the authority of the Lord High Admiral, or of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom for the time being, or of the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty of England, as the Lieutenant of the Lord High Admiral in the said court, to appoint coroners to act within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty in the several ports and havens and on the sea coast of England, and to take inquisitions touching deaths happening within the said jurisdiction, as hath heretofore been done.

LXV. That the council elected under this Act in any borough shall have power to remove from his office every bailiff, treasurer, or chamberlain, and every other ministerial or executive officer of such borough and body corporate who shall be in office at the time of the first election of councillors under this Act; and every such bailiff, treasurer, or chamberlain, and every other ministerial or executive officer in such borough, shall continue to act in the same capacity as heretofore, and to execute all the duties heretofore belonging to his office, and be entitled to have the same salaries, fees, and emoluments as he would have had if this Act had not passed, until he shall be removed from his office, and no longer, unless he shall be re-appointed according to the provisions of this Act; and every officer who shall be in possession or receipt of any monies, goods, valuable securities, books, and papers belonging to or concerning the body corporate whose officer he is shall deliver up and account for the same to the council of such body corporate appointed under this Act; and the council shall have the same remedy against such officer to recover the same as is hereinbefore provided in the case of officers appointed by such council: Provided always, that all the charters, deeds, muniments, and records of every borough, or relating to the property thereof, shall be kept in such place as the council from time to time shall direct, and the town clerk for the time being shall have the charge and custody of and be responsible for the same.

LXVI. That every officer of any borough or county who shall be in any office of profit at the time of the passing of this Act, whose office shall be abolished, or who shall be removed from his office under the provisions of this Act, or who shall cease to be reappointed as aforesaid, shall be entitled to have an adequate compensation, to be assessed by the council, and paid out of the borough fund, for the salary, fees, and emoluments of the office which he shall so cease to hold, regard being had to the manner of his appointment to the said office, and his term or interest therein, and all other circumstances of the case; and every person entitled to such compensation as aforesaid shall deliver to the town clerk, or in case such person shall himself be town clerk then to the treasurer of the borough, a statement under the hand of such person setting forth the amount received by him or his predecessors in every year during the period of five years next before the passing of this Act on account of the salary, fees, emoluments, profits, and perquisites in respect whereof he shall claim such compensation, distinguishing the office, place, situation, employment, or appointment in respect whereof the same shall have been received, and containing a declaration that the same is a true statement according to the best of the knowledge, information, and belief of such person, and also setting forth the sum claimed by him as such compensation; and the town clerk or treasurer, as the case shall be, shall lay such statement before the council, who shall take the same into consideration, and determine thereon; and immediately upon such determination being made the person preferring such claim, if he shall not himself be the town clerk, shall be informed thereof by notice in writing under the hand of the town clerk; and in case such claim shall be admitted in part and disallowed in part, such notice shall specify the particulars in which the same shall have been admitted and disallowed respectively; and, in case the person preferring such claim shall think himself aggrieved by the determination of the council thereon, or in case one third of the members of the council shall subscribe a protest against the amount of compensation allowed by the determination of the council as excessive, it shall be lawful for the person preferring such claim, or any member of the council who shall subscribe such protest, to appeal to the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, who shall thereupon make such order as to them shall seem just; and such order, signed by three or more of such Lords Commissioners, shall be binding on all parties: Provided always, that if the council shall not determine on such claim within six calendar months after the aforesaid statement shall be delivered to the town clerk or treasurer, as the case shall be, such claim shall be considered as admitted: Provided also, that it shall not be lawful for any member of the council to subscribe such protest as aforesaid except within such period of six calendar months: Provided also, that the person preferring such claim, if any member of the council shall so require, upon receiving notice in writing signed by the town clerk, unless such person shall himself be town clerk, in which case no such notice shall be requisite, shall from time to time attend at any meeting or adjourned meeting of the council for the investigation of such claim, and then and there, upon his oath or solemn affirmation, to be taken or made before the mayor, (who is hereby authorized to administer the same,) shall answer all such questions as shall be asked by any member of the council touching the matters set forth in the statement subscribed by such person as aforesaid, and produce all books, papers, and writings in his possession, custody, or power relating thereto: Provided also, that every such officer who shall be continued in or re-appointed to such office under the provisions of this Act, and who shall be subsequently removed from such office for any cause other than such misconduct as would warrant removal from any office held during good behaviour, shall be entitled to compensation in like manner as if he had been forthwith removed under the provisions of this Act, and had not been continued in or re-appointed to such office.

LXXVII. That the sum payable to any person as such compensation as aforesaid shall be secured to such person by bond or obligation under the common seal of the borough out of whose funds the same shall be payable, in a sufficient penalty, conditioned for the payment to such person, his executors or administrators or assigns, of such sum, with all arrears thereof (if any) accrued due before the date of such bond; and such bond or obligation shall be prepared and executed at the expense of the borough fund, and delivered to the person entitled to such compensation as soon as conveniently may be after the amount thereof shall have been admitted as aforesaid by the council of the borough; or shall have been determined, in the event of such appeal as aforesaid, by the order of the said Lords Commissioners.

LXXVIII. That all pensions and allowances granted on or before the 5th of June in this present year, by the corporate body named in the said Schedules (A.) and (B.) in conjunction with any borough, to any retired officer or servant, or to the widow or child of any officer or servant, and all stipends and allowances which during seven years next before the said 5th of June have been usually paid and granted to the minister or late minister of any church or chapel, or to the master or usher of any school, or to the governor or master of any hospital within such borough, and all charitable allowances which have been usually paid as aforesaid to the inmates of any almshouses by such corporate body, shall be secured, as soon as conveniently may be for the passing of this Act, to every person entitled or accustomed to have and receive the same, by bond or obligation under the common seal of the borough out of whose funds the same shall be payable, in a sufficient penalty, conditioned for the payment to such person, his executors and administrators, of such pension, stipend, or allowance, with all arrears thereof, if any, accrued due before the date of such bond; and such bond or obligation shall be prepared and executed at the expense of the borough fund.

LXXIX. That all acts whatsoever authorized or required by virtue of this Act to be done by the council of such borough, and all questions of adjournment or others that may come before such council, may be done and decided by the majority of the members of the council who shall be present at any meeting held in pursuance of this Act, the whole number present at such meeting not being less than one third part of the number of the whole council; and at all such meetings the mayor, if present, shall preside; and the mayor, or, in the absence of the mayor, such alderman, or in the absence of all the aldermen, such councillor of the members of the council then assembled shall choose to be the chairman of that meeting, shall have a second or casting vote in all cases of equality of votes; and minutes of the proceedings of all such meetings shall be drawn up and fairly entered into a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall be signed by the mayor, alderman, or councillor presiding at such meeting; and the said minutes shall be open to the inspection of any burgess at all reasonable times on payment of a fee of 1s.: Provided always, that previous to any meeting of the council held by virtue of this Act a notice of the time and place of such meeting shall be given three clear days at least before such meeting, by fixing the said notice on or near the door of the town hall of the borough; and such notice shall be signed by the mayor, who shall have power to call a meeting of the council as often as he shall think proper; and in case the mayor shall refuse to call any such meeting or a requisition for that purpose signed by five members of the council at the least shall have been presented to him, it shall be lawful for the said five members to call a meeting of the council by giving such notice as is hereinbefore required in that behalf, such notice to be signed by the said members instead of the mayor, and stating therein the business proposed to be transacted at such meeting; and in every case a summons to attend the council, specifying the business proposed to be transacted at such meeting, signed by the town clerk, shall be left at the usual place of abode of every member of the council or at the premises in respect of which he is enrolled a burgess, three clear days at least before such meeting; and no business shall be transacted at such meeting other than is specified in the notice: Provided always, that there shall be in every borough four quarterly meetings in every year at which the council shall meet for the transaction of general business, and no notice shall be given of the business to be transacted on such quarterly days; and the said quarterly meetings shall be holden at or on the 9th of November, or if the 9th of November shall fall on a Sunday on the day following, and at such hour on such other three days before the 1st of November then next following as the council at the quarterly meeting in November shall decide; and the first business transacted at the quarterly meeting in November shall be the election of mayor.

LXX. That it shall be lawful for the council of any borough to appoint out of their own body, from time to time, such and so many committees, either of a general or special nature, and consisting of such number of persons as they may think fit, for any purposes which, in the discretion of such council, would be better regulated and managed by means of such committees: Provided always, that the acts of every such committee shall be submitted to the council for their approval.

And after reciting that divers bodies corporate now stand seized or possessed of sundry hereditaments and personal estate, in trust, in whole or in part, for certain charitable trusts, and it is expedient that the administration thereof be kept distinct from that of the public stock and borough fund;—

It is Enacted,

LXXI. That in every borough in which the body corporate, or any one or more of the members of such body corporate, in his or their corporate capacity, now stands or stand solely, or together with any person or persons elected solely by such body corporate, or solely by any particular number, class, or description of members of such body corporate seized or possessed for any estate or interest whatsoever of any hereditaments or any sums of money, chattels, securities for money, or any other personal estate whatsoever, in whole or in part in trust or for the benefit of any charitable uses or trusts whatsoever, all the estate, right, interest, and title, and all the powers of such body corporate, or of such member or members of such body corporate, in respect of the said uses and trusts, shall continue in the persons who at the time of the passing of this Act are such trustees as aforesaid, notwithstanding that they may have ceased to hold any office by virtue of which before the passing of this Act they were such trustees, until the 1st of August 1836, or until Parliament shall otherwise order, and shall immediately thereupon utterly cease and determine: Provided always, that if any vacancy shall be occasioned among the charitable trustees for any borough before the said 1st of August, it shall be lawful for the Lord High Chancellor or the Commissioners of the Great Seal for the time being, upon petition, in a summary way, to appoint another trustee to supply such vacancy; and every person so appointed a trustee as last aforesaid shall be a trustee until the time at which the person in the room of whom he was chosen would regularly have ceased to be a trustee, and he shall then cease to be a trustee: Provided also, that if Parliament shall not otherwise direct, on or before the said 1st of August 1836, the Lord High Chancellor or the Commissioners of the Great Seal shall make such orders as he or they shall see fit for the administration, subject to such charitable uses or trusts as aforesaid, of such trust estates.

LXXII. That the body corporate named in the said Schedules (A.) and (B.) in conjunction with any borough shall be trustees for executing by the council of such borough the powers and provisions of all Acts of Parliament made before the passing of this Act, (other than Acts made for securing charitable uses and trusts), and of all trusts (other than charitable uses and trusts) of which the said body corporate, or any of the members thereof in their corporate capacity, was or were sole trustee before the time of the first election of councillors in such borough under this Act.

LXXIII. That in every borough in which the body corporate, or a particular or limited number, class, or description of members of the body corporate, or of persons appointed by the body corporate, was or were, before the passing of this Act, trustees jointly with other trustees for the execution of any Act of Parliament, or of any trust, or in which the body corporate, or any particular or limited number, class, or description of members or nominees of the body corporate, by any statute, charter, or law, or custom was or were before the passing of this Act lawfully appointed to or exercised any powers, duties, or functions whatsoever not otherwise herein provided for, and the continuance of which is not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, the council of such borough, on the day named in such Act as last aforesaid, or in the deed or will by which such trust was created for a new election, nomination, or appointment of trustees, or on which such new election, nomination, or appointment has usually been made, (and if there shall be no such day named or usually observed, then on the 1st of January in the next year,) shall appoint the like number of members of the council, or as near as may be to the like number of members of the council, as there were theretofore members or nominees of such corporate body who in right of their office were such trustees or charged with the execution of such powers, duties, and functions, in room of the members or nominees of such corporate body ceasing to be trustees, or ceasing to exercise such powers, duties, and functions by virtue of this Act; and in the case of extraordinary vacancy among the trustees or persons so appointed by the council shall forthwith appoint one or more member of the council in the room of the person by whom such vacancy has been made, and to hold his trust or office for as long time as the person by whom such vacancy has been made would regularly have held it.

LXXIV. That notwithstanding anything in this Act contained, every member of any body corporate who in his corporate capacity, and every nominee of any body corporate or any particular number, class, or description of members of such body corporate who at the time of the passing of this Act shall be for a definite number of years or other shorter time a trustee of such Act or trust as last aforesaid, shall continue to be such trustee until the time when he would have ceased to be such trustee if this Act had not passed; and if a trustee for an indefinite time, or for life, or for so long as he shall be a member, or of a particular class or description of such body corporate, then until the 1st of January 1836, and no longer; and every member of the council appointed under the provisions of this Act to be a trustee of such acts or trusts as last aforesaid shall continue to be such trustee until the time herein provided for the new appointment of a member of the council to be trustee in his room, notwithstanding that he may have ceased to be a member of the council; and in case any particular member or officer of any of the said bodies corporate shall have been appointed by any such Act, or by any such trust deed or will as last aforesaid, to perform a particular number of years or other shorter time any specific powers, duties, or functions whatsoever, the person who at the time of the passing of this Act shall be the person designated and qualified to perform the same shall continue to perform the same for as long time when he would have ceased to perform the same if this Act had not passed; and if appointed for an indefinite time for life, or for so long as he shall be a member, or of a particular class or description of such body corporate, then until the 1st of January 1836 and no longer: Provided nevertheless, that nothing in this Act shall be construed to discontinue the trustees of the Liverpool Docks, but that every person who at the time of the passing of this Act shall be a trustee of the Liverpool Docks, and none other, shall be continued to be such trustee until the 1st of January 1836, and any and every such Justice who is appointed to discharge, or in his corporate capacity discharges any powers, duties, or functions whatsoever in respect of the said last-mentioned trust estate, and none other, shall continue to discharge the same, as if this Act had not passed, until the 1st November 1836, and no longer.

And it is enacted, that it may be expedient that the powers now vested in the trustees appointed under sundry Acts of Parliament for paving, lighting, cleansing, watching, regulating, supplying with water, and improving certain boroughs, or certain parts thereof, should be transferred to and vested in the councils of such boroughs respectively;—

It is Enacted,

LXVI. That the trustees appointed by virtue of any such Act of Parliament as last aforesaid, wherein the trustees, or the persons whose trustees they may be, are not beneficially interested, may, if it shall seem to them expedient, at a meeting to be called for that purpose, transfer in writing under their hands and seals all the powers vested in them as such trustees by any such Act or Acts of Parliament as aforesaid to the said body corporate of such borough, and the said body corporate of such borough shall thenceforth be trustee for executing by the council of such borough the several powers and provisions of any such Act or Acts of Parliament, and the members of the council shall have the same powers and be subject to the same duties as if their names had been originally inserted in such Act or Acts, or as if they had been elected under the provisions of any such Act or Acts as such trustees respectively: Provided always, that no such transfer as aforesaid shall be made of the powers vested by virtue of the Acts mentioned in Schedule (E.) which relate to the town of Cambridge, without the consent of the Chancellor, masters, and scholars of the University of Cambridge.

LXVII. That the council to be elected for any borough shall, immediately after their first election, and so from time to time thereafter as they shall deem expedient, appoint, for such time as they may think proper, a sufficient number of their own body, who, together with the mayor of the borough for the time being, shall be and be called the watch committee for such borough; and all the powers hereinafter given to such committee may be executed by the majority of those who shall be present at any meeting of such committee, the whole number present at such meeting being not less than three; and such watch committee shall, within three weeks after their first formation, and so from time to time thereafter as occasion shall require, appoint a sufficient number of fit men who shall be sworn in before some Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction within the borough, to act as constables for preserving the peace by day and by night, and preventing robberies and other felonies, and apprehending offenders against the peace; and the men so sworn shall not only within such borough, but also within the county in which such borough or part thereof shall be situated, and also within every county being within seven miles of any part of such borough, and also within all liberties in any such county, have all such powers and privileges, and be liable to all such duties and responsibilities, as any constable duly appointed now has or hereafter may have within his constabulary by virtue of the common law of this realm, or of any statutes made or to be made, and shall obey all such lawful commands as they may from time to time receive from any of the Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction within such borough, or within any county in which they shall be called to act as constables, for conducting themselves in the execution of their office.

LXVIII. That the watch committee for any such borough as aforesaid may from time to time frame such regulations as they shall deem expedient for preventing neglect or abuse, and for rendering such constables efficient in the discharge of their duties; and the said committee, or any two Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction within the borough, may at any time remove or dismiss any constable whom they shall think negligent in the discharge of his duty, or otherwise unfit for the same; and when any man shall be so dismissed, or cease to belong to the said constabulary force, all powers vested in him as a constable by virtue of this Act shall immediately cease; and no man so dismissed as aforesaid shall be re-appointed without the consent of two of the Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction within the borough.

LXIX. That it shall be lawful for any constable during the time of his being on duty to apprehend all idle and disorderly persons whom he shall find disturbing the public peace, or whom he shall have just cause to suspect of intention to commit a crime, and to deliver any person so apprehended into the custody of the constable appointed under this Act, who shall be in attendance at the nearest watch-house, in order that such person may be secured until he can be brought before a Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law, or may give bail for his appearance before a Justice of the Peace, if the constable shall think fit to take bail, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

LXX. That where any person charged with any petty misdemeanor shall be brought without the warrant of a Justice of the Peace into the custody of any constable appointed under this Act, during his attendance in the night time at any watch-house within any such borough as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for such constable, if he shall think fit, to take bail by recognizance, without any fee or reward, from such person, conditioned that such person shall appear for examination within two days before a Justice of the Peace within the borough at some time and place to be specified in the recognizance; and every recognizance so taken shall be of equal obligation on the parties entering into the same, and liable to the same proceedings for the estreating thereof, as if the same had been taken before a Justice of the Peace; and the constable shall enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose in every watch-house, the names, residence, and occupation of the party, and his surety or sureties, if any, entering into such recognizance, together with the condition thereof, and the sums respectively acknowledged, and shall lay the same before such Justice as shall be present at the time and place when and where the party is required to appear; and if the party does not appear at the time and place required, or within one hour after, the Justice shall cause a record of the recognizance to be drawn up, to be signed by the constable, and shall return the same to the next General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the borough, or for the county in which such borough is situate, in those boroughs for which there shall be no General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, with a certificate at the back thereof, signed by such Justice, that the party has not complied with the obligation therein contained; and the clerk of the peace shall make the like extracts and return of every such recognizance as of recognizances forfeited in the Sessions of the Peace; and if the party not appearing shall be taken by any person on his behalf to postpone the hearing of the charge against him, and the Justice shall think fit to do so, the Justice shall be at liberty to enlarge the recognizance to such further time as he shall appoint, and then to determine the same, either by the dismissal of the complaint or by binding the party to answer the charge at a time and place to be appointed.

matter thereof, at the Sessions, or otherwise, the recognisance for the appearance of the party before a Justice shall be dismissed without fee or reward.

LXXX. That if any constable of any borough shall be guilty of any neglect of duty or of any disobedience of any lawful order, or shall offend, being convicted thereof before any two Justices of the Peace, shall for every such offence be liable to be imprisoned for any time not exceeding ten days, or to be fined in any sum not exceeding 40s., or to be dismissed from his office, as such Justices shall in their discretion think meet.

LXXXI. That if any person shall assault or resist any constable of any borough appointed under this Act in the execution of his duty, or shall aid or incite any person so to assault or resist, every such offender, being convicted thereof before any two Justices of the Peace, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay such sum not exceeding 5l. as the said Justices shall think meet: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any prosecution by way of indictment against any person so offending, but so as that such person shall not be prosecuted by indictment and also proceeded against under this Act for the same offence.

LXXXII. That the treasurer of every borough appointed under this Act shall pay to the constables of such borough appointed under this Act such salaries, wages, and allowances, and at such periods, as the watch committee for such borough shall, subject to the approbation of the council, direct, and the council shall order to be paid also any extraordinary expenses which such persons shall appear to have necessarily incurred in apprehending offenders and executing the orders of any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction within such borough, such expenses having been first examined and approved by such Justice; and the said treasurer shall also pay such further sums as the watch committee shall, subject to the approbation of the council, award to any of the persons belonging to the said constabulary force, as a reward for extraordinary diligence or exertion, or as a compensation for wounds or severe injuries received in the performance of their duty, or as an allowance to such of them as shall be disabled by bodily injury received, or shall be worn out by length of service, and all other charges and expenses which the watch committee shall, subject to the approbation of the council, direct to be paid for the purposes of the constabulary force under this Act.

LXXXIII. That any two or more of the Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction within any borough are hereby authorised and required in the month of October in every year to nominate and appoint by precept in writing, under their hands, as many as they shall think fit of the inhabitants of such borough (not legally exempt from serving the office of constable), to act as special constables within such borough whenever they shall be required by the warrant of any of the Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction within such borough so to act, and not otherwise; and every such warrant shall recite that in the opinion of the Justice granting the same the ordinary police force of the borough is insufficient at that time to maintain the peace of the borough; and every person so appointed a special constable shall take the oath set forth in the Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 64, intituled, 'An Act for amending the Laws relative to the Appointment of Special Constables, and for the better Preservation of the Peace,' and shall have the powers and immunities and be liable to the duties and penalties enacted by the said last-mentioned Act; and every person so appointed a special constable shall receive, out of the borough fund, for every day during which he shall be called out to act as such, the sum of 3s. 6d., and no more.

LXXXIV. That as soon as constables shall have been appointed by the watch committee for any borough, a notice, signed by the mayor of such borough, specifying the day on which such constables shall begin to act, shall be fixed on the door of the town hall and every church within such borough; and on the day so specified in such notice so much of all Acts named in conjunction with such borough in the Schedule (E.) to this Act annexed, and of all Acts made before the passing of this Act, as relates to the appointment, regulation, powers, and duties or to the assessment or collection of any rate to provide for the expenses of any watchmen, constables, patrol, or police for any place situated within such borough, shall cease and determine; and all watch-houses and watch-boxes in any such place, and all arms, accoutrements, and other necessities provided as the public expense for any watchmen, constables, patrol, or police therein, shall be given up to such persons as shall be named by the said mayor in such notice, for the use and accommodation of the constables to be appointed under this Act, and all the property so to be given up shall be deemed to belong to the body corporate of such borough; and in case any person having the charge, controul, or possession of any watch-house, watch-box, arms, accoutrements, or necessities as aforesaid shall neglect or refuse to give up the same as hereinbefore required, every such offender, being convicted thereof before any two Justices of the Peace, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay, over and above the value of the property not given up, such sum not exceeding 5l. as the said Justices shall think meet; and where there shall be any building in any such place as aforesaid apart only of which building shall have been heretofore used as a watch-house, such part shall be given up every day, from the hour of four in the afternoon until the hour of nine in the forenoon, for the use and accommodation of the constables to be appointed under this Act; and if any person having the charge, controul, or possession of any such building shall neglect or refuse to give up such part thereof for the purposes aforesaid, or to permit free access thereto or egress therefrom during any portion of the time above prescribed, every such offender, being convicted thereof before any two Justices of the Peace, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay such sum not exceeding 5l. as the said Justices shall think meet: Provided nevertheless, that in every case in which before the passing of this Act a rate might be levied in any borough for the purpose of watching, conjointly with any other purpose, nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to prevent the levying and collecting of such rate for such other purpose solely, or to repeal the powers given in any Act so far as the same relate to such other purpose: Provided always, that where the amount of such rate before the passing of this Act might not exceed a given rate in the pound or the value of property rateable thereunto, the rate so to be levied for such other purpose solely shall not exceed such proportion of the said given rate in the pound as shall appear to have been expended for such purpose other than watching by an account of the average yearly expenditure during the last seven years, or where such rate shall not have been levied during seven years, then during such less number of years as such rate shall have been levied.

LXXXV. Provided, That any rate for defraying the expenses of any watchmen, constables, patrol, or police, in any such place as aforesaid, made previously to the day specified in such notice as aforesaid, shall be levied and collected in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the levying and collecting of any person, any such place as aforesaid for the purpose of paying any debt contracted before the passing of this Act, or the interest of any such debt; but that such rate shall and may be levied and collected in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed.

And after reciting that the watch committee of every such borough shall, on the 1st of January, the 1st of April, the 1st of July, and the 1st of October in every year, transmit to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State a report of the number of men appointed to act as constables or policemen in such borough, and of the description of arms, accoutrements, and clothing, and other necessaries furnished to each man, and of the salaries, wages, and allowances payable to such constables or policemen, and of the number and situation of all station-houses in such borough; and also a copy of all rules, orders, and regulations which shall from time to time be made by such watch committee or by the council of such borough for the regulation and guidance of such constables or policemen.

And after reciting that parts of certain boroughs are within the provisions of one or more local Act or Acts for regulating the lighting thereof, and certain other parts of the same boroughs are not within the provisions of any local Act for regulating the lighting thereof, and for want of such lighting the efficiency of the constables may be much diminished, and great facilities afforded for the commission of crimes and for the escape of offenders; for remedy thereof—

It is Enacted,

LXXXIII. That it shall be lawful for the council of any borough in any part of which there is a local Act for the lighting thereof, to make an order that any part of such borough not being within the provisions of any local Act for the lighting thereof shall, from and after a certain day to be named in such order, be taken to be within the provisions of such local Act or Acts for lighting any part of such borough as the common council shall specify in such order; and after such day the part named in such order shall be within the provisions of the Act or Acts so specified, so far as relates to lighting, or to any rates authorized to be levied for the purpose of lighting, as fully as if such part had been originally named in such Act or Acts, anything in such Act or Acts to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that every part named in such order shall be lighted in the like manner as those parts which before the making of such order were within the provisions of such local Act, and that the rate to be levied for the purpose of defraying the expenses of lighting any part so named in such order shall not exceed the average expense in the pound of the lighting of the other parts of such borough.

LXXXIV. That if the council of any borough chosen under this Act shall, by public notice to be affixed on the outer door of the town hall or in some public place within the borough, declare that on a certain day, to be named in such notice, not less than twenty-one days after the day on which such public notice shall have been given, they will take upon themselves the powers given to the inspectors named in a certain Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 90, intituled, 'An Act to repeal an Act of his late Majesty King George the Fourth, for the lighting and watching of Parishes in England and Wales, and to make other provisions in lieu thereof,' so far as the same relates to the lighting the whole or any part of any borough which is not within the provisions of any local Act, or in which there is no power of levying rates for lighting the same, the council of such borough shall, after the day named in such notice, have the same powers and duties as belong to inspectors under the said last-recited Act in regard to lighting, and to levying rates for the purpose of lighting such part of the borough, except so far as the same are contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of this Act; and in such case the council shall have the sole power to fix and determine the amount of money which they will call for in any one year for the purpose of lighting such part of the borough, so that such sum shall not exceed the rate of 6d. in the pound on the full and fair annual value of all property rateable to the rate of the poor within such part of the borough: Provided also, that it shall not be lawful in such case for the inhabitants of such part of the borough at any time to determine that the provisions of the said recited Act shall cease to be acted upon.

LXXXV. That nothing herein contained shall be construed to interfere with the watching, paving, or lighting, and internal regulations established for the government and security of any of His Majesty's dockyards, victualling establishments, arsenals, and barracks respectively; nor shall any of the tenements within the said dockyards, victualling establishments, arsenals, or barracks, or the inhabitants of the same, be liable to be assessed to the rates for watching, paving, or lighting the other parts of the city, borough, or parish within which the same may be respectively situated, unless such tenements or the inhabitants thereof are now or may hereafter become liable to be assessed to any such rates made under or by virtue of any law or statute now in force; nor shall anything herein contained extend to defeat or affect the authority of Justices of the Peace which by an Act, 3 & 3 Will. 4. c. 40, intituled, 'An Act to amend the Laws relating to the Business of the Civil Departments of the Navy, and to make other Regulations for more effectually carrying on the Duties of the said Departments,' is vested in the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom, and in the superintendents of the several dockyards and other naval and victualling establishments, in all places and in all matters relating to His Majesty's naval service, and to the stores, provisions, ammunition, and accounts thereof.

LXXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the council of any borough to make such bye laws as to them shall seem meet for the good rule and government of the borough, and for prevention and suppression of all such nuisances as are not already punishable in a summary manner by virtue of any Act in force throughout such borough, and to appoint by such bye laws such fines as they shall deem necessary for the prevention and suppression of such offences; provided that no fine so to be appointed shall exceed the amount of 5s., and that no such bye law shall be made unless at least two thirds of the whole number of the council shall be present: provided that no such bye law shall be of any force until the expiration of forty days after the same or a copy thereof shall have been sent, sealed with the seal of the said borough, to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and shall have been affixed on the outer door of the town hall or in some other public place within such borough; and if at any time within the said period of forty days His Majesty, with the advice of his Privy Council, shall disallow the same bye law or any part thereof, such bye law or the part thereof disallowed shall not come into operation: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for His Majesty, if he shall think fit, at any time within the said period of forty days, to enlarge the time within which such bye law or any part thereof shall not come into force; and no such bye law shall in that case come into force until after the expiration of such enlarged time.

and that the provisions hereinafter contained relative to offences against this Act punishable upon summary conviction shall nevertheless apply to all offences committed in breach of any bye law or regulation made by virtue of this Act.

XCII. That after the election of the treasurer in any borough the rents and profits of all hereditaments, and the interest, dividends, and annual proceeds of all monies, dues, chattels, and valuable securities belonging or payable to any body corporate named in conjunction with the said borough in the said Schedules (A.) and (B.), or to any member or officer thereof in his corporate capacity, and every fine or penalty for any offence against this Act (the application of which has not been already provided for), shall be paid to the treasurer of such borough; and all the monies which he shall so receive shall be carried by him to the account of a fund to be called "The Borough Fund;" and such fund, subject to the payment of any lawful debt due from such body corporate to any person, which shall have been contracted before the passing of this Act, and unredeemed, or of so much thereof as the council of such borough from time to time shall be required or shall deem it expedient to redeem, and to the payment from time to time of the interest of so much thereof as shall remain unredeemed, and saving all rights, interests, claims, or demands of all persons or bodies corporate in or upon the real or personal estate of any body corporate by virtue of any proceedings either at law or in equity which have been already instituted or which may be hereafter instituted, or by virtue of any mortgage or otherwise, shall be applied towards the payment of the salary of the mayor, and of the recorder and of the police magistrate hereinafter mentioned when there is a recorder or police magistrate, and of the respective salaries of the town clerk and treasurer, and of every other officer whom the council shall appoint, and also toward the payment of the expenses incurred from time to time in preparing and printing burgess lists, ward lists, and notices, and in other matters attending such elections as are herein mentioned, and, in boroughs which shall have a separate Court of Sessions of the Peace as is hereinafter provided, towards the expenses of the prosecution, maintenance, and punishment of offenders, and towards such other sum to be paid by such borough to the treasurer of such county as is hereinafter provided, and towards the expenses of maintaining the borough gaol, house of correction, and corporate buildings, and towards the payment of the constables, and of all other expenses not herein otherwise provided for which shall be necessarily incurred in carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and in case the borough fund shall be more than sufficient for the purposes aforesaid, the surplus thereof shall be applied, under the direction of the council, for the public benefit of the inhabitants and improvement of the borough; provided that it shall not be lawful for the council to be elected under the provisions of this Act, in any borough in which the body corporate named in conjunction with the said borough in the said schedules (A.) and (B.), before the time of the passing of this Act shall have contracted any lawful debt chargeable on any tolls or dues belonging or payable to the said body corporate, or to any member or officer thereof in his corporate capacity, or towards the satisfaction whereof such tolls or dues or any part thereof were applicable before the passing of this Act, to alter or reduce the amount to be levied and payable of such tolls or dues, or to grant for any consideration any remission or of exemption from such tolls or dues or any part thereof, unless with the consent in writing under the hands of a majority in number and amount of the creditors to whom such debt is due, until after such debt and all arrears of interest due thereon shall have been fully paid and satisfied; and in case the borough fund shall not be sufficient for the purposes aforesaid, the council of the borough is hereby authorized and required from time to time to estimate, as correctly as may be, what amount, in addition to such fund, will be sufficient for the payment of the expenses to be incurred in carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and in order to raise the amount so estimated, the said council is hereby authorized and required from time to time to order a borough rate in the nature of a county rate to be made within their borough, and for that purpose the council of such borough shall have within their borough all the powers which any Justices of the Peace assembled at their General or Quarter Sessions in any county in England have within the limits of their commission by virtue of an Act, 55 Geo. 3. c. 51, intituled, 'An Act to amend an Act of His late Majesty King George the Second, for the more easy assessing, collecting, and levying of County Rates,' or as near thereto as the nature of the case will admit, except as is hereinafter excepted; and all warrants required by the said Act to be issued under the hands and seals of two or more Justices shall in like case be signed by the mayor, and sealed with the seal of the borough; provided that such council shall not be empowered to receive, hear, or determine any appeal against any such rate; and if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any such rate it shall be lawful for him to appeal to the recorder hereinafter mentioned at the next Quarter Sessions for the borough in which such rate has been made, or in case there shall be no recorder within such borough, to the Justices at the next Court of Quarter Sessions for the county within which such borough is situate or wherewith it is adjacent; and such recorder or Justices respectively shall have power to hear and determine the same, and to award relief in the premises, as in the case of an appeal against any county rate; and all such sums levied in pursuance of such borough rate shall be paid over to the account of the borough fund, and, subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall be applied to all purposes to which before the passing of this Act a borough rate or county rate was by law applicable in such borough or county: Provided that in every case in which before the passing this Act any rate might be levied in any borough, or in any parish or place made part of any borough under the provisions of this Act, for the purpose of watching solely by day or by night, or for the purpose of watching by day or by night conjointly with any other purpose, it shall be lawful for the council of such borough to levy a watch rate sufficient to raise any sum not greater than the average yearly sum which during the last seven years, or where such rate shall not have been levied during seven years then during such less number of years as such rate shall have been levied, shall have been expended in the maintenance and establishment of watchmen, constables, patrol, or policemen within the district in which such rate was levied, and for that purpose the council shall have all the powers hereinbefore given to the council in the matter of the borough rate; and where any part of any borough shall not at the time of the passing of this Act be within the provisions of the Act authorizing the levy of such rate for watching as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the council from time to time to order that such part, or so much thereof as to the council shall seem fit, shall be rated to the watch rate in like manner as other parts of the borough to be specified in such order, and such watch rate thereupon shall be levied within the part mentioned in such order in like manner as in the other parts of the borough as specified, and all such sums levied in pursuance of such watch rate shall be paid over to the account of the borough fund: Provided always, that no such order as last aforesaid shall be made for rating to such watch rate any part of any borough in which at the time of passing this Act such rate as aforesaid shall not be levied, and which is more than 200 yards distant from any street, or continuous line of houses which shall be regularly watched within the borough under the provisions of this Act: Provided also, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to render liable to the payment of any debt contracted before the passing of this Act by any body corporate any part of the real or personal estate of the said body corporate which before the passing of this Act was not liable thereto, or to authorize the levy of any rate within any part of any borough for the purpose of paying any debt contracted before the passing of this Act which before the passing of this Act could not lawfully be levied therein towards the payment of the same.

XIII. That the treasurer of every borough shall, in books to be kept for that purpose, enter true accounts of all sums of money by him received and paid, and of the several matters for which such sums shall have been received and paid; and the books containing the accounts shall at all reasonable times be open to the inspection of any of the aldermen or councillors of such borough; and all the accounts, with all vouchers and papers relating thereto, shall, in the months of March and September in every year, be submitted by the treasurer of the borough to the auditors hereinbefore provided to be elected, and to such member of the council as the mayor shall name on the 1st of March in every year, or in case of extraordinary vacancy within ten days next after such vacancy, for the purpose of being examined and audited, from the 1st of September in the year preceding to the 1st of March, and from the 1st of March to the 1st of September in the year in which the said auditors were elected and named, and if the said accounts shall be found to be correct, the auditors shall sign the same; and after such accounts shall have been so examined and audited in the month of September in every year, the treasurer shall make out in writing, and shall cause to be printed, a full abstract of his accounts for the year, and a copy thereof shall be open to the inspection of all the rate-payers of such borough, and copies thereof shall be delivered to all rate-payers of such borough applying for the same, on payment of a reasonable price for each copy.

XIV. That it shall not be lawful for the council of any body corporate to be elected under this Act to sell, mortgage, or alienate the lands, tenements, or hereditaments of the said body corporate, or any part thereof, except in pursuance of some covenant, contract, or agreement bond fide made or entered into on or before the 5th of June in this present year, by or on behalf of the body corporate of any borough, or of some resolution duly entered in the corporation books of such body corporate on or before the said 5th of June, or to demise or lease, except in pursuance of some covenant, contract, or agreement bond fide made or entered into on or before the said 5th of June by or on the behalf of such body corporate, or in pursuance of some resolution duly entered in the corporation books of such body corporate on or before the said 5th of June, or except in the cases hereinafter mentioned, any lands, tenements, or hereditaments of such body corporate, or any part thereof, or to enter into any new covenant, contract, or agreement (except in the cases hereinafter mentioned), for demising or leasing any such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any part thereof, for any term exceeding thirty-one years from the time when such lease shall be made, or if made in pursuance of a previous agreement, then from the time when such agreement shall have been entered into; and in every lease which the said council is not hereby restrained from making there shall (except in the cases hereinafter mentioned) be reserved and made payable during the whole of the term thereby granted such clear yearly rent as to the council shall appear reasonable, without taking any fine for the same: Provided nevertheless, that in every case in which such council shall deem it expedient to sell and alienate or to demise and lease for a longer term than thirty-one years, or upon different terms and conditions than those hereinbefore mentioned, any of the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments, it shall be lawful for such council to represent the circumstances of the case to the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury; and it shall be lawful for such council, with the approbation of the said Lords Commissioners or any three of them, to sell, alienate, and demise any of the lands, tenements, and hereditaments of the said body corporate in such manner and on such terms and conditions as shall have been approved by the said Lords Commissioners: Provided always, that notice of the intention of the council to make such application as aforesaid shall be fixed on the outer door of the town hall, or in some public and conspicuous place within the borough, one calendar month at least before such application; and a copy of the memorial intended to be sent to the said Lords Commissioners shall be kept in the town clerk's office during such calendar month, and shall be freely open to the inspection of every burgess at all reasonable hours during the same.

XV. That in all cases in which any body corporate shall on the 5th of June in this present year have been bound or engaged by any covenant or agreement, express or implied, or have been enjoined by any deed, will, or other document, or have been mentioned or warranted by ancient usage or by custom or practice, to make any renewal of any lease for years, or for life or lives, or for years determinable with any life or lives at any fixed or determinate or known or accustomed period, or after the lapse of any number of years, or on the dropping of any life or lives, and years determinable after the lapse of any number of years, at a fine certain, or under any special or specific terms or conditions, and also in all cases in which any body corporate, shall theretofore have ordinarily made renewal of any lease for years, or for life or lives, or for years determinable with any life or lives at any fixed or determinate or known or accustomed period, or after the lapse of any number of years, or upon the dropping of any life or lives, upon the payment of an arbitrary fine, it shall be lawful for the council of such borough to renew such lease for such term or number of years, either absolutely or determinable with any life or lives, or for such life or lives, and at such rent, and upon the payment of such fine or premium, either certain or arbitrary, and with or without any covenant for the future renewal thereof, as such body corporate could or might have done in case this Act had not been passed.

XVI. Provided nevertheless, That in any of the instances hereinafter mentioned it shall be lawful for the council from time to time to demise and lease, or to enter into any contract or agreement for demising and leasing, any of the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments, to any person, body politic, corporate, or collegiate, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years from the time of making such lease or agreement; (that is to say,) of tenements or hereditaments the greater part of the yearly value of which shall at the time of making the lease or agreement consist of any building or buildings, of land or ground proper for the erection of any houses or other buildings thereupon, with or without gardens, yards, curtilages, or other appurtenances to be used therewith, and, where the lessee or intended lessee shall covenant or agree to erect a building or buildings thereon of greater yearly value than such land or ground, of land or ground proper for gardens, yards, curtilages, or other appurtenances to be used with any other house or other building erected or to be erected on any such ground, belonging either to such body corporate, or to any other proprietor, or proper for any other purpose calculated to afford convenience or accommodation to the occupants of any such house or building.

XVII. That it shall be lawful for the council first to be elected in any borough under the provisions of this Act to call in and purchase, or to lease, or to demise, any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, sales, leases, and demises not made in pursuance of some such bond fide covenant, contract, agreement, or resolution made or entered into as aforesaid before the said 5th of June, and all contracts for the purchase, sale, lease, demise, or appropriation of any lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and all divisions and appropriations of the monies, goods, and valuable securities, or any part of the real or personal estate, of which on or before the 5th of June in this present year the body corporate of which they are the council, whether in their own right or as trustees for charitable or other purposes, was seized or possessed, which shall have been made or contracted between the said 5th of June and the day of the declaration of their election; and for that purpose, if it shall appear to the said council that there is ground for believing that any such purchase, sale, lease, demise, or demise, or such contract, or such division or appropriation of the premises, was collectively made for no consideration, or for an inadequate consideration, it shall be lawful for the council of such borough, at any time within six calendar months next after the first election of councillors under this Act shall have been declared in such borough, upon notice of their intention being first given in the London Gazette, and also affixed on the outer door of the town hall or in some public place within the borough, to cause the value of the lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises in question to be inquired of and found by a jury of twelve indifferent men of the county in which, or adjoining to which in the case of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and of all counties of cities and towns corporate, such lands, tenements, hereditaments, or premises do lie; and in order thereto the said council is empowered to summon and call before such jury all persons having the custody and possession of any deed or agreement concerning the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises made or entered into since the said 5th of June, and to cause all such deeds and agreements to be produced before the said jury, and examined by them, and to examine upon oath every person who shall be thought necessary to be examined (which oath the mayor is hereby empowered to administer); and the council shall, by ordering a view or otherwise, use all lawful means for the information as well of themselves as of the said jury in the premises; and the jury shall find the value of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises, and the consideration which shall have been given, and also that which ought of right to have been given, for the purchase, sale, lease, demise or appropriation thereof, according to the terms of such purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or appropriation, and taking into account all the circumstances under which the same shall have taken place; and if the jury by their oath shall find that no consideration, or a consideration less than that which they shall have so found to be the value which ought therefore to have been given, shall have been collectively given or contracted to be given by the terms of any such purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or appropriation, the party to such purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or appropriation shall have his option either to re-convey and restore the lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises in question, and to abandon the contract to which he shall have been party, upon receipt in each case of the consideration, if any, which he shall hereafter give for the same, or to give therefore in each case such additional consideration so that the whole consideration given shall be that which ought of right to have been given, so found by the jury as aforesaid; and in every such case as last aforesaid the additional consideration given or to be given shall be endorsed on the original deed or conveyance; and unless he shall do within one calendar month next after the finding of the jury every such purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, and conveyance shall be absolutely void and of none effect as against the said body corporate and their successors; and in every case in which any such contract shall have been abandoned as aforesaid, or in which any such purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or conveyance shall become void and of none effect, under the provisions of this Act, the party who would otherwise have had the benefit of the same shall be remitted to his former estate, title, and interest (if any) in the premises as if no such contract, purchase, sale, lease, or demise had been made or entered into; and for summoning and returning such juries, and for imposing fines on the sheriff, his deputy, bailiff, or agent, and on the persons summoned and returned on the said jury, and on the person required to give evidence, who shall in this behalf contravene the provisions of this Act, the council of every such borough shall have all the powers given in that behalf to the trustees or commissioners of any turnpike road by an Act, 3 Geo. 4 c. 126, intitled, 'An Act to amend the General Laws now in being for regulating Turnpike Roads in that Part of Great Britain called England'; and all the costs of the said jury, and of all witnesses tendered by the said council to be examined before the said jury, shall in every case be borne by the council, and paid out of the borough fund: Provided nevertheless, that it shall be lawful for His Majesty, if he shall think fit, by the advice of his Privy Council, upon petition to him setting forth the special circumstances under which any purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or appropriation of any of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises shall have been made since the said 5th of June, to order that the same shall not be called in question under the provisions of this Act; and in such case as last aforesaid the same shall not be called in question or be aside or affected under the provisions of this Act: Provided always, that in every case in which such petition shall have been presented it shall be lawful for His Majesty, if he shall think fit, to enlarge the time within which (in case His Majesty shall not think fit to make such order as aforesaid) the council may have power as aforesaid to call in question any purchase, sale, lease, demise, contract, or appropriation referred to in such petition.

LXXVII. That it shall be lawful for His Majesty from time to time to assign to so many persons as he shall think proper His Majesty's commission to act as Justices of the Peace in and for each borough, and is and for each of the counties of cities and towns respectively named in the said Schedule (A.), and in and for such of the boroughs in the said Schedule (B.) as His Majesty may be pleased upon the petition of the council thereof to grant a commission of the peace: Provided nevertheless that every person so to be assigned shall reside within the borough for which he shall be so assigned, or within seven miles of such borough, or of some part thereof, during such time as he shall act as a Justice of the Peace in and for such borough.

LXXIX. That if the council of any borough shall think it requisite that a salaried police magistrate or magistrates be appointed within such borough, such council is hereby empowered to make a bye law fixing the amount of the salary, which he or they are to receive in that behalf; and such bye law so made by any council as aforesaid shall be transmitted to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and it shall be lawful thereupon for His Majesty, if he shall think fit, to appoint one or more fit persons, according to the number fixed in the said bye law (being barristers at law of not less than five years standing) to be during His Majesty's pleasure police magistrate or magistrates and a Justice or Justices of the Peace for such borough, and to direct that such sum shall be paid quarterly out of the borough fund of such borough as will be sufficient to pay the yearly salary to each of the Justices so assigned as last aforesaid, not exceeding in the whole the salary mentioned in the prayer of such petition, clear of all fees or deductions, as to His Majesty shall seem fit; and the treasurer of such borough shall thereupon pay to each Justice so assigned as last aforesaid, out of the borough fund of such borough, the salary so assigned to be paid, by four equal quarterly payments, and in the same proportion up to the time of the death of such Justice, or of under such assignment as aforesaid; provided that in every case of vacancy of the office of police magistrate in such borough a new appointment of police magistrate in such borough shall be made until the council shall apply to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State in that behalf, and as in the case of the first appointment of a police magistrate in such borough.

That the council of every borough to which a separate commission of the peace shall be granted under the provisions of this Act shall be authorized and required to provide and furnish one or more fit and suitable office or offices, to be called "The Police Office" or "Offices" of the borough, for the purpose of transacting the business of the Justices of such borough, and to pay from time to time out of the borough fund such sums as may be necessary for providing, upholding, and furnishing, and for the necessary expenses of such police office or offices; provided that no room in any house licensed as a victualling house or alehouse shall be used for the purpose of any such police office.

That every person assigned to keep the peace within any borough under the provisions of this Act, or any of them, shall, during the continuance of such assignment, execute the duties of a Justice of the Peace in and for the borough for which he shall have been so assigned, although he may not have such qualification by estate as is required by law in the case of other persons being Justices of the Peace for a county, provided that such person be not disqualified by law to act as a Justice of the Peace for any other cause or upon any other account than in respect of estate, and although such person may not be a burgess of the borough in and for which he shall have been assigned to act as a Justice of Peace; and that every summons for the appearance of any person, or warrant to compel such appearance, or warrant for the apprehension of any person charged with any offence, or search warrant, issued by any Justice of the Peace acting in and for any borough in any matter within his jurisdiction, may be respectively served and executed within any county in which the said borough shall be situated, or within any distance not exceeding seven miles from such borough, and within such limits as aforesaid shall have the same force and effect as if the same had been originally issued or subsequently indorsed by a Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the place where the same shall be served or executed, any law, statute, charter, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding; and every such summons and warrant shall and may be lawfully served or executed within such limits as aforesaid by the constable or special constable to whom the same shall be directed: Provided nevertheless, that no such person, by virtue of such assignment, shall act as a Justice of the Peace at any court of gaol delivery or General or Quarter Sessions, or in making or levying any county rate, or rate in the nature of a county rate.

That it shall be lawful for the Justices of every borough to which a separate commission of the peace shall be granted aforesaid, at their first or any other meeting, and they are hereby respectively required, to appoint a fit person to be the clerk to the Justices of such borough, to be removable at their pleasure, and so as often as there shall be a vacancy in the said office of clerk to the Justices by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise; provided that it shall not be lawful for the said Justices to appoint or continue as such clerk to the Justices any alderman or councillor of such borough, or clerk of the peace of such borough, or the partner of such clerk of the peace, or any clerk or person in the employ of such clerk of the peace: Provided also, that it shall not be lawful for the said clerk to the Justices, by himself or his partner, to be directly or indirectly interested or employed in the prosecution of any offender committed for trial by the Justices of whom he shall be such clerk as aforesaid, or any of them, at any court of gaol delivery or General or Quarter Sessions; and any person being an alderman or councillor, or clerk of the peace of any borough, or the partner or clerk or in the employ of such clerk of the peace, who shall act as clerk to the Justices of such borough, or shall otherwise offend in the premises, shall for every such offence pay the sum of 100*l.* one moiety thereof to the treasurer of such borough, to be paid over to the credit and account of the borough fund of such borough, and the other moiety thereof, with full costs of suit, to any person who will sue for the same in any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster.

That the council of every borough which shall be desirous that a separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be continued to be holden in and for such borough shall signify the same by petition to His Majesty in council, setting forth the grounds of the application, the state of the gaol, and the salary which they are willing to pay to the recorder in that behalf; and it shall be lawful for His Majesty, if he shall be pleased thereupon to grant that a separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be thenceforward holden in and for such borough, to appoint for such borough, or for any two or more of such boroughs, conjointly, a fit person, being a barrister at law of not less than five years standing, who shall be and be called the recorder of such borough or boroughs, and shall hold such office during his good behaviour, and upon any vacancy in any such office to appoint another fit person, being a barrister at law of not less than five years standing, to be the recorder in the place of the person so making such vacancy; and the council of every such borough shall appoint a fit person to be clerk of the peace during his good behaviour; and the recorder for the time being of any borough shall be a Justice of the Peace of and for such borough, although he may not have such qualification by estate as is required by law in the case of any other person being a Justice of the Peace for a county; and such recorder shall have precedence in all places within the borough of which he may be the recorder next after the mayor thereof; and in such case it shall be lawful for His Majesty to direct that an annual salary, not exceeding the sum stated in the petition of the council, shall be paid to such recorder, by the treasurer of such borough out of the borough fund: Provided always, that no person being such recorder as aforesaid shall be eligible to serve in Parliament for such borough, nor shall he be an alderman, councillor, or police magistrate of such borough: Provided nevertheless, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to disqualify any such recorder from being appointed a barrister to revise any list of voters under the provisions of an Act, 2 Will. 4. c. 45, intituled, 'An Act to amend the Representation of the People in England and Wales,' or from being eligible to serve in Parliament, otherwise than is hereinbefore provided: Provided also, that in every borough in and for which a separate Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace is now holden, and of which the present recorder or deputy recorder is a barrister of five years standing, such recorder or deputy recorder, being qualified as aforesaid, shall be continued or appointed recorder under the provisions of this Act: Provided also, that in the case of sickness or unavoidable absence, the recorder of any borough shall be empowered under his seal and with the consent of the council of such borough, to appoint a deputy recorder, being a barrister of five years standing to act for him at the Quarter Sessions of the Peace then next ensuing, and no longer or otherwise.

civ. Provided, That no recorder or person assigned to keep the peace within any such borough shall be capable of acting as Justice of the Peace within such borough until he shall have taken the oaths provided to be taken by Justices of the Peace, except the oath as to qualification by estate, and until he shall have made before the mayor or before any one or more of the aldermen or councillors of such borough (who is and are hereby authorized and required to administer the same) a declaration in the following form; (that is to say,)

I A.B. do hereby declare, that I will faithfully and impartially execute the Office of Recorder [or Justice of the Peace] for the Borough of _____ according to the best of my Judgment and Ability.

CV. That the recorder of every borough shall hold once in every quarter of a year, or at such other and more frequent times as the said recorder in his discretion may think fit, or as His Majesty shall think fit to direct, a Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for such borough, of which court the recorder of such borough shall sit as the sole Judge; and such Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be a court of record, and shall have cognizance of all crimes, offences, and matters whatsoever cognizable by any Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for counties in England, and the said recorder shall have power to do all things necessary for exercising such jurisdiction, notwithstanding his being such sole Judge, as fully as if such last-mentioned court: Provided nevertheless, that no recorder, by virtue of his office, shall have power to make of any county rate, or rate in the nature of a county rate, or to grant any licence or authority to any person to keep an inn, a house, or victualling house, to sell exciseable liquors by retail, or to exercise any of the powers herein specially vested in the council of such borough.

CVI. such award or decree may be directed; or it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Arbitration, and the Courts of the several colonies, and the said Courts of Appeal respectively, if they shall think proper so to do, to award or decree that any sum or sums of money shall and may be raised by the sale of the said bank annuities or a competent part thereof, and be paid to the party or parties in whose favour any such award or decree may be made, or otherwise as by such award or decree may be directed; anything in the said recited Acts, or in the general rules framed by the said Commissioners of Arbitration under the said Acts, to the contrary notwithstanding.

IV. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and the Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer to appoint a fit and proper person to do and perform all or any of the duties imposed upon the said Accountants General respectively by this Act; and that the acts of the said deputy shall be as valid and effectual for all purposes under this Act as if the same had been done by the said Accountants General themselves respectively.

And after reciting that numerous powers of attorney have been executed by parties resident in the several colonies who are entitled to compensation under the said recited Acts, constituting the persons named therein their lawful attorneys to receive payment from the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, out of the monies standing upon their account in the books of the Bank of England under the title of "The West India Compensation Account," of such sum or sums of money as may be awarded to them from time to time under the provisions of the said recited Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4, and to give receipts for such sum or sums of money, and to do all lawful acts requisite for effecting the premises: And that by the operation of the said recited Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4, and of this Act, certain proportions of the said compensation monies have been and will be invested in certain bank annuities in the name and to the account of the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, and of the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and of the Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer, respectively; and it is expedient that any attorney or attorneys so constituted as aforesaid should be empowered to receive transfer of such bank annuities or payments in money from the said Accountants General as well as from the said Commissioners;—

It is therefore Enacted,

And after reciting that it is expedient that persons entitled to compensation under the said recited Acts should be relieved from the payment of stamp duty on their letters or powers of attorney to receive such compensation where the sums to be received are of small amount, and that all persons who have acted or shall hereafter act upon or under the authority contained in any such letters or powers of attorney should be absolved and indemnified from and against all penalties and liabilities incurred by reason of such letters or powers of attorney not being duly stamped:—

It is Enacted,

vi. That all letters or powers of attorney heretofore made and executed, or which shall be hereafter made and executed, for the purpose of authorizing the receipt of any sum or sums of money as or for compensation awarded under the said recited Acts, where the sum or sums received or to be received under the authority of such letters or powers of attorney respectively, do not amount to 20*l.*, shall be and the same are hereby exempted from all stamp duty; and all persons who at any time heretofore have paid or received, or shall at any time hereafter pay or receive, any sum or sums of money not amounting to 20*l.* in each case, upon or under the authority contained in any such letters or powers of attorney respectively, shall be and such persons are hereby absolved and indemnified from and against all penalties, losses, and liabilities incurred or sustained or to be incurred or sustained by reason of such letters or powers of attorney not being duly stamped.

vii. That if the Comptroller General or Assistant Comptroller General, or other officer appointed by and acting under the said Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, or the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, or the Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer, shall, for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of the said recited Acts or this Act, deem it necessary and require that some evidence should be given of the identity of the party named in any letter of attorney, or as to the truth of any matter contained in or necessary for the explanation of such letter of attorney, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said Comptroller General or Assistant Comptroller General or such other officer employed under the said Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt as may be especially nominated and appointed by the said Commissioners for this purpose, or to and for the said Accountant General of the Court of Chancery or the said Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer respectively, to take and receive the declaration of any person or persons competent to give such evidence as aforesaid, and such declaration shall be made in the form and manner prescribed by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 62, intituled, 'An Act to repeal an Act of the present Session of Parliament, intituled, "An Act for the more effectual Abolition of Oaths and Affirmations taken and made in various Departments of the State, and to substitute Declarations in lieu thereof, and for the more entire Suppression of voluntary and extra-judicial Oaths and Affidavits;" and to make other Provisions for the Abolition of unnecessary Oaths.'

viii. That any person who shall wilfully and corruptly make and subscribe any such declaration, knowing the same to be untrue in any material particular, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

And after reciting that, in order to prevent the great inconvenience and loss which would have resulted to many of the claimants for compensation under the said recited Acts, and to other persons interested therein, some of the provisions hereinbefore contained have already been acted upon;—

It is therefore Enacted,

ix. That all the acts, matters, and things whatsoever which have been already done and performed in accordance with any of the provisions of this Act by the said Commissioners of Arbitration, the said Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, and the said Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and the Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer, or any or either of them, or by the several officers acting under them respectively, shall be and the same are hereby declared to be as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes as if the said acts, matters, and things had been done and performed expressly under the sanction of this Act; and the said Commissioners of Arbitration, the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and the Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer, shall be and they are jointly and severally hereby indemnified, freed, and discharged from and against all actions, suits, and proceedings whatsoever for or on account or in respect of all or any acts, matters, and things whatsoever already done and performed by them or any of them, or by their respective officers, in accordance with the provisions of this Act or for or on account or in respect of any acts, matters, and things whatsoever which shall be hereafter done and performed by them or any of them in carrying into execution the provisions of this Act, or in acting under the same; and the said

Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, and the said Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and the said Accountant General of the Court of Exchequer, shall not be held or taken to be responsible for or liable to make good any payment of money or transfer of Bank Annuities already made in accordance with this Act, or which shall hereafter be made under the provisions thereof, unless the same shall have been occasioned by the wilful negligence or default of the said Commissioners or of the said Accountants General respectively: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three or more of them, to make such further regulations as they may from time to time think necessary and proper for the purpose of carrying the provisions of the said recited Acts and of this Act, so far as regards the distribution and payment of the said compensation monies, into effect, and for facilitating such distribution and payment in the manner therein provided for.

XI. Provided, That it shall not be lawful for the said Commissioners of Arbitration to award costs against any person or persons who shall have withdrawn his, her, or their claim or counter claim twenty-eight days before the day appointed by the said Commissioners for hearing the matter of such claim or counter claim.

XII. ARTICLE I.—The Slave Trade is hereby again declared, on the Part of Spain, to be henceforward totally and finally abolished in all Parts of the World.

Article II.—Her Majesty the Queen Regent of Spain, during the Minority of her Daughter Donna Isabella the Second, hereby engages, that immediately after the Exchange of the Ratifications of the present Treaty, and from Time to Time afterwards, as it may become needful, Her Majesty will take the most effectual Measures for preventing the Subjects of Her Catholic Majesty from being concerned, and her Flag from being used, in carrying on in any way the Trade in Slaves; and especially that, within Two Months after the said Exchange, she will promulgate throughout the Dominions of Her Catholic Majesty a Penal Law, inflicting a severe Punishment on all those Her Catholic Majesty's Subjects who shall, under any Pretext whatsoever, take any Part whatever in the Traffic in Slaves.

2°. In no Case shall the Right of Search be exercised with respect to a Vessel of the Royal Navy of either of the Two Powers, but only as regards Merchant Vessels.

3°. Whenever a Merchant Vessel is searched by a Ship of War, the Commander of the said Ship shall, in the Act of so doing, exhibit to the Commander of the Merchant Vessel the Document by which he is duly authorized to that End, and shall deliver to him a Certificate, signed by him, stating his Rank in the Naval Service of his Country, and the Name of the Vessel he commands; and which also declares that the only Object of the Search is to ascertain whether the Vessel is employed in the Slave Traffic, or if it is fitted up for the said Traffic: When the Search is made by an Officer of the Cruiser who is not the Commander, the said Officer shall exhibit to the Captain of the Merchant Vessel a Copy of the before-mentioned special Orders, signed by the Commander of the Cruiser, and shall in like Manner deliver a Certificate, signed by him, stating his Rank in the Royal Navy, the Name of the Commander by whose Orders he proceeds to make the Search, that of the Cruiser in which he sails, and the Object of the Search, as has been already laid down: If it appears from the Search that the Papers of the Vessel are in regular Order, and that it is employed on licit Objects, the Officer shall enter in the Log Book of the Vessel that the Search has been made in pursuance of the aforesaid especial Orders, and the Vessel shall be left at liberty to pursue its Voyage. The Rank of the Officer who makes the Search must not be less than that of Lieutenant of the Royal Navy, unless the Command, either by reason of Death or other Cause, is at the Time held by an Officer of inferior Rank.

4°. The reciprocal Right of Search and Detention shall not be exercised within the Mediterranean Sea, or within the Seas in Europe lying without the Straights of Gibraltar, and which lie to the Northward of the Thirty-seventh Parallel of North Latitude, and also within and to the Eastward of the Meridian of Longitude Twenty Degrees West of Greenwich.

Article V.—In order to regulate the Mode of carrying the Provisions of the preceding Article into execution, it is agreed;—

1°. That all the Ships of the Royal Navies of the Two Nations which shall be hereafter employed to prevent the Traffic in Slaves shall be furnished by their respective Governments with a Copy in the English and Spanish Languages of the present Treaty, of the Instructions for Cruizers annexed thereto, marked (A.), and of the Regulations for the Mixed Courts of Justice annexed thereto, marked (B.); which Annexes respectively shall be considered as integral Parts of the Treaty.

2°. That each of the High Contracting Parties shall from Time to Time communicate to the other the Names of the several Ships furnished with such Instructions, the Force of each, and the Names of their several Commanders: The said Commanders ought to hold the Rank of Captain in the Royal Navy, or at least of Lieutenant, it being nevertheless understood that the Instructions originally issued to an Officer holding the Rank of Lieutenant in the Navy, or other superior Rank, shall be sufficient, in case of Death or temporary Absence of the same, to authorize the Officer on whom the Command of the Vessel has devolved to make the Search, although the said officer may not hold the aforesaid Rank in the Service.

3°. That if at any Time the Commander of a Cruiser of either of the Two Nations shall suspect that any Merchant Vessel under the Escort or Convoy of any Ship or Ships of War of the other Nation carries Slaves on board, or has been engaged in the Traffic in Slaves, or is fitted out for the Purpose thereof, the said Commander of the Cruiser shall communicate his Suspicions to the Commander of the Convoy, who, accompanied by the Commander of the Cruiser, shall proceed to the Search of the suspected Vessel; and in case that the Suspicions appear well founded, according to the Tenor of this Treaty, then the said Vessel shall be conducted or sent to one of the Points where the Mixed Courts of Justice are stationed, in order that the just Sentence may there be pronounced.

4°. It is further mutually agreed, that the Commanders of the Ships of the Two Royal Navies respectively who shall be employed on this Service shall adhere strictly to the exact Tenor of the aforesaid Instructions.

Article VI.—As the Two preceding Articles are entirely reciprocal, the Two High Contracting Parties engage mutually to make good any Losses which their respective Subjects may incur by the arbitrary and illegal Detention of their Vessels; it being understood that this Indemnity shall be borne by the Government whose Cruiser shall have been guilty of such arbitrary and illegal Detention, and that the Visit and Detention of Vessels specified in the Fourth Article of this Treaty shall only be effected by those British or Spanish Ships which may form Part of the Two Royal Navies respectively, and by such of those Ships only as are provided with the special Instructions annexed to the present Treaty, in pursuance of the Provisions thereof. The Indemnification for the Damages of which this Article treats shall be made within the Term of One Year, reckoning from the Day in which the Mixed Court of Justice pronounces its Sentence.

Article VII.—In order to bring to Adjudication, with as little Delay and Inconvenience as possible, the Vessel which may be detained according to the Tenor of the Fourth Article of this Treaty, there shall be established, as soon as may be practicable, Two Mixed Courts of Justice, formed of an equal Number of Individuals of the Two Nations, and named for this Purpose by their respective Sovereigns. These Courts shall reside, the one in a Possession belonging to His Britannic Majesty, the other within the Territories of Her Catholic Majesty; and at the Period of the Exchange of the Ratifications of the present Treaty the Two Governments shall declare, each for its own Dominions, in what Place these Courts shall respectively reside.

But each of the Two High Contracting Parties reserves to itself the Right of changing at its Pleasure the Place of Residence of the Court held within its own Dominions: Provided always, that one of the Two Courts shall always be held upon the Coast of Africa, and the other in one of the Colonial Possessions of Her Catholic Majesty.

These Courts, from which there shall be no Appeal, shall judge the Causes submitted to them according to the Provisions of the present Treaty, and according to the Regulations and Instructions which are annexed to the present Treaty, and which are considered an integral Part thereof.

Article VIII.—It is hereby agreed between the High Contracting Parties, that the Mixed Commissions which are at present established and sitting under the Convention concluded between Great Britain and Spain on the Twenty-third Day of September One thousand eight hundred and seventeen shall continue to sit, and shall during Two Months, to be reckoned from the Exchange of the Ratifications of this Treaty, and until the further Appointment and definitive Establishment of the Mixed Courts of Justice under the present Treaty, adjudge without Appeal, according to the Principles and Stipulations of the same, and of the several Annexes thereof, the Cases of such Vessels as may be sent or brought before them; and any Vacancies which may occur in such Mixed Commissions shall be filled up in the same Manner in which Vacancies of the Mixed Courts of Justice to be established under the Provisions of this Treaty are to be supplied.

Article IX.—In case the Commanding Officer of any of the Ships of the Royal Navies of Great Britain and Spain respectively, duly commissioned according to the Provisions of the Fourth Article of this Treaty, shall deviate in any respect from the Stipulations of the said Treaty, or from the Instructions annexed to it, the Government which shall conceive itself to be wronged thereby shall be entitled to demand Reparation; and in such Case the Government to which such Commanding Officer may belong binds himself to cause Inquiry to be made into the Subject of the Complaint, and to inflict upon the said Officer a Punishment proportioned to any wilful Transgression which he may have committed.

Article X.—It is hereby further mutually agreed, that every Merchant Vessel, British or Spanish, which shall be visited by virtue of the present Treaty, may lawfully be detained and sent or brought before the Mixed Courts of Justice established in pursuance of the Provisions thereof, if in her Equipment there shall be found any of the Things hereinafter mentioned: (namely,)

1°. Hatches with open Gratings, instead of the close Hatches which are usual in Merchant Vessels.

2°. Divisions or Bulk Heads in the Hold or on Deck in greater Number than necessary for Vessels engaged in lawful Trade.

3°. Spare Planks fitted for laying down as a Second or Slave Deck.

4°. Shackles, Bolts, or Handcuffs.

5°. A larger Quantity of Water in Casks or in Tanks than is requisite for the Consumption of the Crew of the Vessel as a Merchant Vessel.

6°. An extraordinary Number of Water Casks, or of other Vessels for holding Liquid, unless the Master shall produce a Certificate from the Custom House at the Place from which he cleared Outwards, stating that a sufficient Security had been given by the Owners of such Vessel that such extra Quantity of Casks or of other Vessels should only be used to hold Palm Oil, or for other Purposes of lawful Commerce.

7°. A greater quantity of Mess Tubs or Kids than are requisite for the Use of the Vessel as a Merchant Vessel.

8°. A Boiler of an unusual Size, and larger than requisite for the Use of the Crew of the Vessel as a Merchant Vessel, or more than One Boiler of the ordinary Size.

9°. An extraordinary Quantity either of Rice, of the Flour of Brazil, Manive or Cassada, commonly called Farinha, of Maize or of Indian Corn, beyond what might properly be requisite for the Use of the Crew ; such Rice, Flour, Maize, or Indian Corn not being entered on the Manifest as Part of the Cargo for Trade.

Any One or more of these several Circumstances, if proved, shall be considered as prima facie Evidence of the actual Employment of the Vessel in the Slave Trade, and the Vessel shall thereupon be condemned and declared lawful Prize, unless satisfactory Evidence upon the Part of the Master or Owners shall establish that such Vessel was at the Time of her Detention or Capture employed in some legal Pursuit.

Article XI.—If any of the Things specified in the preceding Article shall be found in any Merchant Vessel, neither the Master nor Owner, nor any Person whatever interested in her Equipment or Cargo, shall be entitled to Compensation for Losses or Damages, even though the Mixed Courts of Justice should not pronounce any Sentence of Condemnation in consequence of her Detention ; but the same Tribunal shall be authorized to pay out of the Prize Fund, if they shall think it in Equity required, some Sum of Money proportionate to the Demurrage suffered, and according to the Circumstances of the Case.

Article XII.—It is agreed between the Two High Contracting Parties, that in all Cases in which a Vessel shall be detained under this Treaty by their respective Cruizers as having been engaged in the Slave Trade, or, as having been fitted out for the Purposes thereof, and shall consequently be adjudged and condemned by the Mixed Courts of Justice to be established as aforesaid, the said Vessel shall immediately after its Condemnation be broken up entirely, and shall be sold in separate Parts after having been so broken up.

Article XIII.—The Negroes who are found on board of a Vessel detained by a Cruizer, and condemned by the Mixed Courts of Justice, in conformity with the Stipulations of this Treaty, shall be placed at the Disposition of the Government whose Cruizer has made the Capture, but on the Understanding that not only they shall be immediately put at liberty and kept free, the Government to whom they have been delivered guaranteeing the same, but likewise engaging to afford from Time to Time, and whenever demanded by the other High Contracting Parties, the fullest information as to the State and Condition of such Negroes, with a View of ensuring the due Execution of the Treaty in this respect.

For this Purpose the Regulations annexed to this Treaty sub littera (C.), as to the Treatment of Negroes liberated by Sentence of the Mixed Courts of Justice, have been drawn up, and are declared to form an integral Part of this Treaty.

The Two High Contracting Parties reserve to themselves the Right to alter or suspend, by common Consent and mutual Agreement, but not otherwise, the Terms and Tenor of such Regulations.

Article XIV.—The Acts or Instruments annexed to this Treaty, and which it is mutually agreed shall form an integral Part thereof, are as follows :—

(A.) Instructions for the Ships of the Royal Navies of both Nations destined to prevent the Traffic in Slaves.

(B.) Regulations for the Mixed Courts of Justice, which are to hold their Sitzings on the Coast of Africa, and in one of the Colonial Possessions of Her Catholic Majesty.

(C.) Regulations as to the Treatment of liberated Negroes.

Article XV.—The present Treaty, consisting of Fifteen Articles, shall be ratified, and the Ratifications thereof exchanged within the Space of Two Months from this Date, or sooner, if possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed in Duplicate Two Originals, English and Spanish, the present Treaty, and have thereunto affixed the Seal of their Arms.

ANNEX (A.)

To the TREATY between GREAT BRITAIN and SPAIN for the ABOLITION of the SLAVE TRADE, of the Twenty-eighth of June One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

Instructions for the Ships of the British and Spanish Royal Navies employed to prevent the Traffic in Slaves.

Article I.—The Commander of any Ship belonging to the Royal British or Spanish Navy, which shall be furnished with these Instructions, shall have a Right to search and detain any British or Spanish Merchant Vessel which shall be actually engaged or suspected to be engaged in the Slave Trade, or to be fitted out for the Purposes thereof, or to have been engaged in the Traffic in Slaves during the Voyage in which she may be met with by such Ship of the British or Spanish Navy ; and such Commander shall thereupon bring or send such Merchant Vessel as soon as possible for Judgment before that one of the Two Mixed Courts of Justice established in virtue of the Seventh Article of the said Treaty which shall be the nearest to the Place of Detention, or which such Commander shall upon his own Responsibility think can be soonest reached from such Place.

Article II.—Whenever a Ship of either of the Royal Navies, duly authorized as aforesaid, shall meet a Merchant Vessel liable to be visited under the Provisions of the said Treaty, the Search shall be conducted in the mildest Manner, and with every Attention which ought to be observed between allied and friendly Nations ; and the Search shall in all Cases be made by an Officer holding a Rank not lower than that of Lieutenant in the Navies of Great Britain and Spain respectively, or by the Officer who at the Time shall be Second in Command of the Ship by which such Search is made.

Article III.—The Commander of any Ship of the Royal Navies, duly authorized as aforesaid, who may detain any Merchant Vessel in pursuance of the Tenor of the present Instructions, shall leave on board the Vessel so detained the Master, the Mate, or Boatswain, and Two or Three at least of the Crew thereof, the whole of the Slaves, if any, and all the Cargo ; the Captor shall, at the Time of Detention, draw up in Writing an authentic Declaration, which shall exhibit the State in which he found the detained Vessel, such Declaration to be signed by himself, and to be given in or sent, together with the captured Vessel, to the Mixed Court of Justice before which such Vessel shall be carried or sent for Adjudication. He shall deliver to the Master of the detained Vessel a signed Certificate of the Papers seized on board the same, as well as of the Number of Slaves found on board at the Moment of Detention.

In the authenticated Declaration which the Captor is hereby required to make, as well as in the Certificate of the Papers seized, he shall insert his own Name and Surname, the Name of the capturing Ship, the Latitude and Longitude of the Place where the Detention shall have taken place, and the Number of Slaves found on board of the Vessel at the Time of the Detention.

The Officer in charge of the Vessel detained shall, at the Time of bringing the Vessel's Papers into the Mixed Court of Justice, deliver into the Court a Paper, signed by himself and verified on Oath, stating the Changes which have taken place in respect to the Vessel, her Crew, the Slaves, if any, and her Cargo, between the Period of her Detention and the Time of delivering in such Paper.

Article IV.—The Slaves shall not be disembarked until after the Vessel which contains them shall have arrived at the Place of Adjudication, in order that, in the event of the Vessel not being adjudged legal Prize, the Loss of the Proprietors may be more easily repaired ; and even after the Arrival of the Slaves at such Place they are not to be landed without the Permission of the Mixed Court of Justice.

But if urgent Reasons, arising from the Length of the Voyage, from the State of Health of the Slaves, or from any other Causes, should require that either the Whole or a Portion of the Negroes should be disembarked before the Vessel can arrive at the Place at which one of the said Courts is established, the Commander of the capturing Ship may take upon himself the Responsibility of so disembarking the Negroes; provided that the Necessity of the Disembarkation and the Causes thereof be stated in a Certificate in proper Form, and provided that this Certificate shall be drawn up and entered at the Time on the Log Book of the detained Vessel.

The undersigned Plenipotentiaries have agreed, in conformity with the Fourteenth Article of the Treaty, signed by them on this Day the Twenty-eighth of June One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, that the present Instructions shall be annexed to the said Treaty, and be considered an integral Part thereof.

This Day, the Twenty-eighth of June in the Year One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

ANNEX (B.)

To the TREATY between GREAT BRITAIN and SPAIN for the ABOLITION of the SLAVE TRADE, of the Twenty-eighth of June One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

Regulations for the Mixed Courts of Justice which are to reside on the Coast of Africa, and in a Colonial Possession of Her Catholic Majesty.

Article I.—The Mixed Courts of Justice to be established under the Provisions of the Treaty of which these Regulations are declared to be an integral Part shall be composed in the following manner :

The Two High Contracting Parties shall each of them name a Judge and an Arbitrator, who shall be authorized to hear and to decide, without appeal, all Cases of Capture or Detention of Vessels which, in pursuance of the Stipulations of the aforesaid Treaty, shall be brought before them.

The Judges and the Arbitrators shall, before they enter upon the Duties of their Office, respectively make Oath before the principal Magistrate of the Place in which such Courts respectively shall reside that they will judge fairly and faithfully, that they will have no Preference either for the Claimant or for the Captors, and that they will act in all their Decisions in pursuance of the Stipulations of the aforesaid Treaty.

There shall be attached to each of such Courts a Secretary or Registrar, who shall be appointed by the Sovereign in whose Territories such Court shall reside.

Such Secretary or Registrar shall register all the Acts of such Court, and shall, before he enters upon his Office, make Oath before the Court to which he is appointed that he will conduct himself with due Respect for its Authority, and will act with Fidelity and Impartiality in all Matters relating to his said Office.

The Salary of the Secretary or Registrar of the Court to be established on the Coast of Africa shall be paid by His Britannic Majesty, and that of the Secretary or Registrar of the Court to be established in the Colonial Possessions of Spain shall be paid by Her Catholic Majesty.

Each of the Two Governments shall defray Half of the Aggregate Amount of the Expenses of such Courts.

Article II.—The Expenses incurred by the Officer charged with the Reception, Maintenance, and Care of the detained Vessel, Slaves, and Cargo, and with the Execution of the Sentence, and all Disbursements occasioned by bringing a Vessel to Adjudication, shall, in case of Condemnation, be defrayed from the Funds arising out of the Sale of the Materials of the Vessel after the Vessel shall have been broken up, of the Ship's Stores, and of such Parts of the Cargo as shall consist of Merchandize, and in case the Proceeds arising out of this Sale should not prove sufficient to defray such expenses, the Deficiency shall be made good by the Government of the Country within whose Territories the Adjudication shall have taken place.

If the detained Vessel shall be released, the Expenses occasioned by bringing her to Adjudication shall be defrayed by the Captors, except the Cases specified and otherwise provided for under Article the XIth of the Treaty to which these Regulations form an Annex, and under Article the VIIth of these Regulations.

Article III.—The Mixed Courts of Justice are to decide upon the Legality of the Detention of such Vessels, as the Cruisers of either Nation shall in pursuance of the said Treaty detain.

These Courts shall adjudge definitively, and without Appeal, all Questions which shall arise out of the Capture and Detention of such Vessels.

The Proceedings of these Courts shall take place as summarily as possible; and for this Purpose the Courts are required to decide each Case, as far as may be practicable, within the Space of Twenty Days, to be dated from the Day on which the detained Vessel shall have been brought into the Port where the deciding Court shall reside.

The final Sentence shall not in any Case be delayed beyond the Period of Two Months, whether on account of the Absence of Witnesses or for any other Cause, except upon the Application of any of the Parties interested; but in that Case, upon such Party or Parties giving satisfactory Security that they will take upon themselves the Expense and Risk of the Delay, the Courts may, at their Discretion, grant an additional Delay not exceeding Four Months.

Either Party shall be allowed to employ such Counsel as he may think fit to assist him in the Conduct of his Cause.

All the Acts and essential Parts of the Proceedings of the said Courts shall be written down in the Language of the Country in which the Courts shall respectively reside.

Article IV.—The Form of Process, or Mode of proceeding to Judgment, shall be as follows:—

The Judges appointed by the Two Nations respectively shall, in the first place, proceed to examine the Papers of the detained Vessel, and shall take the Depositions of the Master or Commander, and of Two or Three at least of the principal Individuals on board of such Vessel, and shall also take the Declaration on Oath of the Captor, if it should appear to them necessary to do so, in order to judge and to pronounce whether the said Vessel has been justly detained or not, according to the Stipulations of the aforesaid Treaty, and in order that, according to this Judgment, the Vessel may be condemned or released. In the event of the Two Judges not agreeing as to the Sentence which they ought to pronounce in any case brought before them, whether with respect to the Legality of the Detention or the Liability of the Vessel to Condemnation, or to the Indemnification to be allowed, or as to any other Question which may arise out of the said Capture, or in case any Difference of Opinion should arise between them as to the Mode of proceeding in the said Court, they shall draw by Lot the Name of One of the Two Arbitrators so appointed as aforesaid; which Arbitrator, after having considered the Proceedings which have taken place, shall consult with the Two above-mentioned Judges on the Case, and the final Sentence or Decision shall be pronounced conformably to the Opinion of the Majority of the Three.

Article V.—If the detained Vessel shall be restored by the Sentence of the Court, the Vessel and the Cargo, in the State in which they shall then be found, shall forthwith be given up to the Master or to the Person who represents him, and such Master or other Person may before the same Court claim a Valuation of the Damages which he may have a Right to demand. The Captor himself, and in his Default his Government, shall remain responsible for the Damages to which the Master of such Vessel, or the Owners either of the Vessel or of her Cargo, may be pronounced to be entitled.

The Two High Contracting Parties bind themselves to pay, within the Term of a Year from the Date of the Sentence, the Costs and Damages which may be awarded by the above-named Court, it being mutually understood and agreed that such Costs and Damages shall be made good by the Government of the Country of which the Captor shall be the Subject.

Article VI.—If the detained Vessel shall be condemned, she shall be declared lawful Prize, together with her Cargo of whatever Description it may be, with the Exception of the Slaves who shall have been brought on board for the Purposes of Commerce, and the said Vessel, subject to the Regulations in Article XII. of the Treaty of this Date, shall, as well as her Cargo, be sold by public Sale for the Profit of the Two Governments, subject to the Payments of the Expenses hereinafter mentioned.

The Slaves shall receive from the Court a Certificate of Emancipation, and shall be delivered over to the Government to whom the Cruiser which made the Capture belongs, to be dealt with according to the Regulations and Conditions contained in the Annex to this Treaty sub littera C.

Article VII.—The Mixed Courts of Justice shall also take the cognizance of, and shall decide definitively and without Appeal, all Claims for Compensation on account of Losses occasioned to Vessels and Cargoes which shall have been detained under the Provisions of this Treaty, but which shall not have been condemned as legal Prize by the said Courts and in all Cases wherein Restitution of such Vessels and Cargoes shall be decreed, save as mentioned in Article XI. of the Treaty to which these Regulations form an Annex, and in a subsequent Part of these Regulations, the Court shall award to the Claimant or Claimants, or to his or their lawful Attorney or Attorneys, for his or their Use, a just and complete Indemnification for all Costs of Suit, and for all Losses and Damages which the Owner or Owners may have actually sustained by such Capture and Detention; and it is agreed that such Indemnification shall be as follows:—

First, in case of total Loss, the Claimant or Claimants shall be indemnified,—

- A. For the Ship, her Tackle, Equipment, and Stores.
- B. For all Freights due and payable.
- C. For the Value of the Cargo of Merchandise, if any, deducting all Charges and Expenses payable upon the Sale of such Cargo, including Commission of Sale.
- D. For all other regular Charges in such Case of total Loss.

Secondly, in all other Cases (save as hereinafter mentioned), not of total Loss, the Claimant or Claimants shall be indemnified,—

- A. For all special Damages and Expenses occasioned to the Ship by the Detention and for loss of Freight when due or payable.
- B. For Demurrage when due, according to the Schedule annexed to the present Article.
- C. For any Deterioration of the Cargo.
- D. For all Premium of Insurance on additional Risks.

The Claimant or Claimants shall be entitled to Interest at the Rate of Five per Centum per Annum on the Sum awarded until such Sum is paid by the Government to which the capturing Ship belongs; the whole Amount of such Indemnifications shall be calculated in the Money of the Country to which the detained Vessel belongs, and shall be liquidated at the Exchange current at the Time of the Award.

The Two High Contracting Parties however have agreed, that if it shall be proved to the Satisfaction of the Judges of the Two Nations, and without having recourse to the Decision of an Arbitrator, that the Captor has been led into Error by the Fault of the Master or Commander of the detained Vessel, the detained Vessel in that Case shall not have the Right of receiving for the Time of her Detention the Demurrage stipulated by the present Article, nor any other Compensation for Losses, Damages, or Expenses consequent upon such Detention.

SCHEDULE of Demurrage or daily Allowance for a Vessel of

One hundred Tons to One hundred and twenty inclusive	5l.	} per Diem.
One hundred and twenty-one Tons to One hundred and fifty inclusive	6l.
One hundred and fifty-one Tons to One hundred and seventy inclusive	8l.

Article VIII.—Neither the Judges nor the Arbitrators nor the Secretaries of the Mixed Courts of Justice shall demand or receive from any of the Parties concerned in the Cases which shall be brought before such Courts any Emolument or Gift, under any Pretext whatsoever, for the Performance of the Duties which such Judges, Arbitrators, and Secretaries have to Perform.

Article IX.—The Two High Contracting Parties have agreed, that in the event of the Death, Sickness, Absence on Leave, or any other legal Impediment of One or more of the Judges or Arbitrators composing the above-mentioned Courts respectively, the Post of such Judge and of such Arbitrator shall be supplied ad interim in the following Manner :

1°. On the Part of His Britannic Majesty, and in that Court which shall sit within the Possessions of His said Majesty, if the Vacancy be that of the British Judge, his Place shall be filled up by the British Arbitrator ; and either in that Case, or in the Case where the Vacancy be originally that of the British Arbitrator, the Place of such Arbitrator shall be filled successively by the Governor or Lieutenant Governor resident in such Possession, by the principal Magistrate of the same, and by the Secretary of the Government ; and the said Court so constituted as above shall sit, and in all Cases brought before them for Adjudication shall proceed to adjudge the same and to pass Sentence accordingly.

2°. On the Part of Great Britain, and in that Court which shall sit within the Possessions of Her Catholic Majesty, if the Vacancy be that of the British Judge, his Place shall be filled by the British Arbitrator ; and either in that Case, or in the Case where the Vacancy be originally that of the British Arbitrator, his Place shall be filled successively by the British Consul and British Vice Consul, if there be a British Consul or British Vice Consul appointed to and resident in such Possession ; and in the Case where the Vacancy be both of the British Judge and of the British Arbitrator, then the Vacancy of the British Judge shall be filled by the British Consul, and that of the British Arbitrator by the British Vice Consul, if there be a British Consul and British Vice Consul appointed to and resident in such Possession, and if there shall be no British Consul or British Vice Consul to fill the Place of British Arbitrator, then the Spanish Arbitrator shall be called in in those Cases in which a British Arbitrator, were there any, would be called in ; and in case the Vacancy be both of the British Judge and British Arbitrator, and there be neither British Consul nor British Vice Consul to fill ad interim the Vacancies, then the Spanish Judge and Spanish Arbitrator shall sit, and in all cases brought before them for Adjudication shall proceed to adjudge the same and pass Sentence accordingly.

3°. On the Part of Spain, and in that Court which shall sit within the Possessions of Her Catholic Majesty, if the Vacancy be that of the Spanish Judge, his Place shall be filled by the Spanish Arbitrator ; and either in that Case, or in the case where the Vacancy be originally that of the Spanish Arbitrator, the Place of such Arbitrator shall be filled successively by the Governor or Lieutenant Governor resident in such Possession, by the principal Magistrate of the same, and by the Secretary of the Government ; and the said Court, so constituted as above, shall sit, and in all Cases brought before them for Adjudication shall proceed to adjudge the same and pass Sentence accordingly.

4°. On the Part of Spain, and in that Court which shall sit within the Possessions of His Britannic Majesty, if the Vacancy be that of the Spanish Judge, his place shall be filled by the Spanish Arbitrator ; and either in that Case, or in the Case where the Vacancy be originally that of the Spanish Arbitrator, his Place shall be filled successively by the Spanish Consul and Spanish Vice Consul, if there be a Spanish Consul or Spanish Vice Consul, appointed to and resident in such Possession ; and in the Case where the Vacancy be both of the Spanish Judge and of the Spanish Arbitrator, then the Vacancy of the Judge shall be filled by the Spanish Consul and that of the Spanish Arbitrator by the Spanish Vice Consul, if there be a Spanish Consul and a Spanish Vice Consul appointed to and resident in such Possession ; and in that Case in which there be no Spanish Consul or Spanish Vice Consul to fill the Place of the Spanish Arbitrator, then the British Arbitrator shall be called in in those Cases in which a Spanish Arbitrator, were there any, would be called in ; and in case the Vacancy be both of the Spanish Judge and Spanish Arbitrator, and there be neither Spanish Consul nor Spanish Vice Consul to fill ad interim the Vacancies, then the British Judge and the British Arbitrator shall sit, and in all Cases brought before them for Adjudication shall proceed to adjudge the same and pass Sentence accordingly.

The Governor or Lieutenant Governor of the Settlements wherein either of the Mixed Courts of Justice shall sit, in the event of a Vacancy arising either of the Judge or the Arbitrator of the other High Contracting Party, shall forthwith give Notice of the same to the Governor or Lieutenant Governor of the nearest Settlement of such other High Contracting Party, in order that such Vacancy may be supplied at the earliest possible Period; and each of the High Contracting Parties agrees to supply definitively, as soon as possible, the Vacancies which may arise in the above-mentioned Courts from Death or from any other Cause whatever.

The undersigned Plenipotentiaries have agreed, in conformity with the Fourteenth Article of the Treaty signed by them on this Day, the Twenty-eighth of June One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, that the preceding Regulations, consisting of Nine Articles, shall be annexed to the said Treaty, and considered an integral Part thereof.

This Day, the twenty-eighth of June in the Year One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

ANNEX (C.)

Regulations for the good Treatment of Liberated Negroes.

Article I.—The Object and Spirit of these Regulations is to secure to Negroes liberated by virtue of the Stipulations of the Treaty to which these Regulations form an Annex (marked C.) permanent good Treatment, and a full and complete Emancipation, in conformity with the humane Intentions of the High Contracting Parties.

Article II.—Immediately after Sentence of Condemnation on a Vessel charged with being concerned in illegal Slave Trade shall have been passed by the Mixed Court of Justice, established under the Treaty to which these Regulations form an Annex, all Negroes who were on board of such Vessel, and who were brought on board for the Purpose of Traffic, shall be delivered over to the Government to whom belongs the Cruiser which made the Capture.

Article III.—If the Cruiser which made the Capture is English the British Government engages that the Negroes shall be treated in exact Conformity with the Laws in force in the British Colonies for the Regulation of free apprenticed Negroes.

Article IV.—If the Cruiser which made the Capture is Spanish, in this Case the Negroes shall be delivered over to the Spanish Authorities of the Havanna, or of any other Point of the Dominions of the Queen of Spain in which the Mixed Court of Justice is established; and the Spanish Government solemnly engages that they shall be treated strictly according to the Regulations lately promulgated and now actually in force at the Havanna with respect to the Treatment of emancipated Negroes, or according to such Regulations as may in future be adopted, and which have and shall always have the humane Object of improving and securing honestly and faithfully to the emancipated Negroes the Enjoyment of their acquired Liberty, good Treatment, a Knowledge of the Tenets of the Christian Religion, their Advancement in Morality and Civilization, and their sufficient Instruction in the mechanical Arts, in order that the said emancipated Negroes may be put in a Condition to earn their Subsistence, whether as Artisans, Mechanics, or Servants.

Article V.—For the Purpose which is explained in Article VI. there shall be kept in the Office of the Captain General or Governor of the Part of the Dominions of the Queen of Spain where the Mixed Court of Justice resides a Register of all emancipated Negroes, in which shall be entered with scrupulous Exactness the Names given to the Negroes, the Names of the Vessels in which they were captured, the Names of the Persons to whose Care they have been committed, and any other Circumstances likely to contribute to the End in view.

Article VI.—The Register to which the preceding Article refers will serve to form a general Return, which the Governor or Captain General of the Part of the Dominions of the Queen of Spain where the Mixed Court of Justice resides shall be bound to deliver every Six Months to the aforesaid Mixed Commission, in order to shew the Existence of the Negroes emancipated under this Treaty, the Decease of such as have died, the Improvement in their Condition, and the Progress made in their Instruction, both religious and moral, as also in the Arts of Life.

Article VII.—As the principal Object of the Treaty of which the present Annex forms an integral Part is no other than that of improving the Condition of these unhappy Victims of Avarice, the High Contracting Parties, animated with the same Sentiments of Humanity, agree, that if in future it should appear necessary to adopt new Measures for obtaining the same benevolent End, in consequence of those laid down in this Annex turning out inefficient, the said High Contracting Parties will consult together, and agree upon other Means better adapted for the complete Attainment of the Object proposed.

Article VIII.—The undersigned Plenipotentiaries have agreed, in conformity with the Fourteenth Article of the Treaty signed by them on this Day, the Twenty-eighth of June One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, that this Annex, consisting of Eight Articles, shall be united to the said Treaty, and be considered an integral Part thereof.

This Day, the Twenty-eighth of June in the Year One thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

IX. That the pendency of any suit or proceeding instituted before the said Judges or arbitrators for the condemnation or restitution of any ship or cargo or slaves taken, seized, or detained by virtue of the said treaty, or the final adjudication, condemnation, or judgment or determination thereupon, may be pleaded in bar or given in evidence under the general issue, and shall be and be deemed and adjudged in any court whatever to be a good and complete bar in any action, suit, or proceeding, whether brought or instituted by any person or persons for the recovery of any such ship, vessel, or cargo, or of any damage, or for any injury sustained thereby or by the persons on board the same, in consequence of any capture, seizure, or detention, or act, matter, or thing, done under the authority or in pursuance of the provisions of the said treaty; anything in any Act or Acts of Parliament or law or laws to the contrary notwithstanding.

X. XI. This section enacts and declares, That if any of the particulars specified in the tenth article of the said treaty shall be found in the outfit and equipment of or on board of any such merchant vessel wholly or in part owned by subjects of His Majesty, and visited and detained in pursuance of the said treaty, such vessel shall, unless proof be given to the contrary, be held and taken to have engaged in the slave trade, or to have been fitted out for the purposes of such traffic, and to be equipped and employed for the purposes declared unlawful by an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 113, intituled, 'An Act to amend and consolidate the Laws relating to the Abolition of the Slave Trade.'

XII. That there shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to the commanders, officers, and crews of His Majesty's ships authorized to make seizures under the said treaty, a bounty of 5*l.* of lawful money of Great Britain for every man, woman, and child slave seized and found on board a British or Spanish ship or vessel taken, delivered over, and condemned in pursuance of the provisions of the said treaty and of this Act; such bounty to be issued and paid by order from the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and to be distributed to and amongst the captors aforesaid in such manner and proportions as His Majesty, his heirs and successors, shall think fit to order and direct, by any order in council or by any proclamation to be made for that purpose.

XIII. That in order to entitle the captors to receive the said bounty money the number of men, women, and children so taken, delivered over, and condemned shall be proved to the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, by producing a copy, duly certified, of the sentence or decree of condemnation, and also a certificate under the hand of the proper officer or officers, military or civil, who may be appointed to receive such slaves.

XIV. That where any slaves, or persons treated, dealt with, carried, kept, or detained as slaves, shall be taken or seized on board any British or Spanish ship or vessel in pursuance of the provisions of the said treaty and of this Act, but who shall not have been condemned, or shall not have been delivered over in consequence of death, sickness, or other inevitable circumstance, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, if to their discretion it shall seem meet, by warrant signed by any three or more of them, to direct the payment out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland of one moiety of the bounty which would have been due in each case respectively if the said slaves had been delivered over and condemned.

XV. That all the provisions, rules, regulations, forfeitures, and penalties respecting the delivery by prize agents of accounts for examination, and the distribution of prize money, and the accounting for and paying over the proceeds of prize and the per-centage due thereon to Greenwich Hospital, shall be and are hereby extended to all bounties and proceeds to be distributed under the provisions of this Act to the officers and crews of any of His Majesty's ships and vessels of war.

XVI. That where any ship or vessel belonging in whole or in part to subjects of Her Catholic Majesty shall have been detained and brought to adjudication by any officers of His Majesty the King of Great Britain and Ireland, and the said ship shall be restored by sentence of the Court, as is mentioned in the fifth article of the Annex (B.) to the said treaty, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, by warrant signed by any three or more of them, to direct payment to be made out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland of any costs and damages which may be duly awarded according to the provisions of the said last-mentioned article: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall exempt such officer from his liability to make good the payments so made when lawfully called upon by order of the said Commissioners of his Majesty's Treasury.

XVII. That when any seizure shall be made by any of the commanders, officers, and crews of His Majesty's ships authorized to make such seizures under the aforesaid treaty, and judgment shall be given against the seizer, or when such seizure shall be relinquished by him, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, if to their discretion it shall seem meet, by warrant signed by any three or more of them, to direct payment to be made out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland of such costs and expenses as the seizer may have incurred in respect of such seizure, or any proportional part thereof.

XVIII. That if any of the things specified in the tenth article of the said treaty shall be found on board any vessel which shall be detained and brought before either of the said Mixed Courts, neither the master nor the owner, nor any person whatsoever interested in the equipment or cargo of the vessel, shall recover any compensation or damages for such detention, although the said Mixed Court should not pronounce any sentence of condemnation; but that in such case it shall and may be lawful for the said Mixed Court, if they shall think fit, to pay out of the Prize Fund under the controul of the said Court such sum of money as according to the circumstances of the case they may judge reasonable in proportion to the demurrage suffered.

XIX. That if any action or suit shall be commenced, either in Great Britain or elsewhere, against any person or persons, for anything done in pursuance of the said treaty or this Act, in as far as it relates thereto, the defendant or defendants in such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence, at any trial to be had thereupon, and that the same was done in pursuance and by the authority of the said treaty or of this Act; and if it shall appear so to have been done the jury shall find for the defendant or defendants; and if the plaintiff shall be nonsuited, or discontinue his action after the defendant or defendants shall have appeared, or if judgment shall be given upon any verdict or demurrer against the plaintiff, the defendant or defendants shall recover treble costs, and have the like remedy for the same as defendants have in other cases by law.

And after reciting that by the eighth article of the said treaty it was agreed that the Mixed Commissions which were then established and sitting under the convention concluded between Great Britain and Spain on the 23rd September 1817 should continue to sit, and should during two months, to be reckoned from the exchange of the ratifications of the said treaty, and until the further appointment and definitive establishment of the Mixed Courts of justice under the said treaty, adjudge without appeal, according to the principles and stipulations of the same and of the several annexes thereof, the cases of such vessels as might be sent or brought before them; and that in conformity with the said treaty certain officers of His Majesty's Navy have been instructed and authorized to search and detain any British and Spanish merchant vessel actually engaged or suspected to be engaged in the slave trade, or to be fitted out for the purpose thereof, or to have been engaged in the traffic in slaves during the voyage in which she might be met with by such officer, and to bring or send such merchant vessel for judgment: And that it may have happened that under the said authority and instructions British and Spanish merchant vessels may have been already, and before the passing of this Act, detained and brought or sent before the mixed commissions established and sitting under the said convention between Great Britain and Spain concluded on the 23rd September 1817, and the Commissioners may have proceeded to adjudge the cases of such vessels: and it is expedient that all acts done in conformity with the said treaty and with the said instructions should be rendered valid, and that all persons acting under and by virtue of such authority and instructions should be protected and indemnified:—

It is Enacted,

XX. That all acts done by or under the authority of any officer of His Majesty's Navy in conformity with the said treaty, who may have been instructed and authorized to search and detain and bring or send any merchant vessels for judgment according to the said treaty, and all adjudications and orders and other acts which may have been made and done by the said Mixed Commissions in consequence thereof, shall be deemed and taken to be good and valid in law; and no officer of His Majesty's Navy or other person acting under such instructions and authority, and in conformity with the said treaty, and no Commissioner or other officer of the said Mixed Commissions, shall be liable to any prosecution or suit at law for any such acts, adjudications, or orders so done or made by them respectively as aforesaid.

II. That all power, jurisdiction, and authority of the Commissioners named in any commission of bankrupt which shall be subsisting at the time when this Act shall take effect shall cease and determine, and that every such commission and all such power and authority shall be and is hereby transferred to the Commissioner to be appointed by virtue of this Act; and all further proceedings shall be thenceforth carried on in like manner as if such commission had been originally issued by the Lord Chancellor, pursuant to this Act, to the Commissioner to be appointed by virtue of this Act: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall render invalid any proceedings which may have been had under any commission now subsisting, or which shall have been issued before this Act shall come into operation, or affect or lessen any right, claim, demand, or remedy which any person now has thereunder, or upon or against any bankrupt against whom any such commission has or shall have issued as aforesaid, except as herein specially enacted.

III. That it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland for the time being to appoint a fit and proper person, being a barrister-at-law of not less than ten years standing at the bar, to be the Commissioner in all commissions of bankrupt to be issued pursuant to this Act, and to be called the Commissioner of Bankrupt; which Commissioner, so to be appointed, shall hold his office during good behaviour: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors for the time being of Ireland to remove such Commissioner upon a certificate from the Lord Chancellor of some sufficient reason to be named therein for such removal.

XXIV. That if any trader liable by virtue of this Act to become bankrupt shall, after a docket struck against him, pay to the person or persons who struck the same, or any of them, money, or give or deliver to any such person any such satisfaction or security for his debt or any part thereof whereby such person may receive more in the pound in respect of his debt than the other creditors, such payment, gift, delivery, satisfaction, or security shall be an act of bankruptcy; and if any commission shall have issued upon the docket so struck as aforesaid, the Lord Chancellor may either declare such commission to be valid, and direct the same to be proceeded in, or may order it to be superseded, and a new commission may issue; and such commission may be supported either by proof of such last-mentioned or of any other act of bankruptcy; and every person so receiving such money, gift, delivery, satisfaction, or security as aforesaid shall forfeit his whole debt, and also repay or deliver up such money, gift, satisfaction, or security as aforesaid, or the full value thereof, to such person or persons as the Commissioner acting under such original commission or any new commission shall appoint, for the benefit of the creditors of such bankrupt.

XXVI. That if any creditor or creditors of any such trader having privilege of Parliament to such amount as is hereinafter declared requisite to support a commission, shall file an affidavit or affidavits in any court of record in Dublin that such debt or debts is or are justly due to him or them respectively, and that such debtor, as he or they verily believe, is such trader as aforesaid, and shall sue out of the same court a summons, or an original bill and summons, against such trader, and serve him with a copy of such summons, if such trader shall not within one calendar month after personal service of such summons pay, secure, or compound for such debt or debts to the satisfaction of such creditor or creditors, or enter into a bond in such sum, and with two sufficient sureties, as any of the Judges of the court out of which such summons shall issue shall approve of, to pay such sum as shall be recovered in such action or actions, together with such costs as shall be given in the same, and within one calendar month next after personal service of such summons cause an appearance or appearances to be entered to such action or actions in the proper court or courts in which the same shall have been brought, every such trader shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy from the time of the service of such summons, and any creditor or creditors of such trader to such amount as aforesaid may sue out a commission against him, and proceed thereon in like manner as against other bankrupts.

XXVII. That if any decree or order shall have been pronounced in any cause or matter depending in any court of equity against any such trader having privilege of Parliament, ordering such trader to pay any sum of money, and such trader shall disobey, the same having been duly served upon him, the person or persons entitled to receive such sum under such decree or order, or interested in enforcing the payment thereof pursuant to such decree or order, may apply to the Court by which the same shall have been pronounced to fix a peremptory day for the payment of such money, which shall accordingly be fixed by an order for that purpose; and if such trader, being personally served with such last-mentioned order eight days before the day therein appointed for payment of such money, shall neglect to pay the same, he shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy from the time of the service thereof, and any such creditor or creditors as aforesaid may sue out a commission against him, and proceed thereon in like manner as against other bankrupts.

XXVIII. That the provisions of an Act, 52 Geo. 3. c. 144, intitled, 'An Act to suspend and finally vacate the Seats of Members of the House of Commons who shall become Bankrupts, and who shall not pay their Debts in full within a limited Time,' shall extend, as far as the same may be applicable, to every commission to be issued and to the Commissioner to be appointed by virtue of this Act.

XXIX. That the Lord Chancellor shall have power, upon petition made to him in writing against any trader having committed any act of bankruptcy, by any creditor or creditors of such trader whose debt or debts shall amount to the sum or sums hereinafter mentioned, to issue a commission under the Great Seal of that part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland called Ireland to the Commissioner to be appointed as hereinbefore mentioned, who shall, by virtue of this Act and of such commission, have full power and authority to take such order and direction with the body of such bankrupt as hereinafter mentioned, as also with all his lands, tenements, and hereditaments, both within the realm and abroad, as well copy or customary-hold as freehold, whether in England, Ireland, or elsewhere, which he shall have in his own right before he became bankrupt, as also with all such interest in any such lands, tenements, and hereditaments as such bankrupt may lawfully depart with, and with all his money, fees, offices, annuities, goods, chattels, wares, merchandize, and debts, whatsoever they may be found or known, and to make sale thereof in manner hereinafter mentioned, or otherwise order the same for satisfaction and payment of the creditors of the said bankrupt.

xxx. That the petitioning creditor shall, before any commission be granted, make an affidavit in writing before a Master, Ordinary or Extraordinary, in Chancery (which shall be filed with the proper officer), of the truth of such his or their respective debt or debts, and shall likewise give bond to the Lord Chancellor in the penalty of 200*l.*, to be conditioned for proving his or their debt or debts, as well before the Commissioner as upon any trial at law, in case the due issuing forth of the commission be contested, and also for proving the party to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time of taking out such commission, and to proceed on such commission; but if such debt or debts shall not be really due, or if after such commission taken out it be not proved that the party had committed an act of bankruptcy at the time of issuing of the commission, and it shall also appear that such commission was taken out fraudulently or maliciously, the Lord Chancellor shall and may, upon petition of the party or parties against whom the commission was so taken out, examine into the same, and order satisfaction to be made to him or them for the damages by him or them sustained, and for the better recovery thereof may sign such bond or bonds to the party or parties so petitioning, who may sue for the same in his and their name and names.

xxxi. That the petitioning creditor or creditors shall at his or their own costs sue forth and prosecute the commission until the choice of assignees; and the Commissioner shall at the meeting for such choice ascertain such costs, and by writing under his hand direct the same to be paid to such petitioning creditor or creditors out of the monies that shall be got in under the commission; and all bills of fees or disbursements of any solicitor or attorney employed under any commission, for business done after the choice of assignees, shall be settled by the Commissioner, except that so much of such bills as contain any charge respecting any action at law or suit in equity shall be settled by the proper officer of the Court in which such business shall have been transacted, and the same so settled shall be paid to such solicitor or attorney; provided that any creditor who shall have proved to the amount of 20*l.* or upwards, if he be dissatisfied with such settlement by the Commissioner, may have any such costs and bills settled by a Master in Chancery.

xxxii. That no such commission shall be issued unless the single debt of such creditor, or of two or more persons being partners, petitioning for the same, shall amount to 100*l.* or upwards, or unless the debt of two creditors so petitioning shall amount to 150*l.* or upwards, or unless the debt of three or more creditors so petitioning shall amount to 200*l.* or upwards; and that every person who has given credit to any trader for valuable consideration for any sum payable at a certain time, which time shall not have arrived when such trader committed an act of bankruptcy, may so petition or join in petitioning as aforesaid, whether he shall have any security in writing or otherwise for such sum or not.

xxxiii. That any creditor or creditors whose debt or debts is or are sufficient to enable him or them to petition for a commission against all the partners of any firm may petition for a commission against one or more of the partners of such firm; and every commission issued upon such petition shall be valid although it does not include all the partners of the firm; and in every commission against two or more persons it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to supersede such commission as to one or more of such persons, and the validity of such commission shall not be thereby affected as to any person as to whom such commission is not ordered to be superseded, nor shall any person's certificate be thereby affected.

xxxiv. That if after a commission issued against two or more members of a firm any other commission or commissions shall be issued against any other member or members of such firm immediately after the adjudication under such other commission or commissions, all the estate, real and personal, of such person or persons declared bankrupt under such other commission or commissions shall become vested in and transferred to the assignees under the first commission or commissions, in the same manner as if they had been appointed assignees under such other commission or commissions, according to the provisions of this Act, and all separate proceedings under such commission or commissions shall be stayed; and such commission or commissions shall, without affecting the validity of the first commission, be annexed to and form part of the same: Provided always, that the Lord Chancellor may direct such commission or commissions to be proceeded on, either separately or in conjunction with the first commission.

xxxv. That if after adjudication the debt or debts of the petitioning creditor or creditors, or any of them, be found insufficient to support the commission, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, upon application of any other creditor or creditors having proved any debt or debts sufficient to support a commission, provided such debt or debts has or have been incurred not anterior to the debt or debts of the petitioning creditor or creditors, to order the said commission to be proceeded in, and it shall by such order be deemed valid.

xxxvi. That no commission shall be deemed invalid by reason of any act or acts of bankruptcy prior to the debt or debts of the petitioning creditor or creditors, or any of them, provided there be a sufficient act of bankruptcy subsequent to such debt or debts.

xxxvii. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioner, by writing under his hand, to summon before him any person whom he shall believe capable of giving any information concerning the trading or any act or acts of bankruptcy committed by the person or persons against whom such commission is issued, and also to require any person so summoned to reduce any books, papers, deeds, writings, and other documents in the possession, custody, or power of such person which may appear to the said Commissioner to be necessary to establish any such trading or act or acts of bankruptcy; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioner to examine any such person upon oath, by word of mouth or interrogatories in writing, concerning the trade of or any act or acts of bankruptcy committed by the person or persons against whom such commission shall have issued; and every such person so summoned shall incur such danger or penalty for not coming before the Commissioner, or for refusing to be sworn and examined, or for not fully answering to the satisfaction of the said Commissioner, or for refusing to sign or subscribe his examination, or for refusing to produce or for not producing any such book, paper, deed, writing, or document, as is hereby provided as to persons summoned after the adjudication of bankruptcy; and the Commissioner, upon oath made before him of the petitioning creditor's debt or debts, and of the trading or act or acts of bankruptcy of the person or persons against whom such commission is issued, shall thereupon adjudge such person or persons bankrupt.

XXXVIII. XL. xxx*iv.* That if after a commission issued against two or more members of a firm any other commission or commissions shall be issued against any other member or members of such firm immediately after the adjudication under such other commission or commissions, all the estate, real and personal, of such person or persons declared bankrupt under such other commission or commissions shall become vested in and transferred to the assignees under the first commission or commissions, in the same manner as if they had been appointed assignees under such other commission or commissions, according to the provisions of this Act, and all separate proceedings under such commission or commissions shall be stayed; and such commission or commissions shall, without affecting the validity of the first commission, be annexed to and form part of the same: Provided always, that the Lord Chancellor may direct such commission or commissions to be proceeded on, either separately or in conjunction with the first commission.

XCii. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, upon the petition of the assignees, or of any purchaser from them of any part of the bankrupt's estate, if such bankrupt shall not try the validity of the commission, or if there shall have been a verdict at law establishing its validity, to order the bankrupt to join in any conveyance of such estate or any part thereof, and if he shall not execute such conveyance within the time directed by the order, such bankrupt, and all persons claiming under him, shall be stopped from objecting to the validity of such conveyance, and all estate, right, or title which such bankrupt had therein shall be as effectually barred by such order as if such conveyance had been executed by him.

XCiv. That if any such bankrupt shall have any government stock, funds, or annuities, or any of the stock of any public company, either in England, Scotland, or Ireland, standing in his name in his own right, it shall be lawful for the Commissioner, by writing under his hand, to order all persons whose act or consent is thereto necessary to transfer the same into the name of the assignees, and to pay all dividends upon the same to such assignees; and all such persons whose act or consent is so necessary as aforesaid are hereby indemnified for all things done or permitted pursuant to such order.

XCv. XCvi. That all payments really and bond fide made or which shall hereafter be made by any bankrupt, or by any person on his behalf, before the date and issuing of the commission against such bankrupt, to any creditor of such bankrupt (such payment not being a fraudulent preference of such creditor), shall be deemed valid, notwithstanding any prior act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed; and all payments really and bond fide made or which shall hereafter be made to any bankrupt before the date and issuing of the commission against such bankrupt shall be deemed valid, notwithstanding any prior act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed, and such creditor shall not be liable to refund the same to the assignees of such bankrupt, provided the person so dealing with the said bankrupt had not at the time of such payment by or to such bankrupt notice of any act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed.

XCvii. That the issuing of a commission shall be deemed notice of a prior act of bankruptcy (if an act of bankruptcy had been actually committed before the issuing the commission), if the adjudication of the bankruptcy of the person or persons against whom such commission has issued shall have been notified in the Dublin Gazette, and the person or persons to be affected by such notice may reasonably be presumed to have seen the same.

XCviii. That no person or body corporate or public company, having in his or their possession or custody any money, goods, wares, merchandizes, or effects belonging to any bankrupt, shall be endangered by reason of the payment or delivery thereof to the bankrupt or his order, provided such person or body corporate or company had not at the time of such delivery or payment notice that such bankrupt had committed an act of bankruptcy.

LXXX. That in case of the removal of any assignee or assignees the Commissioner shall, in the two Dublin Gazettes next after the removal of such assignee or assignees, cause advertisements to be inserted giving notice of such removal, and directing persons indebted to the bankrupt's estate not to pay any debt to the assignee or assignees so removed.

LXXXI. That whenever an assignee shall die, or a new assignee or assignees shall be appointed or chosen as aforesaid, no action at law or suit in equity shall be thereby abated, but the Court in which any action or suit shall be depending may, upon the suggestion of such death or removal, and new appointment or choice, allow the name or names of the surviving or new assignee or assignees to be substituted in the place of the former; and such action or suit shall be prosecuted in the name or names of the said surviving or new assignee or assignees in the same manner as if he or they had originally commenced the same.

LXXXV. That if any real or personal estate or debts of any bankrupt be extended, after he shall have become bankrupt, by any person, under pretence of his being an accountant of or debtor to the King, the Commissioner may examine upon oath whether the said debt was due to such debtor or accountant upon any contract originally made between such accountant and the bankrupt; and if such contract was originally made with any other person than the said debtor or accountant, or in trust for any other person or persons, the Commissioner may sell and dispose of such real and personal estate or debts for the benefit of the creditors under the commission; and such sale shall be valid against the said extent, and all persons claiming under it; and any person to whom the said real and personal estate or debts shall be bargained and sold, granted or assigned, by the Commissioner, shall have and may recover the same against any person who shall detain the same.

LXXXVIII. That no distress for rent made and levied after an act of bankruptcy upon the goods or effects of any bankrupt (whether before or after the issuing of the commission) shall be available for more than one year's rent accrued prior to the date of the commission, but the landlord or party to whom the rent shall be due shall be allowed to come in as a creditor under the commission for the overplus of the rent due, and for which the distress shall not be available.

XC. That if any bankrupt shall have entered into any agreement for the purchase of any estate or interest in land, the vendor thereof, or any person claiming under him, if the assignees of such bankrupt shall not (upon being thereto required) elect whether they will abide by and execute such agreement or abandon the same, shall be entitled to apply by petition to the Lord Chancellor, who may thereupon order them to deliver up the said agreement and the possession of the premises to the vendor or person claiming under him, or may make such other order therein as he shall think fit.

XCi. That all powers vested in any bankrupt which he might legally execute for his own benefit (except the right of nomination to any vacant ecclesiastical benefice) may be executed by the assignees, for the benefit of the creditors, in such manner as the bankrupt might have executed the same.

XCII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, upon the petition of the assignees, or of any purchaser from them of any part of the bankrupt's estate, if such bankrupt shall not try the validity of the commission, or if there shall have been a verdict at law establishing its validity, to order the bankrupt to join in any conveyance of such estate or any part thereof, and if he shall not execute such conveyance within the time directed by the order, such bankrupt, and all persons claiming under him, shall be stopped from objecting to the validity of such conveyance, and all estate, right, or title which such bankrupt had therein shall be as effectually barred by such order as if such conveyance had been executed by him.

XCIV. That if any such bankrupt shall have any government stock, funds, or annuities, or any of the stock of any public company, either in England, Scotland, or Ireland, standing in his name in his own right, it shall be lawful for the Commissioner, by writing under his hand, to order all persons whose act or consent is thereto necessary to transfer the same into the name of the assignees, and to pay all dividends upon the same to such assignees; and all such persons whose act or consent is so necessary as aforesaid are hereby indemnified for all things done or permitted pursuant to such order.

XCV. XCVI. That all payments really and bond fide made or which shall hereafter be made by any bankrupt, or by any person on his behalf, before the date and issuing of the commission against such bankrupt, to any creditor of such bankrupt (such payment not being a fraudulent preference of such creditor), shall be deemed valid, notwithstanding any prior act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed; and all payments really and bond fide made or which shall hereafter be made to any bankrupt before the date and issuing of the commission against such bankrupt shall be deemed valid, notwithstanding any prior act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed, and such creditor shall not be liable to refund the same to the assignees of such bankrupt, provided the person so dealing with the said bankrupt had not at the time of such payment by or to such bankrupt notice of any act of bankruptcy by such bankrupt committed.

XCVII. That the issuing of a commission shall be deemed notice of a prior act of bankruptcy (if an act of bankruptcy had been actually committed before the issuing the commission), if the adjudication of the bankruptcy of the person or persons against whom such commission has issued shall have been notified in the Dublin Gazette, and the person or persons to be affected by such notice may reasonably be presumed to have seen the same.

XCVIII. That no person or body corporate or public company, having in his or their possession or custody any money, goods, wares, merchandizes, or effects belonging to any bankrupt, shall be endangered by reason of the payment or delivery thereof to the bankrupt or his order, provided such person or body corporate or company had not at the time of such delivery or payment notice that such bankrupt had committed an act of bankruptcy.

C. That no purchase from any bankrupt bond fide and for valuable consideration, where the purchaser had notice at the time

cr. That no title to any real or personal estate sold under any commission or under any order in bankruptcy shall be impeached by the bankrupt, or any person claiming under him, in respect of any defect in the suing out of the commission, or in any of the proceedings under the same, unless the bankrupt shall have commenced proceedings to supersede the said commission, and duly prosecuted the same, within twelve calendar months from the issuing thereof.

cii. That the assignees, with the consent of the major part in value of the creditors who shall have proved under the commission, present at any meeting, whereof, and of the purport whereof, twenty-one days notice shall have been given in the Dublin Gazette, may compound with any debtor to the bankrupt's estate, and take any reasonable part of the debt in discharge of the whole, or may give time or take security for the payment of such debt, or may submit any dispute between such assignees and any persons concerning any matter relating to such bankrupt's estate to the determination of arbitrators, to be chosen by the assignees and the major part in value of such creditors, and the party with whom they shall have such dispute; and the award of such arbitrators shall be binding on all the creditors; and the assignees are hereby indemnified for what they shall do according to the directions aforesaid; and no suit in equity shall be commenced by the assignees without such consent as aforesaid; provided that if one-third in value or upwards of such creditors shall not attend at any such meeting (whereof such notice shall have been given as aforesaid) the assignees shall have power, with the consent of the Commissioner, testified in writing under his hand, to do any of the matters aforesaid.

ciii. That in any commission against any one or more member or members of a firm the Lord Chancellor may, upon petition, authorize the assignees to commence or prosecute any action at law or suit in equity in the names of such assignees and of the remaining partner or partners against any debtor of the partnership, and thereupon such assignees may obtain such judgment, decree, or order therein as if such action or suit had been instituted with the consent of such partner or partners; and if such partner or partners shall execute any release of the debt or demand for which such action or suit is instituted such release shall be void; provided that every such partner, if no benefit is claimed by him by virtue of the said proceedings, shall be indemnified against the payment of any costs in respect of such action or suit; and that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, upon the petition of such partner, to direct that he may receive so much of the proceeds of such action or suit as the Lord Chancellor shall think fit.

civ. That in any action by or against any assignee, or in any action against any person acting under the warrant of the Commissioner for anything done under such warrant, no proof shall be required at the trial of the petitioning creditor's debt or debts, or of the trading, or act or acts of bankruptcy respectively, unless the other party in such action shall, if defendant, at or before the time of pleading, and, if plaintiff, before issue joined, give notice in writing to such assignee or other person that he intends to dispute some and which of such matters; and in case such notice shall have been given, if such assignee or other person shall prove the matter so disputed, or the other party admit the same, the Judge before whom the cause shall be tried may (if he think fit) grant a certificate of such proof or admission; and such assignee or other person shall be entitled to the costs, to be taxed by the proper officer, occasioned by such notice; and such costs shall, if such assignee or other person shall obtain a verdict, be added to his costs, and if the other party shall obtain a verdict shall be deducted from the costs which such other party would otherwise be entitled to receive from such assignee or other person.

cv. That in all suits in equity by or against the assignee no proof shall be required at the hearing of the petitioning creditor's debt or debts, or of the trading, or of the act or acts of bankruptcy respectively, as against any of the parties in such suit, except such parties as shall within ten days after issue joined give notice in writing to the assignees of his or their intention to dispute some and which of such matters; and where such notice shall have been given, if the assignees shall prove the matter so disputed, the costs occasioned by such notice, to be taxed by the proper officers, shall, if the Court see fit, be paid by the party or parties so giving such notice as aforesaid; and the service of such notice may be proved by affidavit upon the hearing of the cause.

cvi. That if the bankrupt shall not, if he was within the United Kingdom at the issuing of the commission, within two months after the adjudication, or, if he was out of the United Kingdom, within twelve calendar months after the adjudication, have given notice of his intention to dispute the commission, and have proceeded therein with due diligence, the depositions taken before the Commissioner at the time of or previous to the adjudication of bankruptcy, of the petitioning creditor's debt or debts, and of the trading, and act or acts of bankruptcy, shall be conclusive evidence of the matters and things therein respectively contained, so far as relates to the sufficiency of the petitioning creditor's debt or debts, trading, and act or acts of bankruptcy, in all suits at law or in equity brought by the assignees for any debt or demand for which the bankrupt might have sustained any action or suit.

cvi. That if the assignees commence any action or suit for any money so due to the bankrupt before the time allowed as aforesaid for him to dispute the commission shall have elapsed, any defendant in any such action or suit shall be entitled, after notice given to the assignees, to pay the same or any part thereof into the court in which such action or suit is brought, and all proceedings with respect to the money so paid into court shall thereupon be stayed, and after the time aforesaid shall have elapsed the assignees shall have the same paid to them out of court.

cvi. cx. That all things done pursuant to the Act, 11 & 12 Geo. 3, and hereby repealed, whereby it was enacted that the Lord Chancellor should appoint a place where all matters relating to commissions of bankruptcy should be entered of record, and

cx. That the person so appointed by virtue of the said recited Act, 11 & 12 Geo. 3. and his successors, shall have the custody and care of all the said records, and of all other records to be entered in pursuance of this Act; and shall, by himself or his deputy, enter of record all matters and proceedings in bankruptcy which by this Act, or any order made in pursuance of it, are or may be directed or required to be entered of record upon payment of such fees as before the passing of this Act he was entitled to receive for the like business.

cxI. That after this Act shall take effect no commission of bankruptcy, adjudication of bankruptcy, certificate of the appointment or choice of assignees, or certificate of conformity, shall be received as evidence in any court of law or equity, unless the same shall have been so entered of record as aforesaid; and every such instrument shall be so entered of record, and the certificate of such entry indorsed thereon, upon the application or behalf of any party interested therein, and on payment of such fees as before the passing of this Act were by law payable for the like business, without any petition or writing presented for that purpose; and the Lord Chancellor may, upon petition, direct any depositions, proceedings, or other matters relating to commissions of bankruptcy to be entered of record as aforesaid, on the payment of such fees as before the passing of this Act were by law payable for the like business; and all persons shall be at liberty to search for any of the matters so entered of record as aforesaid; provided that on the production in evidence of any instrument so directed to be entered of record, having the certificate thereon purporting to be signed by the person so appointed as aforesaid, or his deputy, or their successors, the same shall, without any proof of such signature, be received as evidence of such instrument having been so entered of record as aforesaid; and the fee of 1s. and no more shall be payable to the person so appointed as aforesaid, and his successors, for every search made for matter so entered of record as aforesaid.

cxII. That in every action, suit, or issue office copies of any original instrument or writing filed in the office or officially in the possession of the Lord Chancellor's Secretary of Bankrupts shall be evidence to be received of every such original instrument or writing respectively; and if any such original instrument or writing shall be produced on any trial the costs of producing the same shall not be allowed on taxation, unless it appears that the production of such original instrument or other writing was necessary.

cxIII. That in the event of the death of any of the witnesses deposing to the petitioning creditor's debt, trading, or act of bankruptcy, under any commission heretofore issued or heretofore to be issued, the depositions of such witnesses, or a copy thereof, duly authenticated according to the provisions of the said recited Acts or of this Act, shall be evidence of the matters and things therein respectively contained, so far as relates to the sufficiency of the petitioning creditor's debt, trading, and act of bankruptcy, in all proceedings at law or in equity, as fully and effectually as if the said matters and things had been deposed to by the same witnesses if living.

cxIV. Provided, that upon the production in evidence of any commission, adjudication, certificate of appointment or choice of assignees, certificate of conformity, deposition, or other proceeding in bankruptcy, purporting to be signed and sealed by the said Commissioner, or of any writing purporting to be a copy of any such document, and purporting to be signed and sealed as aforesaid, the same shall be received as evidence of such documents respectively, and of the same having been so entered of record as aforesaid without any further proof thereof; Provided nevertheless, that all commissions, and proceedings under the same which may have been entered of record before the passing of this Act, shall and may, upon the production thereof, with the certificate thereon purporting to be signed by the person so appointed to enter proceedings in bankruptcy, or by his deputy, be received as evidence of the same having been duly entered of record; anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

After reciting that great difficulty has arisen to the assignees of bankrupts in the recovery of small debts;—

CXIX. That the assignees shall keep an account wherein they shall enter all property of the bankrupt received by or vested in them, and all payments made by them, or by order of the Commissioner, on account of the bankrupt's estate, which account every creditor who shall have proved may inspect at all reasonable times; and it shall be lawful for the Commissioner at all times, by writing under his hand, to summon the assignees before him, and require them to produce all books, papers, deeds, writings, and other documents relating to the bankruptcy in their possession; and if such assignees so summoned shall not come before the Commissioner at the time appointed (having no impediment made known to the Commissioner at the time of his sitting, and allowed by him,) it shall be lawful for the said Commissioner, by warrant under his hand and seal, directed to such person as he shall think fit, to cause such assignees to be brought before him; and upon their refusing to produce such books, deeds, writings, papers, or documents as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioner to commit the party so refusing to such prison as he shall think fit, there to remain, without bail, until such party shall submit himself to the said Commissioner.

CXX. That at the meeting of creditors for the choice of assignees the major part in value of such creditors there present may direct how, and with whom, the money received from time to time out of the estate of the bankrupt shall be paid in and remain until it be divided; and if such creditors shall not make such direction as aforesaid, the Commissioner shall, immediately after such choice, and at the same meeting, make such direction; but no money shall be directed to be paid into the hands of the Commissioner, or of the solicitor to the commission, or into any banking house or other house of trade in which any such Commissioner or solicitor, or the assignees of the bankrupt, is or are an acting partner, manager or cashier.

CXXI. their respective debts, and shall make an order for a dividend in writing under his hand, and shall cause one part of such order to be filed amongst the proceedings under the commission, and shall deliver another part thereof to the assignees, which order shall contain an account of the time and place of making such order, of the amount of the debts proved, of the money remaining to be divided, of how much in the pound is then ordered to be paid to every creditor, and of the money allowed by the Commissioner to be retained by the assignees, with his reasons for allowing the same to be so retained; and no dividend shall be declared unless the accounts of the assignees shall have been first so audited as aforesaid, and such statement delivered by them upon oath as aforesaid.

CCXVI. That no creditor having security for his debt, or having made any attachment in Dublin or any other place by virtue of any custom there used, of the goods and chattels of the bankrupt, shall receive upon any such security or attachment more than a rateable part of such debt, except in respect of any execution or extent served and levied by seizure upon, or any mortgage of or lien upon any part of the property of such bankrupt before the bankruptcy; provided that no creditor, though for a valuable consideration, who shall sue out execution upon any judgment obtained by default, confession, or Nil dicit, shall avail himself of such execution to the prejudice of other fair creditors, but shall be paid rateably with such creditors.

CCXVII. CCXVIII. That if any assignee under any commission of bankrupt shall have, either in his own hands or at any bankers, or otherwise subject to his order or disposition, or to his knowledge in the hands or in the order and disposition of himself and any co-assignee or co-assignees, or of any or either of them, any unclaimed dividend or dividends amounting in the whole to the sum of 50*l.*, and shall not within six calendar months after this Act shall have taken effect, or two calendar months after the expiration of one year after the declaration and order for payment of such dividend or dividends made by the Commissioner, either pay to the creditor or creditors entitled thereto, or cause a certificate thereof to be filed in the office of the Lord Chancellor's Secretary of Bankruptcy, containing a full and true account of the name or names of the creditor or creditors to whom such unclaimed dividend or dividends is or are respectively due, and of the amount of such dividend or dividends respectively, (such account being signed by the assignee or assignees rendering the same, and attested by the solicitor to the commission, or the solicitor to the assignee or assignees signing the same,) such assignee or assignees shall be charged in account with the estate of the bankrupt interest upon such unclaimed dividend or dividends, to be computed from the time when such certificate is hereby directed to be filed, at the rate of 6*l.* per centum per annum, for such time as he shall thenceforth retain the same, and also such further sum as the Commissioner shall think fit, not exceeding in the whole 20*l.* per centum per annum; and the Lord Chancellor or the said Commissioner may order the investment of any unclaimed dividend or dividends in the public funds or in any government security for or on account of the creditors entitled, and subject to such order as the Lord Chancellor may think fit to make respecting the same, who, if he shall think fit, may, after the same shall have remained unclaimed for the space of three years from the declaration of such dividends by the Commissioner, order the same to be divided amongst and paid to the other creditors; and the proof of the creditors to whom such dividends were allotted shall from thenceforth be considered as void as to the same, but renewable as to any future dividends, to place them pari passu with the other creditors, but not to disturb any dividends which shall have been previously made.

CCXIX. That no action for any dividend shall be brought against the assignees by any creditor who shall have proved under the commission; but if the assignees shall refuse to pay any such dividend the Lord Chancellor may, on petition, order payment thereof, with interest for the time that it shall have been withheld, and the costs of the application.

CCXXI. That the Lord Chancellor shall have power, as often as he shall think fit, from time to time to enlarge the time for the bankrupt surrendering himself for such time as the Lord Chancellor shall think fit, so as every such order be made six days at least before the day on which such bankrupt was to surrender himself.

CCXXII. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioner before the choice of assignees, and after such choice for the assignees with the approbation of the Commissioner testified in writing under his hand, from time to time to make such allowance to the bankrupt out of his estate, until he shall have passed his last examination, as shall be necessary for the support of himself and his family.

CCXXIII. That if any bankrupt apprehended by any warrant of the Commissioner shall, within the time hereby allowed for him to surrender, submit to be examined, and in all things conform, he shall have the same benefit as if he had voluntarily surrendered.

CCXXIV. That the bankrupt, after the appointment or choice of assignees, shall (if thereto required) forthwith deliver up to them upon oath sworn before a Master Ordinary or Extraordinary in Chancery, or Justice of the Peace, all books of account, papers, and writings relating to his estate in his custody or power, and discover such as are in the custody or power of any other person; and every such bankrupt not in prison or custody shall at all times after such surrender attend such assignees, upon every reasonable notice in writing for that purpose, given by them to him, or left at his house, and shall assist such assignees in making out the accounts of his estate; and such bankrupt after he shall have surrendered may at all seasonable times before the expiration of the said forty-two days, or such further time as shall be allowed to him to finish his examination, inspect his books, papers, and writings in the presence of his assignees or any person appointed by them, and bring with him each time any two persons to assist him; and every such bankrupt, after he shall have obtained his certificate, shall, upon demand in writing given to him or left at his usual place of abode, attend the assignees to settle any accounts between his estate and any debtor to or creditor thereof, or attend any court of record to give evidence touching the same, or do any act necessary for getting in the said estate, for which attendance he shall be paid 5s. per day out of his estate; and if such bankrupt shall after such demand as aforesaid not attend, or on such attendance refuse to do any of the matters aforesaid, without sufficient cause shewn to the Commissioner for such refusal, and by him allowed, the assignees making proof thereof upon oath before the Commissioner, the said Commissioner may, by warrant directed to such person as he shall think proper, cause such bankrupt to be apprehended and committed to such prison as he shall think fit, there to remain until he shall conform to the satisfaction of the said Commissioner or of the Lord Chancellor.

CCXXV. That in every case the assignees may, with the consent of the Commissioner, testified by some writing signed by him, appoint the bankrupt himself to superintend the management of the estate, or to carry on the trade, for the benefit of the creditors, and in all respects or any other respect as they may think fit to aid them in administering the bankrupt's estate and effects, in such manner and on such terms as they may think best for the benefit of the persons interested in the estate.

CCXXVI. That the bankrupt shall be free from arrest or imprisonment by any creditor in coming to surrender and after such surrender, during the said forty-two days, and such further time as shall be allowed him for finishing his examination, provided he was not in custody at the time of such surrender; and if such bankrupt shall be arrested for debt or on any escape warrant in coming to surrender, or shall after his surrender be so arrested within the time aforesaid, he shall, upon producing the summons under the hand of the Commissioner to the officer who shall arrest him, and giving such officer a copy thereof, be immediately discharged; and if any officer shall detain such bankrupt after he shall have shewn such summons to him so signed as aforesaid, such officer shall forfeit to such bankrupt for his own use the sum of 5l. for every day he shall detain such bankrupt, to be recovered by action of debt in any court of record at Dublin in the name of such bankrupt, with full costs of suit.

CCXL. That every bankrupt who shall have duly surrendered and in all things conformed himself to the laws in force concerning bankrupts at the time of issuing the commission against him shall be discharged from all debts due by him when he became a bankrupt, and from all claims and demands hereby made proveable under the commission, in case he shall obtain a certificate of such conformity so signed and allowed and subject to such provisions as hereinafter directed; but no such certificate shall release or discharge any person who was partner with such bankrupt at the time of his bankruptcy, or who was then jointly bound or had made any joint contract with such bankrupt.

charge unless the Commissioner shall, in writing under his hand and seal, certify to the Lord Chancellor that such bankrupt has made a full discovery of his estate and effects, and in all things conformed as aforesaid, and that there does not appear any reason to doubt the truth or fulness of such discovery, and also that the creditors have signed in manner hereby directed, and unless the bankrupt make oath in writing that such certificate and consent were obtained without fraud, and unless such certificate shall after such oath be allowed by the Lord Chancellor, against which allowance any of the creditors of the bankrupt may be heard before the Lord Chancellor.

CXLIV. That any bankrupt who shall, after his certificate shall have been allowed, be arrested or have any action brought against him for any debt, claim, or demand hereby made proveable under the commission against such bankrupt, shall be discharged upon common bail, and may plead in general that the cause of action accrued before he became bankrupt, and may give this Act and the special matter in evidence; and such bankrupt's certificate and the allowance thereof shall be sufficient evidence of the trading, bankruptcy, commission, and other proceedings precedent to the obtaining such certificate; and if any such bankrupt shall be taken in execution or detained in prison for such debt, claim, or demand, where judgment has been obtained before the allowance of his certificate, it shall be lawful for any Judge of the court wherein judgment has been so obtained, on such bankrupt's producing his certificate, to order any officer who shall have such bankrupt in custody by virtue of such execution to discharge such bankrupt without exacting any fee, and such officer shall be hereby indemnified for so doing.

CXLV. That if any person who shall have been so discharged by such certificate as aforesaid, or who shall have compounded with his creditors, or who shall have been so discharged by any Insolvent Act, shall be or become bankrupt, and have obtained or shall hereafter obtain such certificate as aforesaid, unless his estate shall produce (after all charges) sufficient to pay every creditor under the commission 15s. in the pound, such certificate shall only protect his person from arrest and imprisonment, but his future estate and effects (except the tools of trade and necessary household furniture, and the wearing apparel of himself, his wife and children,) shall vest in the assignees under the said commission, who shall be entitled to seize the same in like manner as they might have seized property of which such bankrupt was possessed at the issuing of the commission.

CXLVI. That every bankrupt who shall have obtained his certificate, if the net produce of his estate shall pay the creditors who have proved under the commission 10s. in the pound, shall be allowed five per cent. out of such produce, to be paid him by the assignees, provided such allowance shall not exceed 400l.; and every such bankrupt, if such produce shall pay such creditors 12s. 6d. in the pound, shall be allowed and paid as aforesaid 7l. 10s. per cent., provided such allowance shall not exceed 500l.; and every such bankrupt, if such produce shall pay such creditors 15s. in the pound or upwards, shall be allowed and paid as aforesaid 10l. per cent., provided such allowance shall not exceed 600l.; but if such produce shall not pay such creditors 10s. in the pound such bankrupt shall only be allowed and paid so much as the assignees and Commissioners shall think fit, not exceeding 5l. per cent. and 300l.

CXLIX. That no bankrupt after his certificate shall have been allowed under any commission shall be liable to pay or satisfy any debt, claim, or demand from which he shall have been discharged by virtue of such certificate, or any part of such debt, claim, or demand upon any contract, promise, or agreement made or to be made after the suing out of the commission, unless and promise, contract, or agreement be made in writing, signed by the bankrupt, or by some person thereto lawfully authorized in writing by such bankrupt.

sion shall have received interest on the debts, to be calculated and paid at the rate and in the order following; (that is to say,) all creditors whose debts are now by law entitled to carry interest, in the event of a surplus, shall first receive interest on such debts at the rate of interest reserved or by law payable thereon, to be calculated from the date of the commission, and after such interest shall have been paid all other creditors who have proved under the commission shall receive interest on their debts, from the date of the commission, at the rate of 5*l.* per centum.

CL^I. That at any meeting of creditors after the bankrupt shall have passed his last examination, (whereof and of the purport of which twenty-one days notice shall have been given in the Dublin Gazette,) if the bankrupt or his friends shall make an offer of composition or security for such composition which nine-tenths in number and value of the creditors assembled at such meeting shall agree to accept, another meeting for the purpose of deciding upon such offer shall be appointed, whereof such notice as aforesaid shall be given; and if at such second meeting nine-tenths in number and value of the creditors then present shall also agree to accept such offer the Lord Chancellor shall and may, upon such acceptance being testified by them in writing, supersede the said commission, and the remaining one-tenth in number and value of the said creditors shall be bound to accept of such composition so agreed to.

And after reciting that great inconveniences have arisen from the agents or clerks to commissions of bankrupts being considered as officers belonging to the assignees appointed under such commissions, and not subject to the controul or direction of the Commissioners named in such commissions, and they have frequently refused to produce the proceedings under such commissions to the Commissioners, and in many instances have refused to obey their orders:—

After reciting that by 6 Will. 4. c. 29, it was enacted, that out of the cash belonging to the estates of bankrupts or to suitors in matters of bankruptcy then lying or which thereafter should lie dead and uninvested in the name of the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery or of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, any sum or sums, not exceeding in the whole the sum of 300,000*l.*, might, by virtue of any order or orders of the Lord High Chancellor to be made for that purpose, from time to time be placed out, in one entire sum or in parcels, in the name of the said Accountant General or of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, on such government or parliamentary securities as in and by such order or orders should be directed, and that such securities should be carried to an account, to be intituled, "The Bankruptcy Fund Account," subject to such rules and orders as the Lord High Chancellor should think fit to prescribe for the purposes in the said Act mentioned; and it was further enacted, that the interest and dividends of all the securities to be purchased under the authority of the said Act should from time to time be received by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, and should be carried to an account, to be intituled "Interest arising from the Bankruptcy Fund Account," to the credit of the Accountant General in Chancery or the Accountant in Bankruptcy, as the circumstances might require: And that, pursuant to the provisions of the said Act, the sum of 300,000*l.* has been already invested in the purchase of 221,606*l.* 13*s.* 3*d.* three per cent. reduced bank annuities, and of 109,242*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.* three per cent. consolidated bank annuities, and such two several sums are now standing at the Bank of England, in the name of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, to the credit of the said account intituled "The Bankruptcy Fund Account": And that there is still a large sum of money belonging to bankrupts' estates or the suitors in bankruptcy, standing in the name of the said Accountant in Bankruptcy, now lying dead and unemployed at the Bank of England:—

It is Enacted,

I. That out of the cash so now lying or which shall hereafter lie dead, and uninvested on securities in the Bank of England in the name of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, any sum or sums of money shall and may, by virtue of any order or orders of the Lord High Chancellor to be made for that purpose, from time to time be placed out and invested, in one entire sum or in parcels, in the name of the said Accountant in Bankruptcy, on such government or parliamentary securities as in and by such order or orders shall be directed; and such securities shall be carried to the said account intituled "The Bankruptcy Fund Account"; and the interest and dividends of all the securities so to be purchased shall from time to time be received by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, and be carried to the said account intituled "Interest arising from the Bankruptcy Fund Account," to the credit of the Accountant in Bankruptcy.

II. That all securities to be purchased under the provisions of this Act shall be subject to the like rules and orders of the Lord High Chancellor, and shall be liable to be varied from time to time under the authority of the said Lord High Chancellor, in like manner as by the said recited Act is provided as to the securities purchased by virtue thereof; and the interest and dividends of all securities to be purchased under the authority of this Act shall be subject to the like rules and orders of the said Lord High Chancellor, and shall be applied in like manner and to the like purposes as the interest and dividends of the securities purchased by virtue of the said recited Act.

III. That if at any time hereafter the whole or any part of the money placed out in pursuance of this Act, shall be wanted to answer any demands due in respect of any bankrupts' estates, or if it shall at any time appear to the Lord Chancellor that the balance of cash remaining to the credit of the Accountant in Bankruptcy is not so large as it ought to be, having regard as well to the convenience of the suitors in bankruptcy as also to the necessity of affording a fair remuneration to the Bank of England for keeping the bankruptcy account of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, the Lord High Chancellor may direct the whole or any part of the securities to be purchased under the provisions of this Act to be sold and disposed of, and the money arising from such sale to be paid into the Bank of England in the name of the said Accountant in Bankruptcy, and to be applied by him in such manner as the Lord High Chancellor shall direct.

IV. That out of the interest and dividends of the said government or parliamentary securities to be purchased as aforesaid the costs, charges, and expenses of all proceedings to be had under this Act shall be paid by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, by virtue of any order of the said Lord High Chancellor.

V. That if at any time hereafter the whole or any part of the money to be laid out in pursuance of this Act shall be wanted to answer the demand of any bankrupts or their creditors or other persons interested therein, and the stocks, funds, and cash then standing in the name of the said Accountant in Bankruptcy to the several accounts before mentioned shall not be sufficient to raise and produce such money, then and in such case the money which shall have been invested under the provisions of this Act shall be considered a debt due from the public, and, to such extent as may be necessary, shall be answered and made good by Parliament accordingly.

VI. That the powers and authorities given by this Act to the Lord High Chancellor shall and may be exercised in like manner and are hereby given to the Lord Keeper or Lords Commissioners for the Custody of the Great Seal respectively for the time being.

And after mentioning that by the before-recited Act it is enacted, that certain unclaimed dividends and undivided surplus of bankrupts' estates should be paid into the Bank of England to the credit of the Accountant in Bankruptcy: And that a doubt has arisen whether the provisions in such Act extend to the case of fiats where official assignees have been appointed, and who have not unclaimed dividends or undivided surplus in their hands, such dividends or surplus being, according to the provisions of the said Act, kept at the Bank of England;—

It is Enacted,

VII. That every official assignee shall cause a certificate to be filed of all unclaimed dividends and undivided surplus belonging to any bankrupt's estate under his care and management, in such manner and subject to such provisions and penalties as by the said Act is prescribed with respect to the unclaimed dividends and undivided surplus therein mentioned, and as if such official assignee had such before-mentioned unclaimed dividends or undivided surplus in his own hands.

VIII. That such last-mentioned unclaimed dividends and undivided surplus, and any penalty payable by any official assignee in respect thereof, shall be paid into the Bank of England, in the name of the Accountant in Bankruptcy, to the account intitled "The Unclaimed Dividend Account," and shall be subject to such order and orders as in such Act are prescribed or authorized in respect to the unclaimed dividend and undivided surplus therein mentioned.

IX. That this Act may be altered, varied, or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session.

CAP. XXX.

AN ACT to repeal so much of Two Acts of the Ninth and Tenth Years of King George the Fourth as directs the Period of the Execution and the Prison Discipline of Persons convicted of the Crime of Murder.

(14th July 1836.)

By this Act,

After reciting that by 9 Geo. 4. c. 31, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Statutes in England, relative to Offences against the Person,' it was amongst other things enacted, that every person convicted of murder should be executed according to law on the day next but one after that on which the sentence should be passed, unless the same should happen to be Sunday, and in that case on the Monday following, and that sentence should be pronounced immediately after the conviction of every murderer, unless the Court should see reasonable cause for postponing the same, and such sentence should express, not only the usual judgment of death, but also the time thereby appointed for the execution thereof; and it was by the said Act provided, that after such sentence should have been pronounced it should be lawful for the Court or Judge to stay the execution thereof, if such Court or Judge should so think fit: And that it was by the said Act, amongst other things, further provided, that every person convicted of murder should after judgment be fed with bread and water only, and with no other food or liquor, except in case of receiving the Sacrament, or in case of any sickness or wound, in which case the surgeon of the prison might order other necessaries to be administered; and that no person but the gaoler and his servants, and the chaplain and surgeon of the prison, should have access to any such convict without the permission in writing of the Court or Judge before whom such convict should have been tried, or of the sheriff or his deputy; and that it was by the said Act further provided, that in case the Court or Judge should think fit to respite the execution of such convict, such Court or Judge might, by a licence in writing, relax during the period of the respite all or any of the restraints or regulations theretofore directed to be observed; and that by 10 Geo. 4. c. 34, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Statutes in Ireland relating to Offences against the Person,' the like provisions were made with respect to persons convicted of murder in Ireland: And that for the ends of justice, and especially more effectually to preserve from an irrevocable punishment any persons who may hereafter be convicted upon erroneous or perjured evidence, it is expedient to alter and amend the said recited Acts in these respects;—

It is Enacted,

1. That so much of the said Acts, 9 and 10 Geo. 4, as is hereinbefore recited shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

XXX. That if any action or suit shall be commenced against any other person or persons than a Magistrate, Justice, or peace officer, for anything done in pursuance of this Act, the defendant or defendants in any such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence at any trial to be had thereupon, and that the same was done in pursuance and by the authority of this Act; and if it shall appear so to have been done, or if a verdict shall be recorded for the defendant or defendants, or if the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be nonsuited or discontinued his, her, or their action after the defendant or defendants shall have appeared, or if judgment shall be given upon a verdict or demurrer against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, the defendant or defendants in every such action shall and may recover treble costs, and have the like remedy for the same as any defendant or defendants hath or have in other cases by law for the recovery of his, her, or their costs.

XXXI. Provided, That no person shall be convicted of any offence under this Act unless the complaint is made within 48 hours after the offence shall have been committed, or within such reasonable time as to the Justice or Justices shall seem fit, except in cases of perjury; and that no person who shall be prosecuted to conviction for any offence done or committed against this Act shall be liable to be prosecuted for the same offence under any other law.

XXXII. X. That if any person selling or licensed to sell spirits, wine, or beer by retail, or any person aiding or assisting such retailer, shall prevent or endeavour to prevent by threats or violence, or otherwise, any such Justice or chief or other constable, churchwarden, or overseer in that behalf authorized under this Act or the said Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. from entering any house or place or from making any search therein authorized by this Act, or shall assault or otherwise resist any such Justice or chief or other constable, churchwarden, or overseer as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall forfeit and lose a sum not exceeding the sum of 10*l*.: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall exempt any such person so offending or any other person resisting said Justice, chief or other constable, churchwarden, or overseer, on any occasion in the exercise of any power given by this Act, from any other punishment or penalty, by information, indictment, or otherwise, to which he or she may be liable by law for any such offence, or be construed in any way to affect or repeal any law or laws providing any punishment for such offence.

XI. That if any person selling or licensed to sell spirits, wine, or beer by retail shall, on demand made of entrance, delay to admit any Justice or chief or other constable, churchwarden, or overseer as aforesaid, into any house or place of such person, for the purpose of making such search as aforesaid, or for any other purpose for which by this Act or any other law in force in Ireland such Justice, chief or other constable, churchwarden, or overseer is or may be entitled to admittance into such house or place, such person so offending shall forfeit and lose a sum not exceeding the sum of 2*l*., unless proof shall be made, to the satisfaction of two Justices, who may hear the complaint, that there was reasonable cause for giving such delay.

XII. By this Act,

After reciting that by an Act of the Parliament of Scotland made in the year 1685, intituled, 'Act concerning Tailzies,' it is statuted and declared that it shall be lawful to His Majesty's subjects to tailzie or entail their lands and estates, and to substitute heirs in their tailzies or entails, with such provisions and conditions as they shall think fit, and to affect the said entails with irritant and resolute clauses, whereby it shall not be lawful to the heirs of entail to sell, analzie, or dispose of the said lands or any part thereof, to contract debt, or do any other deed whereby the same might be apprized, adjudged, or evicted from the other substitutes in the entail, or the succession frustrate or interrupted, declaring all such deeds to be in themselves null and void ; and provision is made by the said Act for the recording such entails in the manner therein set forth : And that it is expedient that certain powers should be conferred upon heirs of entail in relation to granting tacks and making excambions, and to selling portions of entailed estates for payment of the entailers's debts :—

It is Enacted,

I. That, notwithstanding any prohibitory, irritant, and resolute clauses contained in any entails already made and established, or which may hereafter be made and established, pursuant to the directions of the said Act, passed in the Parliament of Scotland in the year 1685, it shall be lawful for the respective heirs of entail in possession to grant tacks of any parts of the lands, estates, or heritages therein contained, for the fair rent of such lands or heritages at the period of letting, either by public auction or private bargain, and notwithstanding any prohibition against diminution of the rental, for any period not exceeding 21 years, and to grant tacks of any mines and minerals contained in such lands and estates for any period not exceeding 31 years : Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall authorize any heir of entail in possession of any entailed lands, estates, or heritages to take any grassum or valuable consideration, other than the tack duty or rent, for granting any tack, or to grant any tack of the home farm, nor of the mansion house and offices, or of the garden, lawn, park, or policy attached thereto, for any period beyond his own life ; and in case any such grassum or consideration shall be taken, or in case any tack hereby prohibited shall be granted, such tack shall be null and void.

II. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent or be construed to prevent any heir of entail in possession from exercising any power of granting tacks which may be contained in the entail under which he possesses more extensive than the power of granting tacks hereby conferred.

III. That, notwithstanding any prohibitory, irritant, and resolute clauses contained in any entail already made and established, or which may hereafter be made and established, pursuant to the directions of the said Act passed in the Parliament of Scotland in the year 1685, it shall be lawful for the respective heirs of entail in possession of any entailed lands, estates, or heritages, having made up a feudal title thereto, to make excambion, without the consent of any other heir, of any portion of the entailed lands, estates, or heritages, for an equivalent in lands, estates, or heritages lying contiguous to the same or to some other part of the said entailed estate, or being convenient to be holden with the same, and whether the same shall belong to himself in fee simple or to any other person, and that although the heritages to be given and taken in exchange may consist of different descriptions of heritable property : Provided always, that notice of the intention to make such excambion shall, three months previous to the application to the Court of Session to that effect, as hereinafter required, be given to the five heirs of entail, or to the whole heirs of entail if their number be less than five, of the said entailed lands, estates, or heritages next in the order of succession to the heir so applying; and if any of the said five heirs of entail shall be under age, or under any mental or other legal disability, then to the legal guardians, curators, or administrators of such heirs; and if three or more of the said five heirs shall be under age, or under any mental or other legal disability, then to their respective guardians, curators, or administrators, and also to the two heirs next in the order of succession after such five heirs, who shall be of lawful age and not under any mental or other legal disability; and if any of the said heirs to whom notice is thus directed to be given shall be forth of the United Kingdom, then to the known agent or factor of such absent heir or heirs; and for ascertaining and adjusting the value of the lands, estates, or heritages proposed to be exchanged an application shall be made for that purpose by the heir of entail in possession, and feudally vested in such lands, estates, or heritages, after such notice as is herein directed to be given, by summary petition, setting forth the objects of the said excambion, and the advantages expected to be derived therefrom, to one or other of the divisions of the Court of Session, praying for such excambion; and the said Court shall, after proof made to them of notice to the heirs of entail as aforesaid, take into consideration the expediency of such excambion, and the other circumstances of or affecting the lands, estates, or heritages proposed to be excambied, and the interests of the succeeding heirs of entail therein, and after such notice as is hereinafter directed to be given, and hearing any party having a title and interest to be heard, if any such shall appear, shall appoint two or more skilful persons to inspect and adjust the value and settle the marches of the said lands, estates, or heritages proposed to be excambied; and upon receiving the report upon oath of such persons, and being satisfied of the respective values of such lands, estates, or heritages, and of the expediency of such excambion, the said Court shall thereupon give judgment authorizing the said excambion; and thereupon the contract of excambion shall be executed at the sight and with the approbation of the said Court, and recorded in the sheriff court books of each of the shires or stewartry in which the lands or heritages to be excambied are situated, and also within three months in the register of tailzies: Provided also, that after hearing any party having a title or interest, and appearing as aforesaid, it shall be competent to the said Court to decern the expenses to be incurred by such party in such appearance, to be borne either by such party or by the heir of entail applying for the excambion, as to the said Court shall seem just.

IV. Provided, That it shall not be lawful to excamb the principal mansion house or offices, or the garden, park, lawn, home farm, or policy of any entailed estate, nor more than one-fourth in value of such entailed lands, estate, or heritages in all; and declaring that after excambions have been made under the authority of this Act to the extent in all of one-fourth part in value of the whole entailed lands, estates, or heritages, it shall not be in the power of any heir of entail to make any further excambions of any part of the said lands, estate, or heritages.

V. That all contracts of excambion executed and recorded in terms of this Act shall be effectual to all intents and purposes; and the lands and heritages given or received in excambion shall be held to be a part of the entailed estate or of the entailed estates respectively, and shall be subject to all the prohibitory, irritant, and resolute clauses of the entail or entails, in the same manner as if it or they had been originally a part of such estate or estates respectively; and the lands and heritages given from the entailed estate or estates shall from thenceforth be held as out of the entail or entails under which it was previously held, and be liberated from all the prohibitory, irritant, and resolute clauses thereof: Provided always, that no debt contracted by any heir of entail during the period between the execution of any such contract of excambion and the recording of such contract in the register of tailzies as aforesaid shall affect or be capable of affecting the lands contained in such contract, and thereby added to the entailed estate: And provided further, that if in any such excambion as aforesaid there shall be any excess of value on either side, not exceeding 200*l.*, such excess shall go and be paid to the proprietor, whether heir of entail in possession or proprietor in fee simple, to whom the lands of smaller value shall be awarded; and that if any party to any such excambion shall give or shall receive any consideration or value of any kind whatever, other than the lands to be exchanged, or such excess as aforesaid not exceeding 200*l.*, such excambion shall be null and void.

VI. Provided, That where any such heir in possession shall apply as aforesaid for the excambion of any part or parts of any entailed estate or estates under more than one deed of entail, descendible to the same series of heirs, such deeds of entail shall in reference to such application be held and construed to be one deed of entail, and the estates settled by such entail to be one entailed estate: Provided also, that an Act, 10 Geo. 3. c. 51, intituled, 'An Act to encourage the Improvement of Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments in that part of Great Britain called Scotland held under Settlements of strict Entail,' shall remain in full force and effect, excepting in so far as the same is altered or repealed by any of the provisions of this Act.

And for effecting the sale of portions of entailed estates for payment of the entailers's debts,—

It is Enacted,

VII. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall and may be lawful for the heir of entail in the possession of any entailed estate liable to be adjudged or evicted for the debts or obligations of the maker of the entail, and for the tutors or curators or legal guardians of any such heir, if under twenty-one years of age or under any mental or other legal disability, to apply by summary petition to the Court of Session in either of the divisions of the said court, setting forth the entail, and the debts or obligations affecting or which may be made to affect the lands or heritages contained in the said entail as aforesaid, and praying the said Court that so much of the said lands or heritages may be sold as will produce a sum adequate to discharge the debts so affecting the said estate.

VIII. That it shall and may be lawful for the Judges of the said court, sitting in either of the divisions thereof, and they are hereby authorized and required, upon such petition presented to them as aforesaid, to direct due notice, according to the practice of the said court, to be given of such petition to all concerned, to hear all parties that shall appear for their interest, to inquire into and take an account of the debts, obligations, and other burdens due by or binding upon the entailers of such estate, which affect or may be made to affect such estate as aforesaid, and to fix and ascertain the amount of such debts, obligations, and burdens, and interest, if any, due thereupon, by interlocutors or judgments, and thereupon to inquire into and ascertain, by the investigation and evidence or report of such surveyors or other skilful persons as the said Court shall think fit to nominate and appoint for that purpose, what portions of such entailed estate sufficient to produce a price adequate to the payment of all such debts, obligations, and burdens affecting or capable of being made to affect the said entailed estate as aforesaid may be sold with the least detriment or injury to the remainder of such estate, and to take all necessary proof thereof, and of the value at which such portions of such estate ought either in whole or in lots to be exposed to sale, and thereupon to order and decern that such portions of such estate shall be sold by public roup or auction.

IX. That the said Judges shall cause notice of the intended sale or auction of such portions of such estates to be inserted in one of the newspapers published in the county or counties in which the lands or heritages to be sold lie, and also in three of the newspapers published in Edinburgh, three times, at least three weeks previous to the day of sale, and shall otherwise advertise and notify such sale as to the said Judges shall seem necessary and proper; and the articles and conditions of roup or sale of such portions of such estates shall be adjusted at the sight and with the approbation of the said Judges, and the lands or heritages be exposed to sale in such manner as the said Judges shall direct; and the said Judges may authorize and direct such sales respectively to be adjourned from time to time, and to be again from time to time advertised and notified as hereinbefore directed.

X. That upon the sale of such portions of such estates as aforesaid the said Judges shall adjudge and decern the same, freed from all the burdens, conditions, restrictions, and provisions, clauses irritant and resolute, and other clauses of such entail, to belong to and be the property of the purchaser or respective purchasers thereof, when and as soon as such purchaser or purchasers shall have completed such purchase or purchases by payment or consignation of the purchase-money, or price or prices at or for which he, she, or they shall have purchased the same, to or with the treasurer, cashier, or manager or other proper officer of the Bank of Scotland, the Royal Bank of Scotland, Bank of the British Linen Company of Scotland, Commercial Bank of Scotland, or National Bank of Scotland respectively, to whom the said Judges shall order such payment or consignation to be made, to be placed to an account to be raised in the books of such bank in the name or names of such person or persons as the said Judges shall direct; and which monies shall, when so paid in, produce the highest interest that can be obtained for the same, which interest shall by such person or persons be annually accumulated and added to the principal sum, to carry interest together, until applied, by a warrant or warrants of the said Judges in either division of the said court as aforesaid for the purposes of this Act; and the said Judges shall further pronounce such interlocutor or interlocutors and hold such other proceedings in the said matter as the Judges of the Court of Session are in use to pronounce and hold in judicial sales, or as shall appear to the said Judges necessary for fully carrying the purposes of this Act into execution.

XI. That the purchaser or purchasers in pursuance of this Act, and their heirs and assignees, shall, by the interlocutors or decrees of sale to be pronounced by the said Judges, and upon full payment of the price or prices for which they shall respectively purchase to such person or persons or in such way as they shall by the articles and conditions of sale be taken bound to pay the same, have a good and undoubted right to the lands and heritages so to be purchased by them, freed and discharged of all the conditions, provisions, limitations, and restrictions of such entail, and of all the debts, obligations, and burdens by which the said lands and heritages were affected, and from every other incumbrance, defect of title, or ground of eviction whatsoever, in as full and ample a manner, sort, and form as any purchaser of lands at a judicial sale before the Court of Session may, can, or ought to have by the law and practice of Scotland; and the heir of entail of the estate for the time being, or his or her tutors or curators or other legal guardians as aforesaid, shall and is or are hereby required to execute and deliver, under the authority of the said Judges of the Court of Session in either division thereof as aforesaid, all such dispositions and conveyances of such portions of such estates as shall be so sold, containing procuratories of resignation, precepts of assine, and other usual and necessary clauses as shall by the said Judges be deemed necessary and proper, in favour of such purchaser or purchasers, his, her, or their heirs and assignees, without incurring any irritancy or forfeiture, anything in such deed of entail to the contrary notwithstanding.

XII. Provided, That such parts of such entailed estate as shall not be sold under the authority of this Act, in the manner herein directed, shall remain and continue settled and entailed to and upon the same series of heirs, under the same prohibitory, irritant, and resolute clauses, provisions, and conditions as are contained in such deed of entail, but subject to the powers and provisions hereinbefore given by this Act.

XIII. That after such sale or sales are accomplished, and the purchase-money paid or consigned as aforesaid, the said Judges of the Court of Session in either division thereof shall issue their warrants or decrees for payment out of the money so paid or consigned, of the expenses of the proceedings attending such petition, inquiry and sale, and also of the amount of such debts, obligations, or burdens affecting or which might be made to affect such entailed estate as aforesaid of which such portions have been sold as aforesaid; and every creditor in such debt, obligation, or burden shall upon receiving payment be obliged to execute a complete discharge of his or her debt, right, or claim; and the several discharges shall be registered in the books of council and session.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 43 Geo. 3. c. 69, for repealing the duties of Excise payable in Great Britain, and for granting other duties in lieu thereof, certain duties of Excise were granted and imposed for every yard square of paper which should be printed, painted or stained in Great Britain to serve for hanging or other uses, over and above the duties payable for such paper before the printing, painting, or staining thereof, and certain drawbacks were made payable on the exportation of paper so printed, painted, or stained ; and that by 5 Geo. 4. c. 55. for assimilating the duties and drawbacks on hides, skins, leather, parchment, paper, and paper-hangings manufactured in Ireland to the duties and drawbacks payable on the like articles in Great Britain, and for equalizing the measures and weights whereby the duties of Excise and Customs should be payable throughout the United Kingdom, the like duties and drawbacks were granted, imposed, and made payable on paper printed, painted, or stained in Ireland : And that it is expedient that the said duties and drawbacks, with the duties payable on licences taken out by printers, painters, and stainers of paper, should be repealed : And that by the said recited Acts respectively the duties of Excise on paper and other articles of paper or paper materials made in Great Britain and Ireland are imposed and charged on such paper and other articles according to the class or denomination thereof, whether first class or second class, distinguished by the materials from which such paper or other articles may be made : And that the said distinction of first and second class paper is found inconvenient ; and it is therefore expedient to reduce the duties, allowances, and drawbacks of Excise now payable on paper and other articles of the first class made in the United Kingdom, and, in lieu thereof, to render the same liable only to the duty now payable on paper of the second class, so as to impose one uniform duty, and to reduce the allowances and drawbacks in proportion :—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the 5th of July 1836 all the duties of Excise on paper printed, painted or stained in the United Kingdom, and all drawbacks on such paper exported therefrom, and all duties on licences to be taken out by any printer, painter or stainer of paper, shall be and the same are hereby repealed : Provided always that any of the said duties which may have been charged on or before the said 5th of July 1836, and any arrear thereof, and any drawback which may be payable on any such printed, painted, or stained paper duly exported on or before the said 5th of July 1836, shall be payable and paid ; and all such duties and drawbacks, and all fines, forfeitures, pains, and penalties incurred in relation to the duties and drawbacks, hereby repealed on or before the said 5th of July shall and may be sued for, levied, and recovered and paid in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed.

II. That from and after the 10th of October 1836 the duties, allowances, and drawbacks of Excise now payable on paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, and scale-board made in the United Kingdom of materials of the first class, shall cease and determine ; Provided always, that any of the said duties which may have been charged on or before the said 10th of October 1836, and any arrear thereof, and all allowances on any such paper which shall become due or payable on or before that day, and all drawbacks in respect of any paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, or any books, exported on or before the said 10th of October 1836, payable at the higher rate of the first class, shall be paid at such rate, and may be sued for, levied, and recovered in the same manner as if such duties, allowances, and drawbacks had not been repealed.

III. That from and after the said 10th of October 1836 the duty of 1½d. for every pound weight avoirdupois now charged and payable on paper of the second class shall be charged and paid on all paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, and scale-board, of whatever kind or description, which shall be made in the United Kingdom, without reference to the sort, kind, or quality of the materials employed in the manufacture thereof.

IV. That from and after the said 10th of October 1836 the allowances and drawbacks of Excise payable on paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, and scale-board made in the United Kingdom of materials of the first class, and on books, shall be reduced and paid at the rate of 1½d. for every pound weight avoirdupois thereof, being the duty now payable on paper of the second class, and hereafter to be charged on all paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, and scale-board of every description.

And after noticing that it is difficult to weigh paper printed, painted, or stained, and it is therefore necessary to grant the drawback thereon in respect of the duty charged on the paper when made by the square yard ;—

It is Enacted,

V. That for every dozen square yards of paper printed, painted, or stained in the United Kingdom, and exported as merchandise, there shall be granted and paid a drawback of 2d.

VI. That the said duties by this Act extended and made general shall continue under the management of the Commissioners of Excise, and that the said duties and the allowances and drawbacks hereby reduced shall continue to be respectively raised, levied, collected, and recovered, allowed and paid, in such and the like manner as heretofore, and all and every pain, penalty, fine, and forfeiture of any nature or kind whatever for any offence committed against or in breach of any Act or Acts of Parliament on and immediately before the commencement of this Act, for securing the revenue of Excise or any duties under the management of the Commissioners of Excise respectively, or for the regulation or improvement thereof, and the several clauses, powers, and directions therein contained, shall be and are hereby directed and declared to continue and to extend to, and the same shall be respectively applied, practised, and put in execution for and in respect of the said several duties, allowances, and drawbacks of Excise, in as full and ample a manner as if all and every the said Acts, clauses, provisions, powers, directions, pains, penalties, fines, and forfeitures, were particularly repeated and re-enacted in the body of this Act.

That from and after the said 10th of October 1836 no maker shall be required to write on the label affixed on the wrapper or cover of any ream or parcel of paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, button paper, button-board, mill-board, paste-board, or scale-board, the class or denomination thereof, anything in any Act or Acts to the contrary notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by an Act, 1 Geo. 4. c. 58, intituled, ' An Act for the better securing the Excise Duties on Paper and Pasteboard,' every stationer and other person is required, upon opening any ream of paper, or parcel of mill-board, button-board, button paper, glazed paper, sheathing paper, paste-board, or scale-board, forthwith to permanently cancel, deface, and obliterate the label, and the several stamps and impressions of stamps thereon, and on the wrappers and covers of every such ream or parcel, and every part of such label, stamps and impressions respectively, without separating, detaching, or taking such label from off such cover or wrappers, under a penalty of 200l. for each such wrapper, cover, or label : And that such penalty of 200l. is excessive ;—

It is Enacted,

III. That after the said 1st of October such debtor may present to the sheriff of the county in which he has his ordinary domicile a petition, setting forth that he has been charged, and that a warrant to imprison has been issued against him, or that he is liable to imprisonment under a small debt decree, or that he is in prison, or has been imprisoned and afterwards liberated, in respect of a civil debt; that he is unable to pay his debts, and is ready to surrender his estates for behoof of his creditors, and praying for interim protection against the execution of diligence, and for decree of cessio bonorum; in which petition he shall insert a list of all his creditors, specifying their names and designations and places of residence, so far as known to him; and with such petition he shall produce (as the case may be) the schedule of an expired charge, or a copy certified by the clerk of the small debt court, of the warrant on which he is liable to imprisonment, or if he be in prison, or imprisoned and thereafter liberated, a certificate from the keeper of the prison of such imprisonment and the date thereof, and of the liberation.

That if the Court of Session be sitting the reclaiming note shall be enrolled as soon as conveniently can be, and the Court shall pronounce judgment, or remit the cause to the sheriff with such instructions as to them shall seem fit, or to the Lord Ordinary on the bills during vacation or during the Christmas recess.

X. That if the Court of Session be not sitting when the reclaiming note has been lodged, the cause shall, as soon as thereafter may be convenient, be transmitted to the bill chamber clerk, and enrolled in a roll to be kept for that purpose in the bill chamber; and the Lord Ordinary on the bills shall, on a day to be specified in that roll, hear parties viâ voce, and pronounce judgment as hereinbefore provided; and for the purposes of this Act he shall possess during the vacation and the Christmas recess the powers competent to the inner house during session, but his judgment shall be subject to review in manner herein-after mentioned; and if the proceedings have not been brought to a termination before the Lord Ordinary on the bills at the commencement of the ensuing session, the cause shall be re-transmitted and enrolled before the inner house, which may give judgment therein as if it had been enrolled or had continued without interruption before the inner house.

XII. XIII. That if the court of session be not sitting at the time when the said report has been made by the sheriff, the cause may be enrolled in a roll to be kept for that purpose in the Bill Chamber, and the Lord Ordinary on the bills shall, on a day to be specified in that roll, hear parties viduo and pronounce judgment; and if the court of session be sitting when the report of the said examination is made, but the proceedings cannot be brought to a termination before the expiration of the session, or before the commencement of the Christmas recess, the Inner House may remit the cause to the said Lord Ordinary to proceed therein during vacation or the Christmas recess in the same way as if the cause had been enrolled in the Bill Chamber in manner above provided; and if the proceedings have in any case not been brought to a termination before the Lord Ordinary on the bills at the commencement of the ensuing session, the cause shall be enrolled before the Inner House, which may give judgment therein as if it had been enrolled, or had continued without interruption before the Inner House; and for the purposes of this Act the Lord Ordinary on the bills shall possess, during the vacation and the Christmas recess, the powers competent to the Inner House during session; but his judgment shall be subject to review in manner hereinafter mentioned.

XVI. That the decree pronounced by the Inner House, or by the Lord Ordinary on the bills, or by the sheriff, granting the benefit of cessio bonorum, shall operate as an assignment of the debtor's moveables in favour of any trustee mentioned in the decree for behoof of the creditors: Provided always, that it shall be optional to the creditors to require the debtor to execute a dispositio omnium bonorum, as has been hitherto granted in processes of cessio before the court of session, in favour of the trustee, the expense of which deed shall be paid out of the funds thereby conveyed.

XVII. That if the decree of cessio be refused in hoc statu either by the court of session or the sheriff, the debtor may at any time thereafter, without the necessity of raising any new summons or presenting any new petition, apply to have decree of cessio pronounced in his favour; and if the decree has, on review by the court of session, been refused in hoc statu, the debtor may either apply to that court for decree, or present a new petition to the sheriff, in which latter case proceedings shall take place as if no former petition had been presented, and the debtor shall in all cases of a renewed application give notice thereof in such manner as shall be appointed either by the court of session or sheriff respectively.

XVIII. That it shall not be lawful to ordain the debtor to wear the dyvours habit; and he shall be required to prove his insolvency (if the same shall be denied) as by law presently established; and he shall be bound to make oath or affirmation, in cases before the sheriff as well as in those before the court of session, in the same terms as the oath hitherto administered in processes of cessio in the court of session; and an Act of the Parliament of Scotland, passed in the year 1696, intitled 'An Act for declaring notour Bankrupts,' shall be and is hereby repealed in so far as the said Act bears that "the

IV. That on such petition being presented the sheriff shall issue a warrant appointing the debtor to publish a notice in the Edinburgh Gazette, intimating that such petition has been presented, and requiring all his creditors to appear in court on a certain day, being not less than thirty days from the date of the Gazette notice, and within five days after the date of such notice to send letters to all the creditors specified in the petition, containing a copy of the said notice (paying the postage thereof), or, in his option, to cite them in terms of law, and which the debtor shall do accordingly, and the sheriff shall further ordain him to appear on the day so appointed for the comparance of the creditors in presence of the sheriff or his substitute for public examination; and the debtor shall, on or before the sixth lawful day prior to the day so appointed, lodge, to be patent to all concerned, a state of his affairs subscribed by himself, and all his books, papers, and documents relating to his affairs, in the hands of the sheriff clerk, together with a copy of the said Gazette, and if the letters have been sent through the Post Office a certificate subscribed by his agent, or by a messenger or sheriff officer and a witness, stating the date and the place where the letters were put into the Post Office, that the postage was paid, and that they were severally addressed as specified in the petition, or an execution subscribed by a messenger or sheriff officer and one witness, of citation of the creditors to whom such letters have not been so sent.

VI. That the sheriff shall, on such examination being taken, allow a proof to the parties if it shall appear necessary, and hear parties viâ voce, and shall make a note of any objections that may be stated on the part of the creditors, and either grant decree or refuse the same in hac statu, or grant it, subject to a declaration that it shall not be extractable or available as a protection to the debtor, for such time as shall appear proper, or make such other orders as may be necessary for the due administration of justice: Provided that where the sheriff shall grant decree under such limitation, or refuse decree in hac statu, he shall state the grounds of his decision, and the most summary despatch consistent with the forms of court shall be given, and the sheriff's note of the objections shall form part of the process.

VII. That if such decree be pronounced by the sheriff substitute it shall be competent to any person aggrieved to present a reclaiming petition against the same, provided that the petition be lodged within six days from the date of the judgment, and the sheriff substitute shall do therewith as shall be just; and in case the complainant shall intimate his desire in the petition that if the sheriff substitute be disposed to refuse the petition it may be laid before the sheriff, it shall be transmitted to the sheriff, who shall do therein as shall be just.

VIII. IX. That if the Court of Session be sitting the reclaiming note shall be enrolled as soon as conveniently can be, and the Court shall pronounce judgment, or remit the cause to the sheriff with such instructions as to them shall seem fit, or to the Lord Ordinary on the bills during vacation or during the Christmas recess.

X. XI. That where a summons of cessio bonorum is raised before the Court of Session the debtor shall publish a notice in the Edinburgh Gazette, intimating that the said summons has been raised, specifying in which division of the court it is to be enrolled, and requiring all his creditors to appear within thirty days from the date of the said Gazette notice; and he shall also send letters through the Post Office (paying the postage thereof) to each of the creditors specified in the summons to the same

After reciting that several Acts were passed in the 3 & 4 Will. 4, for consolidating the laws of the Customs, and it has been found necessary to make certain alterations and amendments therein :—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and operation for all the purposes mentioned therein.

And after reciting that by one of the said Acts, intituled, ‘An Act for the general Regulation of the Customs,’ provisions are made permitting the re-importation of certain goods legally exported from the United Kingdom, and that it is expedient to alter such provisions in the manner herein mentioned :—

It is Enacted,

11. That any goods which have been legally exported from the United Kingdom, and which shall afterwards be re-imported into the same, the real proprietor thereof being then absent therefrom, shall upon such re-importation be permitted to be entered by bill of store, provided the goods be such as are entitled to that privilege, on production of a declaration subscribed by such real proprietor setting forth the identity of the goods so exported and so returned, and that he was at the time of exportation from the United Kingdom, and will be at the time of re-importation thereinto, the proprietor of such goods, and that the same have not during such time been sold or disposed of to any other person; such declaration to be made before British Consul, Vice Consul, or other British authority residing in or near the place of residence of such real proprietor, and upon such further proof of the identity of the goods as the Commissioners of the Customs shall require, and upon compliance with all the other regulations required by law on the entry of goods by bill of store.

And after reciting that by the said last-mentioned Act it is provided, that all such foreign goods, derelict, jetsam, flotsam, and wreck, as cannot be sold for the amount of duty due thereon, shall be delivered over to the lord of the manor, or other person entitled to receive the same, and shall be deemed to be unenumerated goods, and shall be liable to and shall be charged with duty accordingly: And that it is expedient that such proviso should be repealed;—

It is Enacted,

III. That so much of the above-recited Act shall be and the same is hereby repealed: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, or for the officers of the Customs acting under their directions, to inquire into and receive proof of the extent to which any such goods shall have been damaged, and to make such abatement of the duties payable thereon as to them shall appear to bear a just proportion to the damage so ascertained to their satisfaction; anything in the said Act in respect of certain descriptions of goods to the contrary notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by the said last-mentioned Act all spirits, not being perfumed or medicinal spirits, or rum of and from the British possessions, are required to be imported into the United Kingdom in casks containing not less than forty gallons, and tobacco and snuff in certain cases are also required to be imported in hogsheads, casks, chests, or cases, each of which shall contain of net tobacco or snuff 450 pounds weight;—

It is Enacted,

IV. That the said restrictions shall not extend to any such spirits in casks of not less than twenty gallons, nor to any such tobacco or snuff in hogsheads, casks, chests, or cases, each of which shall contain of net tobacco or snuff 300 pounds weight.

And after reciting that the importation and exportation of certain goods into and from the United Kingdom and other dominions of His Majesty by the laws now in force is restricted to vessels of seventy tons burthen or upwards: and that by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 56, intituled, 'An Act to regulate the Admeasurement of the Tonnage and Burthen of the Merchant Shipping of the United Kingdom,' vessels are required to be admeasured according to the rules set forth in that Act, and in consequence thereof it has become expedient to reduce the tonnage to which such importations and exportations are restricted:

It is Enacted,

V. That it shall be lawful to import into or export from the United Kingdom, and other dominions of His Majesty, any such goods in vessels of sixty tons burthen and upwards, provided such vessels have been admeasured according to the rules prescribed by the last-mentioned Act.

And after reciting that by the said last-mentioned Act it is provided that the Collectors and Controllers of the Customs in certain cases may grant for any coasting ship a general transire, to continue in force for any time not exceeding one year; and that it is found expedient, for the greater accommodation of the coasting trade, that this provision should be extended;—

It is Enacted,

IV. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, whenever it shall appear to them to be necessary, to grant general transires, under such regulations and for such time as they may see fit, for the lading of any goods, and for the clearing the ship in which the goods shall be laden, and for the unloading of the goods at the place of discharge: Provided always, that such transires shall be written in the cargo books required by law to be kept by the masters of coasting vessels; provided also, that if the said Commissioners shall at any time revoke such transires, and notice thereof shall be given to the master or owner of the ship, or shall be given to any of the crew when on board the ship, or shall be entered in the cargo book by any officer of the Customs, such transires shall be void, and shall be delivered up by the master or owner of the ship.

And after reciting that goods found derelict, and articles under the denomination of goods jetsam, flotsam, and lagan, are frequently picked up at sea and brought into the ports of this kingdom, which, if not claimed by any owner within the period limited by law, belong of right to His Majesty in his office of Admiralty, but by reason of the smallness of their value would, if prosecuted to condemnation in the High Court of Admiralty, be wholly unproductive;—

It is Enacted,

VII. That whenever any such goods, whether picked up at sea or on the shore within the flow of the sea, shall be reported to the officers of the Customs, notice thereof shall be forthwith given by them to the Receiver General of Droits of Admiralty, and all such goods shall be placed at his disposal, subject however to the payment of the duties with which they shall be respectively chargeable; and in case the rightful owner thereof shall prove his claim thereto to the satisfaction of the said Receiver General within the period of twelve calendar months from the day on which they shall be so reported, such goods shall be restored to the owner on payment of the duties and necessary charges attending the care of the same, and a reasonable compensation, to the amount of one-third of the net value (after abating the duties and charges aforesaid), to the salvors thereof; but if no such claim shall be established within the period aforesaid, then such goods shall be deemed and taken and be condemned to His Majesty as droits of Admiralty, and may be sold by the said Receiver General, without any process from the High Court of Admiralty; and the net proceeds thereof, after payment of duties, salvage, and other charges as aforesaid, shall be disposed of by him and carried to the credit of the Consolidated Fund, in like manner as droits of Admiralty are by an Act, 1 Will. 4, for the support of His Majesty's household, and the honour and dignity of the Crown, directed to be applied; anything in any Act or Acts contained, or any law, statute, or usage, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by one other of the said Acts, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 53, intituled, 'An Act for the Prevention of Smuggling,' all boats belonging in the whole or in part to His Majesty's subjects found within certain limits are forfeited, unless the owners thereof have obtained a licence for navigating the same from the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs: And that it is expedient to dispense with such licences for boats used in fishing on the coasts of Scotland;—

It is Enacted,

VIII. That from and after the passing of this Act the owners of boats solely engaged in fishing on the coasts of Scotland shall not be required to obtain licences for navigating the same from the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs under the provisions of the same recited Act.

And after reciting that by 4 Will. 4. c. 13. persons duly convicted of certain offences in that Act mentioned before any two Justices of the Peace are to be adjudged by such Justices to be imprisoned in any house of correction, and there kept to hard labour for certain terms in that Act mentioned: and that there are certain counties, cities, boroughs, divisions, franchises, and towns corporate in the United Kingdom which have not any house of correction situate within or near the same;—

It is Enacted,

IX. That when any person shall have been duly convicted of any of the offences in the said Act mentioned before any two Justices of the Peace within whose jurisdiction there is no house of correction, it shall and may be lawful for such Justices, and they are hereby authorized and required, by warrant under their hands and seals, to commit such offender to any of His Majesty's gaols within their jurisdiction wherein the sentence of hard labour is or can be executed, or to the house of correction nearest to the place where such offender is convicted, for such time as is set forth in the said Act for a first, second, and third offence respectively; and the governor or keeper of such house of correction is hereby required to receive such offender and to obey such warrant in all respects as if such house of correction was within the jurisdiction of the said Justices.

X. That wherever any person shall have been detained and taken before any Justice of the Peace for unshipping, or for aiding, assisting, or being concerned in the unshipping, of any spirits or tobacco liable to forfeiture, under any Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or for carrying, conveying, or concealing, or for aiding, assisting, or being concerned in the carrying, conveying, or concealing, of any such spirits or tobacco, and it shall appear to such Justice that the quantity of spirits in respect of which such person has been so detained does not exceed one gallon, or that the quantity of tobacco in respect of which such person has been so detained does not exceed six pounds weight, it shall and may be lawful for such Justice and he is hereby authorized to proceed summarily upon the case without any information, and although no direction shall have been given by the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, and to convict such person of such offence, and to adjudge that such person shall, in lieu of any other penalty, forfeit any sum of money not exceeding 5*l.*, and in default of payment of such sum of money, to commit such person to any of His Majesty's gaols for any time not exceeding one month.

And after reciting that by 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 53. spirits found on board vessels within certain distances of the coast of the United Kingdom, not being in casks or packages containing forty gallons at the least, or any tobacco or snuff, not being in a cask or package containing 450 pounds weight at least, are made liable to forfeiture, and the persons found or discovered to have been on board such vessels to detention and prosecution on account thereof;—

It is Enacted,

XI. That in all cases where casks or packages containing spirits, tobacco, or snuff, found on board vessels within any such distances, are of such size or dimensions as may be legally imported into the United Kingdom, no such forfeiture, detention, and prosecution shall take place, but that in all other respects the forfeitures, detentions, and prosecutions set forth in the said Act shall attach and be in force as if this Act had not been made.

And after reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 56, intituled, 'An Act for granting Duties of Customs,' and that it is expedient to amend the same in the manner hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

XII. That instead of the duties imposed by the said last-mentioned Act and set forth in a Table thereunto annexed, denominated "A Table of Duties of Customs Inwards," the several duties set forth in figures in the Table hereinafter contained, and denominated "Table of New Duties, One thousand eight hundred and thirty-six," shall, in respect of such goods as are mentioned therein, be raised, levied, collected, and paid unto His Majesty, in like manner as if such duties had been imposed in and by the said Act, and had been set forth in the said Table thereunto annexed; (that is to say,)

It is Enacted,

1. That upon all assessments made or to be made for any year commencing from or at any time after the 5th of April 1836 the duties of assessed taxes granted and now payable under Schedule (D.), Number 3, of two several Acts, 48 and 52 Geo. 3, upon or in respect of carriages with four wheels kept for the purpose of being let to hire, with horses to be used therewith, as in the said Schedule is mentioned, shall, so far as the same relate to any such carriage drawn by one horse, mare, gelding, or mule, cease and determine, and in lieu thereof there shall be granted and paid upon or in respect of every such carriage so drawn as last aforesaid the reduced annual duty of 4*l.* 10*s.*, which said reduced duty shall be assessed, raised, levied, collected, and paid in like manner, and under and subject to the like rules, regulations, and conditions, as the duties now in force.

And after reciting that by 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 39, exemptions were granted from the duties of assessed taxes for and in respect of certain carriages with less than four wheels, constructed and used as therein described: And that it is expedient to give further relief by granting a more extended exemption in lieu thereof, as hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

II. That upon all such assessments as aforesaid the said exemptions contained in the said last-recited Act for and in respect of any carriages with less than four wheels shall be and the same are hereby repealed, and in lieu thereof there shall be granted the following exemption; (that is to say,) no duty of assessed taxes shall be charged or chargeable for or in respect of any carriage with less than four wheels, kept by any person for his or her own use, and not for hire or profit (except for the conveyance of prisoners or paupers, as hereinafter mentioned), and drawn by one horse, mare, gelding, or mule only, and not otherwise, whatever may be the form or construction of such carriage, or the materials with which the same shall be built or fitted up; provided that the price or value of such carriage, together with the cushion or cushions, and every or any other article or thing used therewith or belonging thereto, shall not exceed or at any time have exceeded the sum of £11.; and provided also, that such carriage shall have the christian name and surname and place of abode and occupation or calling of the owner and of every owner thereof painted in words at length and in legible and conspicuous Roman letters or characters two inches at the least in height, and of a proper and proportionate breadth, in one or more straight and horizontal line or lines, in white upon a black ground or in black upon a white ground, on a plain and even surface on the outside of such carriage, that is to say, upon the back part of the body thereof; or if there shall be no such back part, then upon the panel on the right or off-side of the body; or if there shall be no such panel, then upon some other conspicuous part of such side; or if there be no such side, then upon the outer part of the right or off-side shaft; and in such plain and conspicuous manner that the same shall be at all times visible and legible.

III. That no carriage of any description whatsoever, nor any horse or horses drawing the same, nor any person employed to drive such horse or horses, shall be charged or chargeable with any of the duties of assessed taxes on account or by reason of such carriage being used for hire or profit, or otherwise, in conveying any prisoner or prisoners to or from any prison, or in conveying any pauper or paupers at the expense of any parish, township, or union or of any person who may have contracted with any parish, township, or union for the conveyance of paupers.

And after noticing that by an Act, 52 Geo. 3, Schedule (C.), Number 1, the duties thereby granted and made payable for male servants are declared to extend to all servants employed in any of the capacities therein mentioned, except, amongst others, the drivers employed by persons licensed to sell wine, ale, or other liquors by retail to drive their carriages with horses let out to hire; and that it is expedient to grant relief from such duties for all such drivers, whether employed by such licensed persons or not;—

It is Enacted,

IV. That upon all such assessments as aforesaid the said last-mentioned duties shall not be charged or chargeable for or upon any driver employed by any person duly licensed to let horses for hire to drive his carriage or carriages with a horse or horses let out to hire, in such manner that the duty on horses let for hire shall be payable by law in respect of the horse or horses so let out to hire with every such carriage.

And after noticing that it is expedient that the soldiers allowed by the regulations of the public service to be employed as servants by general officers and officers of the staff in the army should not be chargeable to such officers with the duties of assessed taxes;—

It is Enacted,

V. That upon all such assessments as aforesaid all general officers and all officers of the staff in the army shall be exempt from the duties of assessed taxes for so many male servants, being actually soldiers in the army, employed by such officers respectively as are or may be allowed to them respectively by the regulations of the public service, in whatever capacity such soldiers may have been or may be employed, and without regard to any other male servants retained or kept by such officers, and for which they may be respectively liable to be assessed; provided that all such servants for which such exemption as aforesaid is hereby granted shall be duly returned to the assessor, and the said exemption shall be claimed in the manner directed by the laws in force with regard to other exemptions from the duties of assessed taxes.

And after reciting that under and by virtue of the said Act, 52 Geo. 3, exemption from the duties payable for male servants retained or employed in the several capacities mentioned in Schedule (C.), Numbers 1 and 2, to the said Act annexed is granted to every officer in His Majesty's Navy under the rank of a master and commander in actual employ for one servant borne upon the books of the ship to which such officer shall belong: and that it is expedient to extend the said exemption in the manner hereinafter mentioned;—

It is Enacted,

VI. That upon all such assessments as aforesaid the said exemption shall be and is hereby extended and granted to every officer of His Majesty's Navy, of whatever rank, in actual employ, for any number of servants borne upon the books of the ship to which such officer shall belong and employed by him, in whatever capacity any such servant may be employed, and without regard to any other male servants retained or kept by such officer, and for which he may be liable to be assessed: Provided always, that all such servants shall be duly returned to the assessor, and the exemption claimed in the manner directed by law with regard to other exemptions from the duties of assessed taxes.

And after reciting that by 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 120, it is enacted that every carriage used or employed as therein mentioned, and which when passing along any highway or other road shall travel at the rate of three miles or more in the hour, shall be deemed and taken to be a stage carriage within the meaning of the said Act, provided as therein also mentioned: And that it is expedient to permit certain carriages to travel at a rate exceeding three miles in the hour without being deemed to be stage carriages;—

It is Enacted,

VII. That from and after the passing of this Act no carriage shall by reason of the rate of travelling be deemed or taken to be a stage carriage within the meaning of the said Act unless the same shall travel at the rate of four miles or more in the hour.

And after reciting that by 5 Geo. 4. c. 44, the inspectors or surveyors acting in the execution of the Acts relating to the duties of assessed taxes are authorized and empowered to charge according to the provisions of the said Acts any person chargeable with the duty payable by persons in respect of their taking or killing game, or doing other acts by which they are rendered liable to the said duty, and who shall have omitted to pay the said duty and obtain a certificate as by the said Acts directed, without any previous information and conviction of the offender in the penalty for any such offence, provided every such charge be made within a period limited by the said Acts and in the single duty only; and that doubts have arisen as to the period limited by the said Acts for making any such last-mentioned charge, and it is expedient to remove such doubts, and to amend the said last-recited enactment in the manner hereinafter mentioned;—

It is Enacted,

VIII. That where any person who shall be chargeable with the said duty payable by persons in respect of their taking or killing game, or doing other acts by which they are rendered liable to the said duty, shall omit to pay the said duty or to obtain a certificate as by the said Acts is directed, it shall be lawful for any such inspector or surveyor as aforesaid to charge any such person with the said duty at any time on or before the 5th of April next after such person shall have become so chargeable, and whether such person shall have been previously convicted of any such offence as aforesaid or not, subject nevertheless to appeal according to the provisions and directions of the said Acts; and upon every such charge as last aforesaid, which shall be allowed or confirmed by the said Commissioners of Taxes, the assessment shall be made in double the rate of duty chargeable; and it shall not be lawful for the said Commissioners to remit or strike off any part of the said double duty; anything in any Act or Acts contained to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 32, intituled, 'An Act to amend the Laws in England relative to Game,' it is enacted, that where any person shall be charged on the oath of a credible witness with any offence punishable upon summary conviction, by virtue of the said last-mentioned Act before a Justice of the Peace the Justice may summon the party charged to appear before himself or any one or two Justices of the Peace, as the case may require, at a time and place to be named in such summons, and if such party shall not appear accordingly, then the Justice or Justices may proceed in the case in the manner directed by the said Act; and that it is expedient to explain and amend the said enactment as hereinafter mentioned;

It is Enacted and Declared,

IX. That upon any information made or exhibited before a Justice of the Peace of any such offence as aforesaid it shall not be necessary that the charge contained in such information should be made on the oath of the informer or prosecutor in such case; provided that before any proceeding shall be had or taken upon such information, either for summoning the party accused or compelling his appearance to answer the same, the charge contained in such information shall be deposed to on the oath of some other person or persons being a credible witness or credible witnesses.

And after noticing that by law the appointment of Collectors of Land Tax in Scotland is now vested in the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and by certain statutes it is provided that the collection of certain local and other taxes and assessments and the performance of certain acts should be made and done by Collectors of the Land Tax, and it is expedient in such matters to substitute for the Collectors of the Land Tax the Collectors of county, city, and town assessments respectively, or such other person or persons as the Commissioners of Supply shall appoint in that behalf;—

It is Enacted,

X. That with respect to all local taxes and assessments, and other matters and duties in Scotland not affecting His Majesty's revenue of Land or Assessed Taxes, as to which the Collector of the Land Tax is mentioned, or has matters or things to do or has powers granted to him, such matters or things shall be and are hereby required to be done by, and such powers shall be and are hereby granted to the Principal Collector or Collectors, or officer or officers of the nature of principal Collector or Collectors of county, city, or town assessments respectively, or to such other person or persons as the Commissioners of Supply shall appoint in that behalf, as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if in such statutes respecting local and other matters the words Principal Collector of County, City, or Town Assessments respectively, or officer of the nature of such principal collector or such person or persons as the Commissioners of Supply shall appoint in that behalf, had been inserted as to such matters instead of the words Collector of the Land Tax or other words descriptive of the office of Collector of the Land Tax.

XI. Provided, That notwithstanding the transfer of the appointment of Collectors of the Land Tax in Scotland to the said Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners of Supply or other persons by whom Collectors of the Land Tax were appointed before such transfer continue to have and shall have full power to appoint collectors and other officers in regard to the county, city, or town assessments, formerly collected by Collectors of the Land Tax; and such Collectors of county, city, or town assessments, and other officers, shall have in regard to such assessments all the powers exercised in regard to such assessments by the Collectors of the Land Tax.

And after reciting that the Collectors of the Land and Assessed Taxes in Scotland are now appointed by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and doubts have arisen touching the liability of the several counties and burghs in Scotland charged with the raising, collecting, and paying over of the said taxes to answer for the failure or default of such collectors so appointed; and it is just and reasonable that such counties and burghs should be relieved from such liability as aforesaid, and that all doubts touching the same should be removed;—

It is Enacted and Declared,

XII. That no county or burgh in Scotland shall be liable to make good or to be assessed or re-assessed for any defalcation or deficiency in the collection of the land tax or assessed taxes which shall or may be occasioned by the failure or default of any collector or collectors appointed or to be appointed as aforesaid.

gold or silver plate or ware to be assayed and marked, for the assaying and marking thereof, such sums of money as shall be found necessary for defraying the expenses of such assay office, and such sums shall or may be levied in respect of such plate or ware, either in proportion to the weight thereof, or by the piece upon any single piece of such plate or ware which shall not exceed if of gold the weight of one ounce, or if of silver the weight of three ounces; provided always, that such sums, where the same shall be levied by weight, shall not exceed the rate of 1s. for every ounce of gold, and 1d. for every ounce of silver, and so in proportion for any greater or less quantity; and that such sums, where the same shall be levied by the piece, shall not exceed 1s. for each piece of gold plate or ware, or 3d. for each piece of silver plate or ware; and such incorporation and company respectively shall from time to time fix and appoint such sums so to be levied upon each ounce weight or upon each piece, according to the nature and description thereof, and hang up and maintain in their assay office a table of the rates for the time exigible by the assayer for the assaying and marking of plate and ware, which rates so fixed from time to time shall, with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned, be charged and levied equally in respect of all plate and ware of the same species and weight or description which shall be assayed and marked at such assay office; and no reduction or advance which may be made, as hereinafter provided, in the said rates shall, either directly or indirectly, be made partially or in favour of or against any particular person or class of persons, but every such reduction or advance shall extend to all plate and ware of the same species and weight or description, and to all persons sending the same to be assayed and marked as aforesaid: Provided always, that such assayer or other person aforesaid shall deduct from the amount of the rates or sums demanded in respect of any parcel of plate or ware which shall be sent to such assay office from any distance greater than thirty miles therefrom a sum not greater than one third of the amount of such rates or sums for or in respect of the expense of the carriage of such parcel to and from such assay office.

vii. That the portion of the drawings or scrapings of each piece of gold or silver plate or ware so taken by the assayer as aforesaid for the purpose of making his assays shall be assayed by him, and if the same shall be found to be of a quality inferior to that standard with the marks denoting which the owner or owners thereof shall have required the piece wherefrom such drawings or scrapings shall have been taken to be marked, such piece shall be broken and defaced, and in such defaced state returned to the owner; and such pieces as the said assayer shall ascertain to be of equal or superior fineness to the standard for denoting which the said owner or owners shall have required the same to be marked shall be marked by the assayer with the marks hereby directed to be provided in that behalf, and delivered to the owner or bringer of such plate (he paying for the assay and marking thereof such sums as are hereby authorized to be charged and levied for assaying and marking such plate); and the drawings or scrapings belonging to such piece so marked shall be taken out of the assayer's box, and shall be deposited in boxes to be called the diet boxes to be provided for that purpose, the one of which shall be the box for gold and the other the box for silver, and in each of which boxes there shall be two compartments in such part thereof as shall be appropriated to the standard the marks of which shall have been stamped on the piece from which such drawings or scrapings shall have been taken, and each of such diet boxes shall be locked with two different locks, the respective keys whereof shall be kept by the said deacon and chairman or presses respectively and by the assayer, and the said boxes shall not be opened except in the presence of the said court of wardens and the said assayer, and none of the scrapings or drawings shall be taken out of either of such boxes except for the purpose of trial of the diet annually as hereinafter directed; and the other portion of the said scrapings or drawings, or so much thereof as shall remain after the assay thereof, shall be deposited together in the assayer's box in the part thereof to be appropriated for that purpose, and the same shall be disposed of in manner hereinafter directed.

VIII. That the assayer of the said incorporation or company respectively shall, in the presence of the respective wardens thereof, four times in every year duly weigh all the drawings and scrapings deposited in the assayer's boxes, and enter the true weight thereof in a book to be kept for that purpose; and it shall then be lawful for the said wardens to sell such drawings and scrapings; and the produce of such sale shall be entered in their book of receipts and payments for and on the account of their said assay office, and shall be applied towards the expenses of such office.

IX. That the diet boxes belonging to the said incorporation and company respectively shall once in every year be opened in presence of the assayer and wardens thereof, who shall cause the diets contained therein, with a note of the alleged standards thereof respectively, to be delivered to such person or persons as shall from time to time be appointed by the Lord High Treasurer of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury or any three or more of them, for the trial of gold and silver plate in Scotland, and such person or persons shall give to the assayer whose diets are to be tried notice of the time and place appointed for such trial, in order that he may be present thereat if he thinks fit; and if upon such trial the said diets shall be found equal or superior to the alleged standards thereof respectively, then and in such case such person or persons shall return the said diets to or to the order of the wardens of the said incorporation and company respectively, who are hereby authorized to sell and dispose thereof, and, having entered the produce thereof in the book of receipts and payments of their said assay office, to pay and apply such produce for and towards the expenses of such assay office.

X. Provided, That if on the said trial the said diets or any of them shall be found inferior in fineness to the alleged standards thereof respectively, the assayer belonging to the said incorporation or company whose diets shall be so tried, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 100*l.*, to be levied, recovered, and applied in manner hereinafter mentioned.

XI. That every warden and assayer to be hereafter appointed by the said incorporation of Goldsmiths of Edinburgh, or Glasgow Goldsmiths Company, shall before entering upon their respective offices take an oath de fidei administratione, which oath the deacon or clerk of the said incorporation or company respectively is hereby required and empowered to administer to the said wardens and assayers respectively.

XII. That the assayers, wardens, or other officers of the said incorporation and company respectively shall not discover, by description in words or otherwise, to any person or persons whatsoever any pattern, design, or invention of any piece of gold or silver plate brought or to be brought to their respective assay offices to be assayed as aforesaid, or permit the same to be viewed or seen by any person whatsoever except by the persons necessarily employed or to be employed in their said assay offices; and such assayers respectively shall keep a book or books wherein shall be entered the names of every owner of plate brought to be assayed, and the several species and standards of plate assayed, and an account of the money received for the assaying thereof, and likewise an account of the monies arising from the drawings and scrapings of plate, and the times when the same shall be sold in manner hereinbefore directed, and also an account of the salaries and wages of the officers and servants, and of the other incidental expenses attending the carrying of this Act into execution; and every member of such incorporation and company respectively shall have free access to and inspection of such books; and if any such warden, assayer, or other officer shall, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act, discover any pattern or invention as aforesaid, such warden, assayer, or other officer shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 100*l.*, to be levied, recovered, and applied in manner hereinafter mentioned.

XV. Provided, That in case the said sums or rates hereby allowed to the said incorporation and company respectively for the assaying and marking of plate shall in the whole be more than sufficient to defray the expenses of such assay offices respectively, the overplus shall be applied by such incorporation or company to which such assay office shall belong in the prosecution of suspected offenders against this Act; and if such overplus shall be more than shall be required for that purpose, such incorporation or company shall respectively reduce their rates or sums hereby authorized to be levied as aforesaid, or such of them as they in their discretion shall think proper to be reduced, to such rates or sums as will answer the purposes before mentioned without bringing any profit to such incorporation or company: Provided always, that if such reduced rates shall at any time be found insufficient for the purposes before mentioned, the same may be raised again as much as shall be necessary for such purposes, such rates however never exceeding the rates hereinbefore authorized to be levied; and the said assayers of the said incorporation and company respectively are hereby authorized and empowered to levy and take such reduced or raised rates or sums in manner hereinbefore provided with respect to rates or sums which may be originally imposed.

By this Act,

After reciting that the duties by law charged and payable on spirits made or distilled in the respective parts of the United Kingdom are, for every gallon of spirits of the strength of hydrometer proof made or distilled in England, 7s. 6d. ; for every gallon of such spirits made or distilled in Scotland, 3s. 4d. ; and for every gallon of such spirits made or distilled in Ireland, 2s. 4d. : And that such differences in the respective amounts of the said duties operate unfairly and unjustly on the manufactures of all mixtures, compounds, and preparations into the manufacture of which spirits enter as the basis, or a principal ingredient or material thereof, and injuriously to the revenue when such articles are manufactured in and removed from that part of the United Kingdom paying the lower duty into those parts of the United Kingdom in which the higher duties are charged and paid, and also further operate as prohibitions to the removal of such articles from those parts of the United Kingdom paying the higher duty to the parts in which the Excise duties are chargeable : And that by the respective Acts of Union between England and Scotland and Great Britain and Ireland it is intended that all the subjects of the United Kingdom should as far as possible be placed on an equality in respect of trade and manufactures, and it is therefore necessary and expedient, in conformity with such intention, that countervailing duties should be imposed on the removal from Ireland to England or Scotland, or from Scotland to England, of the respective mixtures, compounds, preparations, and commodities in the Schedule to this Act mentioned, according to the quantity of proof spirit usually employed in the manufacturing and compounding of the same, and that corresponding drawbacks should be allowed : And that by 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 75. certain additional duties of Excise were imposed on Excise licences taken out by retailers of spirits in Great Britain and Ireland : And that it is expedient to repeal the said additional duties : And that it is expedient to allow spirits made or distilled in the United Kingdom to be warehoused in casks of a lesser size than eighty gallons, and to remove the restriction on retailers of spirits not to have more than ten gallons of spirits of wine in stock, and to repeal so much of 2 Will. 4. c. 29. as prevents any distiller in Scotland and Ireland from giving notice to distil from malt during the remainder of his licence, after having distilled from raw grain, and to restore the provision contained in an Act, 4 Geo. 4 :—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the 1st of September 1836 there shall be raised, levied, collected, and paid unto His Majesty, his heirs and successors, upon the several mixtures, compounds, preparations, and commodities mentioned and described in the Schedule to this Act annexed, on the removal of the same from Ireland to Scotland or England or from Scotland to England respectively, the several sums of money and duties of Excise as they are respectively inserted, described, and set forth in the said Schedule ; and that there shall be allowed and paid, on the removal of such mixtures, compounds, preparations, and commodities from England to Scotland or Ireland, or from Scotland to Ireland, the several drawbacks of Excise also respectively inserted, described, and set forth in the said Schedule.

IV. tioned, appoint some proper person to be assistant registrar; and as vacancies may occur in the office of any of the present clerks or assistant clerks, such vacancies shall not be filled up until the whole number of clerks be reduced to six; and upon a vacancy happening after the number shall be reduced to six, the Lord Chancellor shall appoint some proper person to fill the office, and so from time to time until the whole of the present clerks shall be removed; and when a new succession of clerks shall be so appointed, then and in that case, upon the death, resignation, or removal of any of them, other than the junior clerk, the vacancy thereby occasioned shall be filled up by the clerk next in seniority to whom no sufficient objection to the satisfaction of the Lord Chancellor shall be made; and that on all future vacancies in the office of junior clerk the Lord Chancellor shall appoint some proper person to be such junior clerk; and that upon a vacancy happening in the office of assistant registrar after the whole number of clerks shall have been appointed by the Lord Chancellor under this Act, then such vacancy shall be filled up by the senior clerk in the said office for the time being to whom no sufficient objection to the satisfaction of the Lord Chancellor shall be made.

XII. That the said registrars shall attend the court of the Lord Chancellor and the court of the Master of the Rolls as heretofore; and that the duty of the assistant registrar shall be to attend and superintend the general business of the office; and such assistant registrar shall be and he is hereby empowered to countersign the drafts of the Accountant General, and to sign official documents, and to do all official acts necessary in the execution of the duties of the office, in the same manner as the said registrars are authorized to do.

XIII. That the registrars of the said court shall receive the fees and emoluments which they are now or which at any time hereafter they shall be authorized to receive, and shall thereout pay to the said assistant registrar the salary or yearly sum of 1000*l.* and to the present clerks to the said registrars the several salaries or yearly sums set opposite to their respective names or titles in the first Schedule to this Act annexed, and to all future clerks to be appointed under and in pursuance of this Act the several salaries or yearly sums set forth in the second Schedule to this Act annexed; and the residue of such fees shall be appropriated as hereinafter directed.

XIV. That in case such fees, after payment of the several salaries aforesaid, and such sum as the Lord Chancellor for the time being may allow for books, paper, scrivenerly clerks, and other incidental and necessary expenses of the said office, shall exceed in amount the clear sum of 2000*l.* per annum to each of the present registrars, and 1500*l.* per annum to any future registrar to be appointed, such excess shall be paid over as after mentioned; and that any person to be hereafter appointed registrar on the happening of a vacancy in the office of either of the present registrars, the fees and emoluments of such future registrar shall be limited to the clear sum of 1500*l.* per annum.

XV. That for the purpose of ascertaining the fees and emoluments of the registrars for the time being they shall every quarter in the year, beginning on the quarter next after the commencement of this Act, account on oath before one of the Masters of this court for all fees and sums of money received by them or for their use, and of the sums from time to time paid by them thereout for salaries to the several officers aforesaid, and for other official expenses to be allowed as aforesaid; and whenever and so often as it shall appear by such account that the sums received by or payable to such registrars in any one quarter of a year shall exceed the clear sum of 500*l.* to each of the present registrars, or of 375*l.* to any future registrar to be appointed (after deducting thereout the salaries and expenses aforesaid), the said registrars shall, within fourteen days next after every such quarter of a year, pay the amount of such excess into the Bank of Ireland, to the credit of the Accountant General of the said Court, to be placed by him to the account to be intitled "The Suits Fee Fund Account."

XVI. That if at any time it shall appear by the said account that the sums received by or for the use of the registrars in respect of their said office in any one quarter, after making the deductions hereinbefore mentioned, shall be less than the sum of 500*l.* to each of the present registrars, and 375*l.* to any future registrar, the deficiency shall be paid to them by the said Accountant General out of the monies standing to the credit of "The Suits Fee Fund Account."

XVII. That if it shall hereafter appear to the Lord Chancellor that the business of any of the offices of the said court cannot be discharged with due dispatch without the assistance of an additional clerk or clerks, then and in such case it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time to direct that one or more additional clerk or clerks shall be appointed, with such salary and salaries as he shall deem proper, to be paid out of the funds of the respective offices to which such clerk or clerks shall be appointed; and such additional clerk or clerks shall be appointed by the Judge for the time being who may have the right of appointing the other clerks in the said office.

XVIII. That in case of illness or other necessary cause of absence it shall be lawful for any of the officers filling the respective offices hereinbefore mentioned, from time to time as occasion may require, to appoint a deputy, such deputy, and also the occasion for such appointment, to be first approved by the Judge on whom it shall be the duty of such officer to attend, upon a petition, to be verified by affidavit, for such time and under such regulations as the Judge shall direct; and no such appointment of a deputy shall continue for any longer time than shall be allowed and specified in and by the order which shall be made on such petition; and that such deputy shall be paid out of the salary or fees of such officer such sum as shall be directed by the said order.

XIX. That it shall not be lawful for any person who shall be appointed to hold any of the offices of the said court to act or practise, either in his own name or in the name of any other person or persons, as an attorney or solicitor in any of the courts at law or equity in Ireland; and in case it shall appear, by evidence to the satisfaction of the Lord Chancellor, that any such officer or person shall directly or indirectly, by himself or any other person in partnership with or in trust for him, act as such attorney or solicitor, the Lord Chancellor shall and may thereupon remove him from his office.

And after reciting, that it may be found expedient that the fee of 6*d.* in the pound payable to the usher of the Court of Chancery, or some portion thereof, should continue to be paid after the death of the present usher, in aid of the fund for providing compensation for the several officers aforesaid:—

It is Enacted,

xx. That such fee of 6*d.* in the pound now payable to the usher shall be continued to be deducted by the Accountant General during the life of the Hon. Richard Hobart Fitzgibbon, the present usher, and be paid over to him; and that in case after his death the Lord Chancellor shall consider it necessary that the said fee or any portion thereof shall be continued for the purpose of providing a fund for the payment of the compensation to be made to the said officers or any of them, it shall be lawful for him to make an order for continuing the payment of said fee or any portion thereof for any period he may think necessary, and from time to time to vary such order as he may think fit; and the Accountant General shall during the period specified in said order place the sums received in pursuance thereof to the credit of the said account to be intituled "The Sutors Fee Fund Account," anything in the said recited Act to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always however, that whenever the compensation to be made to the several officers aforesaid shall cease to be payable, and the sums, if any, advanced out of the Consolidated Fund in aid thereof shall have been repaid, the said fee shall absolutely cease and be abolished.

xxi. That any surplus monies standing in the name of the Accountant General to the account aforesaid, after paying and providing for the several charges thereon, shall from time to time be laid out and invested by the Accountant General, either in one entire sum or in parcels in the name of the said Accountant General, in government stock, and such stock shall be placed to the like account, and such surplus funds shall be subject to the same purposes, as the original funds with which the same were purchased.

xxii. That whenever it shall appear that the monies and securities standing to the account to be intituled "The Sutors Fee Fund Account," together with the interest and dividends thereof, and the fees expectant and to be payable to such account, shall be more than sufficient to answer and pay the several salaries and other payments for the time being chargeable thereon, and to repay such sum, if any, as may have been advanced out of the Consolidated Fund in aid thereof, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to abolish any fee, or to reduce other fees, as may to the said Lord Chancellor from time to time seem fit, and as the compensations payable thereout may cease.

And after reciting that by 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 78, after reciting that it was reasonable and just that the six clerks of the said court, being purchasers of and entitled to sell at pleasure their respective offices, should receive for any diminution of annual income, and also for any depreciation of purchase value of their offices, full and adequate compensation, and also that such of the other officers of the said court as the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury thereafter provided should think entitled thereto should also receive compensation for lawful fees and emoluments diminished or taken away, it was enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, by warrant under their hands, to order and direct that such compensation should be made to the said six clerks respectively, and to such other officers who then held office in or belonging to the said court, as the said Commissioners in their discretion should deem just and reasonable; and it was by the said recited Act further enacted, that the several and respective sums for compensation should be paid and payable out of the account called "An Account of the Interest and Produce of the Compensation and Fee Fund of the Sutors of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, as far as the same would extend; and in case the Sutors Fund should be inadequate to the payment of the whole amount of compensation, the amount beyond what could be satisfied out of the Sutors Fund should be charged upon and paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom; and it was by the said recited Act further enacted, that if any of the six clerks should sell his said office it should be lawful for him, at any time within six calendar months after such sale, to apply to the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for compensation for the diminution of value of his office, and in such case it should be lawful for the said Commissioners to order and direct that such annual or other compensation should be made to the six clerks as they should deem just and reasonable; and all such compensation, whether annual or in gross, should be charged upon and paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: And that the said six clerks being deprived of their offices by virtue of this Act, they are now entitled to be paid compensation as well in respect of their right of sale of their said offices as in respect of their annual income derived therefrom: And that it is reasonable and fit that compensation should also be made to the usher and also to the curitor of this court:—

It is Enacted,

xxiii. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being or any three or more of them, by warrant under his or their hand or hands, to order or direct such compensation in gross to be made to the said six clerks, for such their right of sale of their said offices, and also to order or direct such compensation to be made to the said six clerks and persons for such annual loss as they shall respectively sustain by reason of the provisions of this Act, as shall be just and reasonable; and such compensation shall be issued and paid and payable in manner hereinafter mentioned: Provided always, that such compensation to the curitor for his loss of office shall be regulated by the average annual amount of the emoluments of the said office for three years next preceding the 1st of November 1833, and that an account of all such compensation shall, within fourteen days next after the same shall be so granted, be laid upon the table of the House of Commons, if Parliament shall be then assembled, or if Parliament shall not be then assembled, within fourteen days after the meeting of Parliament then next following; and provided further, that the compensation to be made to the usher shall not exceed the annual amount of the income of his office on an average of the five years next preceding the 1st of November 1834, or be less than three-fourths of such amount.

xxiv. That for the better enabling of his Majesty's Treasury to form a correct judgment of the nature and amount of the compensation which it may be reasonable and proper to make to the said officers for their loss of office or diminished income under this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, if they shall think fit, to refer all claims for compensations to commissioners, as in the said before recited Act they are authorized to do with respect to claims thereunder.

xxv. That the several and respective sums as and for compensation which the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury shall by warrant or warrants as aforesaid order and direct to be paid to any officer shall be paid and payable to the officer or officers named in such warrant or warrants, in the first place, out of the funds standing to the credit of the account called "An Account of the Interest and Produce of the Compensation and Fee Fund of the Sutors of the Court of Chancery in Ireland,' as far as the same will extend, and, in the next place, out of the funds which may be standing to the credit of "The Sectors Fee Fund Account;" and in case both the said funds shall be inadequate to the payment of the whole of such compensation to be given under this Act, the amount of the compensation beyond what can be so satisfied shall be charged upon and paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom, without any fee or deduction whatsoever; and every such sum as and for annual compensation to be issued in pursuance of this Act shall be payable and paid quarterly on every 20th of January, 20th of April, 20th of July, and 20th of October, the first payment thereof to be made on the first of said quarterly days which shall next follow the day of the commencement of this Act.

And after noticing that the office of six clerk in the Court of Chancery of Ireland will be abolished by the provisions of this Act, whereby the several persons now acting as clerks in said offices (many of whom have been acting therein for a series of years) will be deprived of employment in such situation; and it is just and reasonable that compensation should be made to such persons for the loss of their several situations, and also to the clerk now employed in the office of the curator, and to Mr. David Daly and Joseph Whelan, clerks employed in the office of the registrars, for the loss of their offices by reason of this Act;—

It is Enacted,

XXVI. That it shall and may be lawful for the Masters of said court or any two or more of them to inquire into, by examination on oath or otherwise (which oath they are hereby authorized to administer), and ascertain the annual amount of the lawful fees, salaries, and emoluments of such clerks in the six clerks office received by them respectively for the three years preceding Michaelmas term, 1833, or for three years next preceding the commencement of this Act, at the option of said clerks or any of them, and in case of the said curator's clerk, for three years ending Michaelmas term, 1830, and in case of the said clerks in the registrar's office, for three years ending on the day of the commencement of this Act; and they are hereby required forthwith to ascertain the amounts thereof respectively, and to certify the same, in writing under their hands, to the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners for the custody of the Great Seal of Ireland for the time being, and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners for the custody of the Great Seal of Ireland for the time being, with the sanction of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, to order to all and every of said clerks who shall be so deprived of employment in said offices as aforesaid an annual sum or sums to be paid out of "The Sectors Fee Fund Account," and that such annual sum or sums shall be paid and payable to such person or persons and his or their assigns, during the term of his or their natural life or lives, by four quarterly payments in each and every year, free and clear of all taxes and deductions whatsoever, on every 20th of January, the 20th of April, the 20th of July, and the 20th of October, the first payment thereof to be made on the first of said days which shall next happen after the commencement of this Act, and also such proportion of any such quarterly payments as at the time of the decease of any such person or persons shall be due from the quarter day next preceding the time of such decease: Provided always, that the annual sum so to be payable to any of said clerks shall not exceed two-thirds of the average annual amount of the sums received by them respectively as such clerks for the periods aforesaid.

And after reciting that John Daly, who held for many years the office of chief clerk in the registrars office, became unable, in consequence of a severe illness, to discharge the duties of said office, and has received for some years an annual allowance of 400*l.*, which is paid as follows; that is to say, 200*l.* thereof by Yelverton O'Keefe, the present chief clerk, 100*l.* thereof by Francis Prendergast, one of the present registrars, and 100*l.* thereof by Charles O'Keefe, the other registrar; and it is expedient to provide that such annual allowance shall continue to be paid during the life of the said John Daly, in case he shall survive any of said persons;—

It is Enacted,

XXVII. That in case the said John Daly shall survive the said Francis Prendergast, Charles O'Keefe, or Yelverton O'Keefe, the person who shall be appointed to any office which shall become vacant by the death of any of them shall continue to pay to the said John Daly during his life so much of the said annual allowance as the person so dying has usually paid as aforesaid.

And after reciting that by the said last-recited Act it was enacted, that it should be lawful for every officer claiming compensation as therein mentioned, on the first day of Hilary term, 1836, and on every succeeding first day of Hilary term, and for one month thereafter in each year respectively, so long as the said officer should hold his office, to make out and render to the Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury an account in writing, to be verified as therein mentioned, of the gross and net emoluments of said office and of the disbursements thereof, in such form and with such particulars of receipt as the said Commissioners or any three or more of them, should require, and that the Lord High Treasurer or said Commissioners as aforesaid should ascertain as they should think proper the gross and net income of such office, and also the disbursements thereof, for and during the year for which such account should be rendered, and the amount of compensation to which he or they should deem such officer entitled for and during said year: And that inasmuch as by the operation of this Act the offices now held by some of said officers entitled to compensation under the provisions of the said recited Act will be abolished, and they will thereby be rendered incapable of making the returns directed by said Act;—

It is Enacted,

XXVIII. That it shall be lawful for such officers as may be disabled by the provisions of this Act from making the returns directed by said recited Act to make or cause to be made out and render to the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury accounts in the form and with such particulars of receipt and expenditure as is directed by said recited Act for the portion of the year intervening between the first day of last Hilary term and the day of this Act coming into operation, and the Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners as aforesaid shall ascertain as they shall think proper the compensation to which he or they shall deem such officer entitled for and during the said portion of the year, and that it shall be lawful for such Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners as aforesaid, or any three or more of them, by warrant or warrants under their hands, to order and direct such compensation to be made to said officers for such portion of the year as aforesaid as the said Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, in their discretion shall deem just and reasonable.

And after noticing that John Brennan, one of the six clerks of said court, is now, under the provisions of 4 Geo. 4. c. 61, and 6 Geo. 4. c. 30, entitled to an annual compensation for a diminution of the profits of his office, to be ascertained in the manner mentioned in those Acts, and that it will not now be practicable so to ascertain the amount of such composition,—

It is Enacted,

XXXI. That the sum of 932*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* present currency, equivalent to the sum of 1031*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* of late Irish currency, which was the sum payable to him in the year ending 1834 as and for his compensation under the said before-mentioned Acts, shall from and after the 3rd of November 1835 be taken to be the amount of the annual compensation payable to him under said Acts, and shall be paid to him out of the Consolidated Fund at the times and manner as directed by said Acts with respect to officers who have heretofore sold their respective offices under said Acts.
